Latin Trade Pacts Urged By Roosevelt

New Sweeping Policy Toward Russia Also Is Considered.

Hull to Keep Post and Draft Pan-American Conference Plans.

By Lawrence Sullivan
(Post Staff Correspondent).

Hyde Park, N. Y., Aug. 6.—In broad outline, President Roosevelt and Secretary of State Hull today sketched high points of a sweeping new foreign policy for the United States, a policy which will center on commercial relations with Latin America and Russia.

Without linking the new State Department program with the failure of the London Economic Conference to achieve immediate results, and while still professing hope that the technical commissions eventually will salvage something substantial from the London discussions, Secretary Hull indicated clearly that for the immediate future European relations will be secondary in the catalogue of American trade interests abroad.

Conference Stressed.

The development of the Pan-American conference at Montevideo next December into a regional economic assemblage of the first importance is the cardinal point in the revolutionary new foreign policy, as outlined here immediately before Secretary Hull's departure for Washington.

The new policy is the conception of the President himself, but Secretary Hull revealed in his resume of events at London that he was disposed to forward the program with genuine enthusiasm. He believes little can be accomplished in European affairs through either of the economic disarmament conferences in the near future, but that alluring trade opportunities still await immediate development in Latin America.

Negotiations looking to the development of reciprocal trade agreements with South American republics were launched during Secretary Hull's absence in London. These negotiations are to be the first objective of the State Department's new program. The attempt to restore political stability and civil tranquillity in Cuba is a phase of the new Pan-American policy. A new basis of relations with Haiti, which probably will be disclosed officially this week, is also a step in the same direction.

Hull Not to Quit.

Reports that Secretary Hull might seek to be relieved of his Cabinet duties were set at rest by President Roosevelt's statement that the task of preparing the ground for the Montevideo conference would be under the personal direction of the Secretary of State.

A second survey of European affairs was given to President Roosevelt tonight by Henry Morgenthau, sr., who returned last week from the League of Nations wheat conference at Geneva. After attending that gathering, Morgenthau moved on to the London Economic Conference. He gave the President a none too encouraging picture of political and economic conditions in Central Europe. President and Mrs. Roosevelt motored to the Morgenthau estate at Wipocee, Dutchess County, tonight for tea.

Earlier in the day the President and Mrs. Roosevelt had as dinner guests, Gov. and Mrs. Herbert H. Lehman of New York. Gov. Lehman gave the President a first-hand account of the spreading farmers' milk strike up State.

Brokers Will Protest New York City Tax

New York, Aug. 6 (U.P.).—More than 200 members of the New York Stock Exchange will appear in Albany Tuesday to protest a bill empowering New York City to levy a stock transfer tax of 4 cents a share, the stock exchange announced tonight.

In addition, representatives of up-State brokers and financial firms will join them at a hearing before the committee on taxation of the senate and the assembly. The stock exchange will be represented by Allen L. Lindley, acting president, and Roland L. Redmond and L. Randolph Mason, counsel.

Youth's Heart Stitched; He Is Expected to Live

Chicago, Aug. 6 (AP).—A knife wound in his heart closed by four stitches, Elihu Garmisa, 18, was given a better than even chance today to live. Garmisa was wounded by an unknown assailant as the youth walked home last night and plunged a knife squarely into his heart.

Dr. J. D. Koucky, staff physician who performed the operation, said the young man had a 3-to-1 chance to recover.

Lenore Ulric Is Suing Blackmer in Mexico

Hollywood, Aug. 6 (AP).—Sidney Blackmer, stage and screen actor, said today his wife, Lenore Ulric, also of the stage and screen, was suing him for divorce in Mexico.

"It was the old struggle between a home and a career," said Blackmer. "She still remains the finest person I ever met, and there is no other man or woman in the case."

Cuba Set to Use Army To End Havana Strike

Fighting Thought Sure; Envoy Welles Tries to Bring Peace.

Havana, Aug. 6 (U.P.).—Possible military occupation of Havana in the strike crisis was seen tonight as President Machado signed a decree authorizing police to relinquish their authority to military forces whenever the situation requires.

The decree, posted throughout the city, also ordered the army to assume authority without notice under such circumstances.

The existence of an "intense alteration in public order in Havana and throughout the national territory" was cited in the decree.

Plans Using Coercion.

President Machado tonight called Congress to meet at 3 p. m. tomorrow to authorize suspension of constitutional guarantees and permitting the administration to utilize the army in an effort to break the swiftly spreading general strike against his regime.

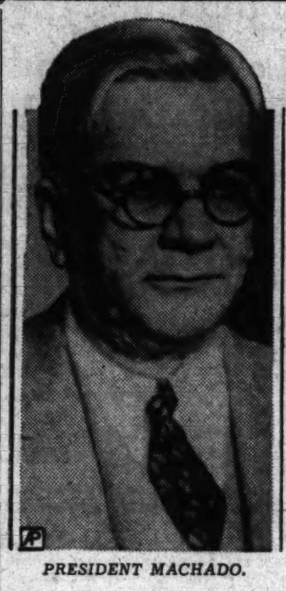
The president planned to compel the strikers to return to work. Bloodshed was believed inevitable if troops go into action. The strike leaders, in ugly mood, threatened open rebellion.

A food and ice shortage menaced Havana and surrounding districts, adding to the confusion and unrest. Grocers joined in the strike, called as a gesture against the Machado government, which practically has paralyzed life in the troubled island republic.

Police Fire From Automobiles.

The police during the night fired on persons along the streets regarded as suspicious characters. They fired from passing automobiles, terrorizing the public. Many instances of brutality were reported.

Ambassador Sumner Welles, of the United States, seeking to mediate between Machado and the president's political opponents, conferred with representatives of political parties of all groups during an exciting day. He also conferred with Machado.



PRESIDENT MACHADO.

Britain Laying Plans to Build Stronger Navy

(Copyright, 1933, by United Press.)

London, Aug. 6 (U.P.).—A substantial addition to the British navy, to include several new powerful cruisers and destroyers, is being planned by the admiralty for inclusion in the next budget, it was learned tonight.

Building up of the British navy is a sequel to the heavy naval building program recently announced by the United States, Japan, France and Italy—the other chief sea powers.

The extent to which the government, under the aggressive leadership of Sir Bolton Eyres Monsell, first lord of the admiralty, is prepared to go in entering the world naval construction race was not revealed.

The construction will be in the nature of a replacement program, it was indicated, the ostensible reasons back of the plan being to replace obsolete battle ships with swifter, lighter but more efficient men-of-war.

It was understood that the program could not be completed before 1936, and the new ships would therefore not come under the London naval treaty, signed in 1930 by Britain, the United States and Japan, limiting tonnages. The treaty runs until then, when another conference is to be held to decide on future tonnages and comparative naval stretch.

Standley Unconcerned Over British Fleet Plan

(United Press.)

Admiral William H. Standley, chief of naval operations, last night expressed unconcern at information that the British admiralty planned "substantial additions" to Great Britain's sea power.

"All signatory nations have the same right to build up to London Treaty limits," he said. "The British plan does not alarm us. As far as we are concerned, it has little significance."

Five Drown as Boat Tips in Wyoming Lake

Moran, Wyo., Aug. 6 (AP).—Five persons drowned in Jackson Lake late today when their fishing boat capsized after springing a leak 50 feet from the west shore of the lake.

The dead: Mr. and Mrs. Ula Mallory, of Denver; their daughter, Delores, 4; Brigil R. Brown, of Denver, and his daughter, Barbara, 2.

Baby Grand Is Moved For Whom to Where?

Yo-ho-ho, and a baby grand piano!

This was the theme song of four colored men as they lowered the musical instrument from Room 206, at the Cairo Hotel, yesterday.

Manager Charles K. Phelps and others watched the piano being loaded into a moving van.

After it had been carried away, it was discovered that no one had called the movers. The piano is valued at $200.

Blonde Typist Questioned in Sanborn Death

Paris Seeks W. D. Mitchell's Son in Efforts to Solve Murder.

Paris, (Monday), Aug. 7 (U.P.).—Paris police were instructed today to find Bancroft Mitchell, son of former United States Attorney General William D. Mitchell, in connection with the investigation of the murder of Henry F. Sanborn, whose body was found on Long Island Saturday.

New York, Aug. 6 (AP).—A blonde stenographer entered the police investigation today of the strange slaying of Henry F. Sanborn, scion of a prominent St. Paul family, whose body with two bullets near the heart, was found by berry pickers in a shallow grave on Long Island Saturday.

Girl Questioned.

John Krugman, assistant district attorney, said the stenographer had been questioned at her Brooklyn home. He understood the stenographer and Sanborn were to have been married two weeks ago, but that for some reason the ceremony was postponed until September.

Police experienced difficulty in reaching other possible sources of information about the 44-year-old general Eastern agent for the St. Louis & San Francisco Railway, who disappeared July 17.

Two men known as his friends were away on vacations. One was Bancroft Mitchell, investment counsellor and son of the Attorney General in the Hoover Cabinet, William D. Mitchell.

His father, reached at the Mitchell home in Oyster Bay, said he believed the younger Mitchell knew Sanborn and the two had had business dealings. Bancroft Mitchell and his wife sailed for Italy on the liner Rex July 22.

Lived at Y. M. C. A.

Another sources of possible information temporarily closed to police was Sanborn's room at a Y. M. C. A. branch, where he lived quietly despite his social connections and reputed wealth. Sidney Walton, executive secretary, said an attorney acting for the family had instructed him not to admit police to the room. Authorities planned to seek a court order tomorrow authorizing their entry.

A receipt for four $100 shares of stock in a brewery at Branford, Conn., was among many papers and $564 in cash found in Sanborn's pockets.

26 Gandhi Disciples Jailed in March Plan

Ahmedabad, India, Aug. 6 (U.P.). Twenty-six followers of the Mahatma M. K. Gandhi were arrested today after they had notified the India government of their intention to start a civil disobedience march through the country against British rule.

Mr. Gandhi was sentenced to one year in prison at Poona last week, following his arrest as leader of the campaign which his disciples said they intended to carry out unless put in jail.

Austrian Chancellor Asked to Visit Rome

Vienna, Austria, Aug. 6 (U.P.).—Chancellor Engelbert Dollfuss is considering the Italian government's invitation to visit Rome, it was learned officially tonight. The date was not fixed.

Belgium's Recognition Of Reds Seen Certain

Brussels, Belgium, Aug. 6 (U.P.). Progress in the negotiations for Belgian recognition of the Soviet Union was reported today, as a consequence of the recent visit here of the Soviet ambassador in Paris.

NRA Will Recognize Those Who Try and Fail

Gen. Hugh S. Johnson has devised a "wound stripe" for those employers who are unable, because of peculiar conditions, to comply in all respects with the National Recovery Act.

"We are making arrangements to let a man who can not—really can not—do all things necessary to get the full blue eagle, get one with a white bar across its breast showing the points on which that man is temporarily excused," he said last night in an address here.

Starts "Buy Now" Campaign; 65,000 Miners Are Ordered Back.

(United Press.)

Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, national recovery administrator, declared war last night on "drones" and "chiselers" who refuse to cooperate with President Roosevelt or seek to nullify agreements which they have signed.

Simultaneously he inaugurated a Nation-wide "buy now" and "spend for reemployment" campaign to support higher wages and shorter hours, and appealed for a boycott of those industries and businesses which do not fly the blue eagle of NRA.

"Do not trifle with that bird," he warned.

Out of Depths by Winter.

Johnson tempered his stern lecture to industry in an address yesterday by predicting:

"We will be out of the depths of this depression by winter if only each community will seize the chance that the President has given it."

At the same time, he carried forward the strike moratorium, which President Roosevelt has proclaimed, by expressing confidence that the national arbitration machinery will "clean up" immediately all existing strikes and avert others.

65,000 Miners Ordered Back.

Dealing specifically with the Pennsylvania coal strike, John L. Lewis, president, United Mine Workers of America, yesterday ordered the 65,000 coal miners back to work in telegrams to 300 local unions. Hitting at some who have refused, he reminded them of his solemn pledge to President Roosevelt, said they were ill advised and that their course would lead to "further collective and individual distress among our people." The Nation is going through a "supreme crisis," he said.

"For this moment let controversy cease," he appealed.

Code Violation Charge Probed

Large Cotton Mill at New Orleans Visited by U. S. Agent.

New Orleans, Aug. 6 (U.P.).—Investigation of labor conditions and alleged violations of the NRA textile code at the Lane Cotton Mills here, one of the largest in the South, will be made tomorrow by Commissioner Thomas Hyland, representing the Department of Labor.

Labor leaders and employes have charged the mills with violating the textile code's more pay and shorter hours provisions, and these charges have been denied by Sigmund Odenheimer, president of the mills.

The investigation, labor leaders said, will not be interfered with by an imminent strike, as workers will return to the jobs pending settlement by Department of Labor investigations.

Hyland, addressing the workers last night, urged them not to strike and declared, "If an employer doesn't comply with the Government's wishes our department is going to see that he does comply."

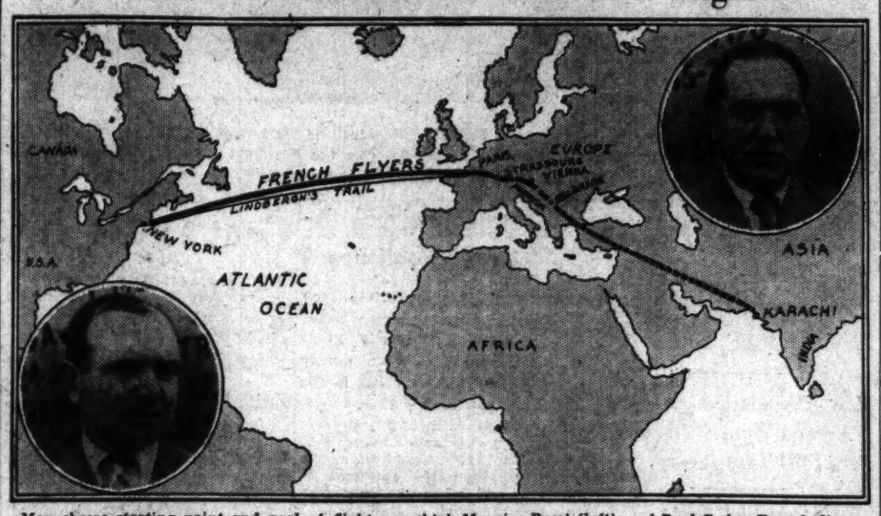
French Sea Fliers in Austria, Pressing on Toward India For Record Despite Gas Leak

Path of French Airmen on Distance Flight



Map shows starting point and goal of flight on which Maurice Rossi (left), and Paul Codos, French fliers, took off from Floyd Bennett Field, New York, Saturday morning in an attempt to set a new nonstop distance record by flying the 7,200 miles to Karachi. The airmen followed the Lindbergh route to Paris. Solid line traces their progress from that point.

Rossi and Codos Pass Munich After Fast Hop to Paris.

Lindbergh's Time Almost Equaled

Women Relatives Wildly Greet Their Passage Over Le Bourget.

Paris (Monday), Aug. 6 (AP).—A gasoline leak early today threatened the attempt of Maurice Rossi and Paul Codos to set a new distance record in their plane, the Joseph Lebrix, but they pushed on toward India after conquering rough weather on their New York-to-Paris flight.

Wireless advices to Le Bourget Flying Field, over which they passed at 2:20 p. m. (Eastern standard time), said they continued to navigate under a clear sky in lower Austria.

They gave their position at 1:52 a. m. (7:52 p. m. Eastern standard time Sunday) as about 20 miles west-southwest of Vienna. They declared they hoped to break the record despite the leak.

Near Lindbergh's Time.

The French aces dipped over the airport at 2:20 p. m. (E. S. T.), nine minutes behind Col. Charles A. Lindberg's time of 33 hours, 30 minutes from New York to Paris.

From their broad-winged silver monoplane, the Joseph Le Brix, they dropped messages to their wives, who waved frantically to the airmen, as the latter pointed their ship eastward toward Munich, Germany.

Rossi and Codos, on reaching here, had covered more than 3,500 miles since they made a perfect take-off from Floyd Bennett Field, New York, at 4:41 a. m. yesterday.

Pass Over Munich.

The Havas (French) News Agency in a dispatch from Munich said that the airplane passed over that city at midnight French time (6 p. m. E.S.T.).

The Aspern (Austria) airport was in contact with the fliers after they passed over Munich.

Wireless reception was not clear enough for the text of the messages sent out by the plane to be distinguished. Officials estimated the fliers would reach Vienna at 2:15 a. m. (8:15 p. m. Sunday, Eastern standard time).

Their heavy plane battled rough weather during most of the flight over the North Atlantic Great Circle route, wireless messages said.

Atlantic Crossing "Bad."

"Crossing bad from Halifax," read one message, sent at 5:10 a. m., while the fliers were about 375 miles from Brittany.

As the plane neared Le Bourget the aviators sent word that more than one-third of their enormous gas supply of 1,770 gallons remained, and that they hoped to go 3,100 miles farther, to better the record of 5,340 miles for a nonstop flight.

The Joseph Le Brix, appearing a white drab against the red flush of the setting sun, was sighted at exactly the minute the airmen had predicted in a wireless message an hour earlier.

Of scarcely 100 persons at the airport, the most excited were the fliers' wives and Lieut. Rossi's mother and sister.

Women Deeply Affected.

The women shrieked, and tears flowed from the eyes of Mme. Codos. Mme. Rossi laughed excitedly and then her eyes, too, filled with tears.

Both received scribbled notes from their husbands saying that the takeoff had been difficult, the voyage hard going, but that they were glad to be on their way.

"Love and Kisses," was the ending on each mesage.

Rossi and Codos had sent the air ministry a request to keep the beacons lighted on their route through France. After the weather bureau reported conditions, they chose a route from Munich to Vienna, Budapest, Bucharest, Aleppo, along the Persian Gulf, and then to Baghdad or Karachi.

Pennsylvania's Mines Put Off Opening a Day

H. C. Frick Coke Co. Delays Resumption at Request of Gov. Pinchot.

Brownsville, Pa., Aug. 6 (AP).—Upon the request of Gov. Gifford Pinchot, the H. C. Frick Coke Co., operators of many of the mines in the soft coal strike zone, announced tonight it was deferring reopening of its mines until Tuesday. The company had planned resumption of operations tomorrow.

The announcement said that "at the personal request of Gov. Pinchot, received by officials of the H. C. Frick Coke Co., the mines of the company will remain closed for one more day, namely, August 7, 1933."

This action, permitting more time for negotiations toward settlement of the strike difficulties, tended to relieve the tension which gripped the territory after the strikers' decision not to return to work immediately. The miners' representatives discussed plans for picketing on a large scale after the Frick Co.'s earlier announcement, now revoked, that the mines would reopen tomorrow.

Engine Crash Blocks Train Traffic 5 Hours

New York, Aug. 6 (U.P.).—All traffic on the main line of the New York Central Railroad was blocked for five hours late today owing to derailment of an electric locomotive in the Kingsbridge Yards.

The locomotive, which was switching an empty pullman, was derailed north of the Marble Hill Station. There were only two tracks at this spot, completely blocking connection with Grand Central Station. An emergency station was established at Ninety-sixth street, where about 3,000 passengers were handled. Incoming and outgoing trains were rerouted.

Burma Countryside Devastated by Floods

Rangoon, Burma, Aug. 6 (U.P.).—Devastation was spread over the countryside north of Rangoon today by floods which inundated numerous villages and destroyed hundreds of houses. Railway bridges were washed away. Many herds of cattle were lost.

Garner to "Ride Goat" And Join Odd Fellows

Uvalde, Tex., Aug. 6 (AP).—Vice President John N. Garner will "ride the goat" tomorrow night when he takes the initiatory degree of the Uvalde Odd Fellows Lodge.

It will be his first fraternal affiliation.

5,000 Will Return Today After Strike

Hosiery and Textile Mill Workers Vote North Carolina Peace.

High Point, N. C., Aug. 5 (AP).—More than 5,000 hosiery and textile workers will return to work here and in Thomasville tomorrow, practically ending widespread strikes which have crippled industry in this area since July 17.

Fear that a portion of the striking hosiery workers would refuse to return to their posts under the settlement arrived at last week was dissipated at a mass meeting this afternoon when leaders of the dissenters urged approximately 1,000 workers to return quietly and with a spirit of cooperation with the mill managements and the national recovery act.

The settlement means the reopening of 21 mills here and one at Thomasville.

Society Woman And Man Killed

Auto Victims Guests of Mrs. Natalie Carr, of Washington.

East Hampton, N. Y., Aug. 6 (AP). Mrs. Seymour Page, 32, and Alfred V. Leaman, jr., 54, both social registerites, were killed early today in an automobile accident 5 miles east of here.

Mrs. Page, the former Laurice White, of Virginia, and her husband were passing the week-end at East Hampton as guests of Mrs. Natalie Carr, of Washington, D. C.

With Mrs. Carr and Maxwell W. Ross they had driven to a supper club at Montauk, where they met Leaman. When the party left, Mrs. Page offered to go home in Leaman's car to leave more room in the Carr automobile. Leaman's car sideswiped one driven by Carlos Flores, of Brooklyn.

Mrs. Carr is the former Natalie Hanna, adopted daughter of Dan Hanna, son of the late Senator Mark Hanna, of Ohio. She and her husband, Stanley Carr, were divorced last year in Reno.

Wednesday Is Set For Balbo Take-Off

Shoal Harbor, Newfoundland, Aug. 6 (AP).—Gen. Italo Balbo today completed preparations for leading his Italian air armada homeward by the way of The Azores. The 24 seaplanes probably will take off Wednesday.

The squadron will fly directly across the Avalon Peninsula after leaving Shoal Harbor.

Gen. Cardenas Certain Of Mexican Presidency

Mexico City, Aug. 6 (U.P.).—Members of the National Revolutionary (government) party today expressed approval of Gen. Lazaro Cardenas, former minister of war, as the party's presidential candidate in orderly party plebiscites held throughout the country.

Cardenas was named the candidate at a recent convention. Nomination by the National Revolutionary party practically assures election, as opposition political forces have little strength.

De Valera Belittles "Threat" of Irish War

Dublin, Aug. 6 (AP).—Reports published abroad that the Irish Free State was threatened with civil war based on the government's quick decision to throw armed guards around public buildings here, were characterized today by President De Valera as "nonsense."

Farmer Is Shot, Lynching Talk In Milk Strike

Two Women Badly Beaten; Trooper Attacked in Move on Strikers.

Utica, N. Y., Aug. 6 (AP).—One man was shot and another threatened with lynching today as guns barked for the first time in New York State's milk war.

Walter Laboza, 22, was sent to a Rochester hospital with a bullet through his arm. His father, Adam, escaped injury as a bullet passed through his hat. The two farmers resisted efforts of strikers to dump their milk.

Two women were badly beaten and kicked by strikers and 500 quarts of milk was dumped near Penfield.

Lynching Threatened.

At St. Johnsville State troopers guarded the home of Arthur Galusha, a farmer, who said milk pickets had threatened to lynch him because he drove a dairy truck into the village today.

Harold W. Beach, a trooper, was hit on the head with a piece of iron pipe when troopers dispersed 70 strikers near Canandaigua. The extent of his injuries was not known.

With almost every available State trooper concentrated in the strike area, citizens continued to seek National Guard protection. As the turmoil spread to new sections, Gov. Lehman, reluctant to call out the militia, sent telegrams to sheriffs of 12 counties authorizing them to appoint additional deputies to preserve order.

Lehman Action Waited.

Gov. Lehman today had announced no action upon the telegraphed request of District Attorney Albert F. Devitt, of Madison County, that the New York National Guard be called out and martial law declared.

Devitt wired the governor that "State police and deputy sheriffs were unable to cope with the situation" in that county, and that "farmers, both strikers and non-strikers were aroused to such a state that they would not listen to reason."

Protection Promised.

The law forces of the State and counties, however, had received the governor's word that he would not permit strikers "through violent or other unlawful methods, to attack the peace and security of this State or weaken its authority."

They also had his assurance that he would use to the "utmost" the resources of the commonwealth to provide peace protection."

Mona Lisa Picture Declared Genuine

Paris, Aug. 6 (A.P.).—Louvre officials were skeptical today of a statement in a London newspaper that the original Mona Lisa is in the hands of an Algerian picture dealer and that the picture here is merely a copy.

The statement was attributed to a man who was described as one of the thieves who once stole the Mona Lisa.

Fernand Cellerier, director of the National Physical Laboratory, declared he was convinced of the authenticity of the Louvre picture after X-ray and other tests following the painting's return.

Chief Executive Praises Scouts For Jamboree

President Says Similar World Gatherings Make for Peace.

(Associated Press.)

Gatherings like the World Conference of Boy Scout leaders which opens at Godollo, Hungary, today, were characterized yesterday by President Roosevelt as among "the most important contributions to world peace that have ever been developed."

He made this statement in a special message addressed to Walter W. Head, president of the Boy Scouts of America, which will be presented to the conference by Dr. James E. West, chief Scout executive of the Boy Scouts of America.

It follows in part:

"As honorary president of the Boy Scouts of America, I take great pleasure in extending greetings on behalf of this association to the Scouts and Scouters assembled at the fourth world jamboree and seventh international conference of scouting, representing practically the whole civilized world.

"It stirs our imagination and kindles our emotions to contemplate the possible implications growing out of this pilgrimage of these young men and boys representing more than seventy different nationalities, camping and living together for two weeks in good fellowship and harmony.

"The future basis of international good will must rest on mutual understanding and loyalty to high ideals. Such gatherings as this are among the most important contributions to world peace that have ever been developed."

Feng Quits Fighting China Government

Army Leader Surrenders Chahar, Drops Plan for Jap War.

Peiping, Aug. 7 (Monday) (AP).—Gen. Feng Yu-Hsiang and the National government appeared today to have reached a peaceful solution of the Chahar Province situation.

Feng, after resisting the National government many months and threatening to renew the war against Japan for the recovery of Jehol Province and Manchuria, announced his willingness to give up his title as head of the "people's anti-Japanese army" and place Chahar in the hands of Peiping National government representatives.

If the negotiations prove successful, it was indicated that Feng, who is short of money and munitions, likely would be given a position in the National government, or some other means of saving face, and then would retire to Changpei, 40 miles northeast of Kalgan, Chahar Province, where he has his headquarters.

Mine Victim Found In 115 Feet of Water

Pottsville, Pa., Aug. 6 (AP).—Upholding the tradition that bodies of mine accident victims must be recovered, Gunners Mate Jesse Gose, a Navy diver, today located the body of Frank Thompson, young Sunday school superintendent, beneath 115 feet of water in an abandoned mine at Keffers, near here.

Gose's announcement from the depths that he had found the body caused much excitement in the crowd of thousands at the scene and an American flag was run up at the head of the shaft, proclaiming success of the search.

Thompson, who was 28, lost his life on July 12, while mining coal for his family in a makeshift working, the floor of which collapsed after a blast had been set off.

Johnson Urges "Chiseler" Boycott

the Government would adjust contracts to meet higher costs due to the blanket agreements, wherever possible under present law, and promised he would ask Congress to change laws at the next session to permit adjustments. Simultaneously, he appealed to States, municipalities, counties and other local government units to follow suit.

Assails Indiana Grocers.

2. Deputy Administrator A. D. Whiteside, in a stinging message to the Indiana Retail Grocers Association, served notice that the Federal Government would not tolerate "chiseling" by agreements among grocery stores to reduce their hours of operation and thus violate the blanket agreement by not taking on additional workers. He threatened withdrawal of insigna of the NRA.

3. Johnson made public the code for the coat and suit industry—"a particularly noteworthy event," he called it—which wipes out the "sweat shop," eliminates the cut-throat competition that has dragged the industry down, abolishes "home-work," eradicates unsanitary and unsafe working conditions, sets high wages and short hours and provides for resumption of the industry's unemployment insurance plan as soon as conditions permit.

Colorado Ranch Offered For Use of Unemployed

Denver, Aug. 6 (AP).—James Kelley, Denver attorney, has offered his Colorado ranch to President Roosevelt, rent free, for five years as the nucleus for a group of farms he suggested be used by unemployed, eliminating them from relief rolls.

Kelley said he proposed that the farms be used merely to produce enough food for use of the unemployed and the crops would not be placed on the market.

31 Industries Now Operating By Code Plans

Five Permanent Accords Agreed Upon; 26 Are Still Temporary.

(Associated Press.)

Five industries have had permanent codes approved by the National Recovery Administration and 26 have obtained permission to put their own wage and hour provisions into effect temporarily pending hearing on codes.

In addition, a compilation obtained yesterday from the administration showed hearings completed on codes for steel, oil, lumber and a number of other industries upon which reports are being prepared. Some 500 proposed codes await hearings.

The five which now have agreements stabilizing wages and hours are cotton textiles, coats and suits, shipbuilding, electric manufacturing and woolen textiles.

Those operating under temporary wage and hour agreements, subject to final determination, are advertising specialty, bedding, ice cream, fluid milk, food and grocery distributing, gasoline pumps, knitted underwear, ice, oil burner, optical, paint, varnish and lacquer, printing, radio, rayon weaving, rayon and synthetic yarn, retailers, including dry goods, department, specialty shop, mail order, men's clothing and furnishings, furniture, hardware and shoe stores, wheat flour, linseed oil, mayonnaise, paper boxes, paper boards, photographic, zinc, toy and playthings and meat packing.

Among those which have submitted codes and sought permission to put the wage and hour provisions into effect temporarily are electric light and power and gas.

Body Is Believed That of Gunman

Bullet Victim Is Linked to Brewery Holdup in Wisconsin.

Anoka, Minn., Aug. 6 (A.P.).—The unclothed body of a man, who had been shot in the head, was found today in a shallow grave near here.

Authorities began checking the possibility that the man might have been the one reported shot yesterday as bandits fled from the Marshfield Brewing Co. office in Marshfield, Wis., after Policeman Fred Beell, 57, former middleweight wrestler, was shot and killed.

Beell was slain at the brewery after he had been summoned there on reports of a robbery. A fellow officer wounded the gang's lookout man, who was carried away by the others as they fled.

Danish Steamer Ashore In Columbia River Fog

Seattle, Aug. 6 (AP).—The Coast Guard reported today the Danish steamer Stensby went ashore in the fog at 11:50 last night on Peacock Spit at the mouth of the Columbia River.

The cutter Redwing rushed to the scene and stood by to throw a line aboard as soon as tidal conditions permitted and refloat her. The propeller was clear of the water. The steamer Stensby, of 3,953 gross tons, was built in Gothenburg in 1926. Her home port is Kallehave.

125,000,000 Francs French Lottery Stake

Paris, Aug. 6 (U.P.).—The authorities today announced a new lottery which will create 105 new millionaires—in francs.

Five main prizes in the lottery are to be for 5,000,000 francs (about $275,000) each, and 100 others will be for 1,000,000 francs each. The drawing was set for Armistice Day in the Trocadero, after the sale of 10,000,000 tickets at 100 francs ($5.34) apiece.

Pitchfork Vibration Lures Angle Worms

Spokane, Wash., Aug. 6 (AP).—Fishermen need only thrust a magic wand into the garden, smite the shaft and the angleworms will come forth—if Oscar Crain's word is taken for it.

Crain said all that is necessary to make the worms head for the surface is to stick the business end of a pitchfork into the garden soil and strike the handle to start the prongs vibrating.

Jack Mulhall Seized In Hollywood Brawl

Hollywood, Aug. 6 (U.P.).—Jack Mulhall, 37, former screen actor, and a companion, Charles E. Frederick, 30, were arrested on battery charges today after a battle in the beach home of Morris Fine.

Fine, who with Mulhall was treated for cuts and bruises, told officers the fight started when the actor and Frederick appeared in his home and refused to leave. The two deposited bail of $100 each.

New Stratosphere Attempt Planned

Settle Will Try to Pierce High Regions Probably in October.

Chicago, Aug. 6 (AP).—Lieut. Comdr. T. G. Settle tonight said he would make another attempt to pierce the stratosphere in a balloon ascension this fall—probably in October.

Early Saturday Commander Settle went up nearly a mile in his stratosphere balloon, largest ever built, only to be forced to earth because of a leaky valve that permitted hydrogen gas to escape.

He was uninjured, but both the balloon and the gondola were damaged. They will be repaired.

Commander Settle said he would be unable to make the flight until fall because he must spend his time now preparing for the James Gordon Bennett balloon races here next month. He represents the Navy in the race.

Mother of Two Dies In Parachute Leap

Silk Canopy Fails to Open as Crowd of 10,000 See Woman Fall.

Aurora, Ill., Aug. 6 (AP).—Mrs. Ruth York, 24, mother of two small children, was killed today before a crowd of 10,000 persons in an attempted parachute jump from an airplane at 2,500 feet altitude.

The parachute did not open, observers said, but a preliminary examination failed to reveal cause of the accident.

Mrs. York had made several previous jumps from balloons, but essayed her first leap from a plane when a balloon in which two young women were to make an ascension, as feature event of a lodge picnic burst into flames while being filled with heated air.

Coat Industry Is Agreed Upon 35-Hour Week

Suit Makers Also Accept $14 Scale; Authority Body Set Up.

(Associated Press.)

A code of competition providing a 35-hour week for the coat and suit industry was announced yesterday by the recovery administration with the prediction it will provide jobs during the next there months for all normally employed in the trade.

Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, recovery administrator, gave out the terms of the code as approved by President Roosevelt, and hailed it as significant "because it marks the culmination of the efforts which for nearly 25 years the industry has been making to discipline itself."

Outstanding provisions, in addition to the hours stipulation, are:

Establishment of a coat and suit authority to administer the provisions of the code.

Stipulation of $14 a week as the basic wage for the whole industry.

Resumption of an unemployment insurance fund as soon as conditions permit.

Abolishment of home work and an order forbidding work in unsanitary or unsafe premises.

Establishment of 18 years as the age limit on manufacturing employes and 16 years for nonmanufacturing.

The coat and suit authority will consist of two persons from each of the three manufacturers' associations, two members selected by the International Ladies Garment Workers Union and two selected collectively by the associations in the Western area of the industry.

Cost of the authority is to be borne by the International Ladies Garment Workers Union and the associated manufacturers.

Jacoby's Bridge Team Clings to Small Lead

Deal, N. J., Aug. 6 (AP).—Oswald Jacoby's foursome held a narrow lead of 20 points at the half way mark tonight in the finals of play for the national challenge team of four championship in the American Bridge League tournament.

Jacoby, David Burnstine, Howard Schneken and R. L. Frey had a score of 1,840 points after 24 boards had been played to the 1,820 points tallied by Waldemar van Zedwitz, Edward Hymes, jr., Louis H. Watson and Sam Fry, jr.

Text of President's Promise To Government Contractors

(Associated Press.)

The text of President Roosevelt's statement yesterday, given out by the National Recovery Administration, follows:

It has been brought to my attention that in many instances hardship may be imposed upon employers who sign the President's agreement, or come under the codes of fair competition which are approved, who have previously made contracts with the Government to supply goods or services at fixed prices which may be inadequate in view of increased costs caused by shortening hours or increasing wages in compliance with agreements or codes.

The policy of the administration was stated in the statement which I issued upon signing the national industrial recovery act, urging "those having benefit of these forward bargains (contracted before the law was passed) to take the iniative in revising them to absorb some share of the increase in their suppliers' costs," thus raised in the public interest.

This policy was carried forward in the provision of paragraph 12 of the President's reemployment agreement, under which those making this agreement with the President also agreed to "make an appropriate adjustment of said fixed price to meet any increase in cost caused by the seller having signed the President's reemployment agreement or having become bound by any code of fair competition approved by the President.

The United States Government as a buyer of goods should be willing itself to take action similar to that recommended to private buyers. Therefore, wherever adjustment can be made under existing law, I shall recommend that they be made.

In other cases where such adjustments can not be made under authority now possessed by the executive departments, I shall recommend that the next Congress, meeting in January, 1934, take action giving authority to the executive departments, under such safeguards as the Congress may approve, and making any necessary appropriations to provide for recompensing such buyers who have in good faith and wholeheartedly cooperated with the Administration of the National Industrial Recovery Act, and as a result thereof should equitably be allowed an increase in the prices of goods furnished in the interim in accordance with the terms of contracts entered into with the Government prior to June 16, 1933.

Because this same situation exists with regard to employers who have previously made contracts with States, municipalities, or other local governments, I further recommend to the governors of the various States, and to executives of counties and municipal units, that they take similar action to allow for equitable adjustments in such cases.

Survey Holds Church Lax in Economic Need

(Associated Press.)

The belief that an "economic revolution" is now going on in the United States and that churches are failing to recognize "social and economic needs of men" was expressed today by the traveling economic seminar of the National Religion and Labor Foundation.

Findings of the traveling seminar in a month's survey were summarized in a two-day session here after a 4,000-mile trip studying industrial and agricultural sections. The foundation is privately supported, nonsecretarian and nondenominational, with headquarters in New Haven, Conn.

C. C. C. Proving Business Boon To Industries

U. S. Spending Millions in Many Localities to Purchase Supplies.

Purchase of supplies and equipment for 296,000 men of the Civilian Conservation Corps and 14,400 Indians engaged in reforestation activities in connection with President Roosevelt's emergency conservation work program, is proving a boon to business in all sections of the Nation, Robert Fechner, director, announces.

Millions of dollars have been injected into industry and business through a huge purchase program. Clothing, food, housing supplies, trucks, tractors and other equipment is being bought daily in every State in the Union.

More than 12,500 trucks, 300 motor ambulances and 300 passenger cars have been purchased to take care of the transportation needs in forest camps. The trucks cost an average of $500 each.

Additional Supplies Ordered.

In addition to the equipment already in use, 227 trail-builders, 216 tractors, 65 graders and 24 compressors have been ordered.

Among other construction supplies which have been ordered are: 100,000 axes, 152,000 shovels, 152,000 wedges, 114,000 mattocks, 114,000 picks, 60,000 saws, 100,000 hammers, 40,000 crowbars, 30,400 chisels, 15,200 bushhooks, 15,200 canthooks, 70,000 canteens, 12,000 grindstones, 2,500 blasting machines, 60,000 files, 633,000 feet of rope, 7,500 wrenches, 6,300 wrecking bars, 7,500 forks and 2,000 wheelbarrows.

To care for the men, the War Department has purchased a million pairs of wool sox, a half million pairs of shoes, and thousands of shirts, overalls, boots, hats, cots, towels and raincoats.

Big Food Supplies.

At present, 310,000 reforestation workers are being fed. The majority of the food purchases are being made in the vicinity of the camps.

"It is immediately apparent," Director Fechner states, "that filtration of millions of dollars expended for this work has been one of the prime factors in spurring business revivals, increasing commodity prices, bringing new orders to manufacturers and increasing the number of men at work.

"Funds paid out in cash allowances to the men, and allotment checks mailed monthly to families of the men, also play their part in speeding business recovery and lightening relief rolls."

Officials of Calais Quit in Trade War

Calais, France, Aug. 6 (AP).—Public officials of Calais resigned in a body today to dramatize for the French Government the tragedy of this lace center which Deputy and Mayor Leon Vincent attributes to the operation of tariffs and quotas.

The Municipal Council, the Chamber of Commerce Tribunal and the Commerce and Labor Court met in an all-night session and seventy-two members resigned.

M. Vincent also resigned as deputy. He said that exports, which were 35 per cent of the trade, had sunk almost to zero and that 40,000 of the 72,000 population of the city were idle.

Contraband Arms Seized Off Luzon

Manila, P. I., Aug. 6 (AP).—Capture by a Philippine Coast Guard cutter of a Chinese sampan laden with arms and ammunition off the coast of Luzon, 100 miles south of Manila, was reported to Coast Guard headquarters here today.

A message from the captain of the cutter Palillo reported the sampan, the Sin Ban Fong, carried "7 cannon, 9 rifles, 5 lances, three sabers, 824 cartridges and 65 kilos of gunpowder."

Whether the sampan was a gun runner or a pirate was not learned. The sampan was escorted to Calapan under guard.

Woman Quits U. S. Job Council; Hits Roosevelt

New York, Aug. 6 (AP).—Miss Mary Van Kleeck resigned today from the Federal Advisory Council of the U. S. Employment Service because, she said, nullification of the recovery act's collective bargaining provision was threatened by President Roosevelt's appointment of an industrial mediation board.

Miss Van Kleeck, director of the industrial studies department of the Russell Sage Foundation, sent a telegram to Secretary Perkins of the Labor Department, announcing her decision.

78 Dead, 183 Missing In Typhoon in Korea

Tokyo, (Monday) Aug. 7 (AP).—Seventy-eight persons were known to have lost their lives and 183 were missing in the typhoon which struck two provinces in southern Korea last Thursday and Friday, said reports reaching vernacular newspapers today from Fusan, Korea.

Two hundred seventy-one small boats were washed away and 2,634 houses were destroyed or badly damaged.

Royalty in Britain Found Overworked

Rotherham, Yorkshire, Eng., Aug. 6 (U.P.).—Members of the British royal family are badly overworked, Lord Harewood, son-in-law of King George V, hinted in a speech here today.

He mentioned that his wife, the princess royal, "has attended so many functions all summer that her doctors forbade more until October. I think the public asks a great deal of members of the royal family, particularly the king's sons and daughter," he added.

Actress Is Astounded Her Red Pants Amaze

Paris, Aug. 6 (U.P.).—Marlene Dietrich returned to Paris from Cannes, on the Riviera, tonight wearing a striking pair of scarlet trousers, man-style.

"The public can't understand that I prefer to wear pants," she said petulantly, at the demonstration of gazers. "It is not an affectation."

She intends to go to Switzerland Tuesday, accompanied by her husband and small daughter.

239 Poilus Get Legion's Hand In New York

Commander Johnson Says Veterans of War Can End Depression.

New York, Aug. 6 (AP).—A group of 239 French war veterans arrived tonight on the liner Paris to return the visit of the American Legion to France four years ago.

Louis Johnson, national commander of the American Legion, and legion bands greeted the delegation at the pier. At a banquet Commander Johnson said:

"Although we have laid aside our uniforms, we are as much soldiers today as we were in 1917 and 1918. The depression that has engulfed this world we live in is but another phase of that war. If we, French poilus and American soldiers, stand together as comrades once more we can, indeed, bring this war to a speedy and conclusive end. Together, with our comrades, we can lift this blight from a distressed world.

"I shall not offend your intelligence by assuming that the relations between our two countries could not be improved. * * *

"There are misunderstandings between our governments which can and should be removed. I do not know of any better medium for bringing this about than the veterans of the World War, the men who shared together the greatest privations and the highest honors.

"Indeed, I believe I can say that within a few months the United States may become a much richer market for France than at any time in the last 15 years. I refer to the impepding repeal of our prohibition laws, when once more we may freely enjoy the rich and sparkling products of your incomparable vineyards."

French Ambassador De Laboulaye was a guest at the banquet.

Salesman Badly Hurt In Crash With Taxicab

Anderson, Ind., Aug. 6 (AP).—Norman Nusslear, 30, Bloomington, Ind., salesman, was in critical condition at a hospital here today, suffering from a crushed skull received when his automobile collided with a taxicab at a highway intersection six miles southwest of here late Saturday night.

Two women, passengers in the cab, received broken ribs and lacerations.

Half of States Plan Tax Acts As Dry Repeal Appears Near

3 Legislatures Already in Session; Maryland Considers Laws.

Chicago, Aug. 6 (AP).—Belief that repeal of the eighteenth amendment is imminent and revenue problems are forcing nearly half the States to make plans to call Legislatures into special sessions for regulatory and tax legislation.

A survey today showed that the rapidity with which States were voting for repeal caused most of the preparations for extraordinary sessions.

The Governor of Iowa already has announced a session for September to consider liquor control, tax revision and governmental reorganization.

The chief executives of Illinois, Massachusetts, Wisconsin, Maryland, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Washington and Oregon have indicated they would convene the lawmakers before January in the event of repeal of prohibition.

Ohio Session August 16.

Ohio's Legislature is due to reconvene in special session August 16, in any event, to enact taxes sufficient to finance unemployment relief and possibly State-supported schools. Two other such sessions are planned by Gov. White to take care of liquor problems and tax revision.

New Jersey's legislators reconvene August 29, Kansas' in September and Kentucky's some time this month. New Jersey aims at a permanent beer code, financial aid to schools and a loan from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation; Kansas, at an election on repeal of the eighteenth amendment and clarification of the legal status of its beer, and Kentucky at unemployment relief.

Gov. Laffoon has not replied definitely to pleas that he ask the Kentucky Legislature to arrange an election on prohibition repeal.

Michigan's Legislature may meet in December to act on tax problems. Texas may modify its antitrust laws in September. New Mexico's legislators may sit again if voters on September 19 adopt a constitutional amendment limiting tax levies to 20 mills. Wyoming may revise its governmental structure.

Missouri Needs Revenue.

School authorities in Missouri are urging a special session to raise revenue. California's State budget is unbalanced by $30,000,000. Oklahoma votes August 15 on reducing the ad valorem tax limits. In event of special sessions, Pennsylvania also will deliberate on old age pensions, minimum wage and maximum hour laws and relief; Wisconsin on its budget and Washington on the Grand Coulee Dam project.

Three legislatures are in special session now. New York is considering how to help its principal city raise $41,000,000 for unemployment relief, control liquor, place a moratorium on mortgages, control distribution of milk and cut utilities rates.

Colorado is considering an election on prohibition repeal and poet relief. South Dakota's Legislature, having just legalized beer and parimutuel betting on horse races, is ready to adjourn.

Howe Asks Simple U.S. Criminal Code

Revision Needed for Quick Justice, President's Secretary Says.

(United Press.)

The American criminal code must be simplified and modified to expedite justice, Louis McHenry Howe, secretary of President Roosevelt, declared here last night.

This revision, he said, will take time and determination. Meantime, an alert and aroused public opinion must be responsible for demanding immediate trials of criminals and closing avenues of escape in the courts.

"The people of this country have exactly the sort of justice they are willing to stand for," Mr. Howe said. "We deserve what we have been getting. When we want something better—we are going to have it."

Yale Swimmer And 3 Rescued As Boat Upsets

Vaden Is Hailed as Hero for "Go Slow" Cries; One Youth Dies.

New York, Aug. 6 (A.P.).—John Chester Vaden, 24-year-old member of Yale's 1927 swimming team, and three others today were rescued in a Long Island Sound shipwreck in which a frightened fourth companion drowned and Vaden was hailed as a hero. The rescued youths had been in the water about seven hours.

Vaden and his 15-year-old brother, Alan; Stanley Nelson, of Manhattan; Gilbert Sharkey, of Brooklyn, and Edward Jay, also of Manhattan, who lost his life, set out in a 32-foot sloop late last night from Milford, Conn., for Greenport, Long Island, a sail of little more than 10 miles.

All Thrown Into Water.

The craft had made little progress and about 5 a. m. a squall capsized it, throwing all into the water.

Jay, an inexperienced swimmer, was a co-worker with Vaden, who is assistant radio editor of the New York American.

Vaden and his younger brother raced through beating seas to seize and hold up Jay, but the heavy going and the terror Jay had of holding the others back in what he seemed to realize was a fight for life finally overcame him.

Jay struck out at the Vadens, they related, wriggled free of their grasp and sank before he could be reached. Chester Vaden shouted that they were within sight of land and quieted their fears.

Picked Up By Boats.

Finally they were separated by the seas and Nelson and Sharkey were picked up by a craft of Lavater C. White, of Englewood, N. J.

An alarm was spread and an hour later Alan Vaden was rescued by the Solana, owned by W. C. Robinson, of Pittsburgh. The Onwego of George L. Bourne, of New York, picked up Chester Vaden. The four were reunited at Stratford, Conn.

They credited Chester's admonition—"rest often and go slow"—with keeping them afloat.

Director of Peru's Typhus Fight Quits

Charges Lack of Support; Long, American, to Take Hand.

Santiago, Chile, Aug. 6 (U.P.).—Chile's prolonged fight against the typhus plague reached a climax today when Dr. Leonardo Gusman, director general of sanitation, resigned. He charged lack of adequate cooperation from his colleagues and a shortage of sufficient funds.

There have been 109 deaths from the disease in Santiago alone in recent weeks, according to an unofficial survey. The epidemic has spread from Coquimbo, on the north, to Puerto Montt, on the south, a distance of 800 miles. Because of rigid sanitation precautions, the disease has not reached Valparaiso or other important ports.

Dr. John D. Long, traveling representative of the Pan-American Sanitary Bureau, was expected here Monday to assist Chilean health authorities in combatting typhus. Dr. Long, an American, was responsible for eliminating the bubonic plague in Peru and Ecuador in 1929 and 1931.

Mrs. Hepburn Dies; Rear Admiral's Wife

Expires at Philadelphia Naval Yards, Which Husband Heads.

Philadelphia, Aug. 6 (A.P.).—Mrs. Arthur J. Hepburn, wife of Rear Admiral Hepburn, died today at the Philadelphia Navy Yard, of which he is in command. Mrs. Hepburn became ill in Geneva, where her husband was engaged as an expert at the disarmament conference. She was a native of Cumberland, Md.

Besides her husband, Mrs. Hepburn is survived by two sons, Arthur J. Hepburn, jr., of Baltimore, and Roman Hepburn, of Philadelphia.

Mexican State Suspends All Judicial Activities

Mexico City, Aug. 6 (U.P.).—San Luis Potosi dispatches today reported that the supreme court there has announced suspension of all judicial activities in the state, beginning tomorrow, because "pressure by local executives" had made it impossible for continued constitutional functioning of the judicial branch of the government. Salaries of the judges and court personnel there, reports said, are six months in arrears.

Searchers Drag River For Dr. Harrell's Body

Tarboro, N. C., Aug. 6 (U.P.).—Searching parties dragged a river near here late today for the body of Dr. Samuel N. Harrell, widely known physician, who disappeared from his home early today.

Bloodhounds trailed him to the river, but could go no farther. The doctor had been in ill health for some time.

Police Get Confession In Ottley Kidnap Case

Atlanta, Aug. 6 (A.P.).—Police Chief T. O. Sturdivant announced tonight, just after he brought William R. Delenski here from San Antonio, Tex., where he was arrested, that the man had made a full confession of the kidnaping of John K. Ottley, Atlanta banker.

Navy Readiness In Pacific to Be Institute Topic

Relations Conference Will Open Sessions at Banff Today.

New York, Aug. 6 (U.P.).—Naval preparedness in the Pacific will be among the major problems for consideration on the program of the Institute of Pacific Relations at the fifth biennial conference, which opens its preliminary sessions at Banff, Canada, tomorrow morning.

This announcement was made by the American council of the Institute, with headquarters in New York. The American delegation is headed by Newton D. Baker, Secretary of War in the Wilson war-time Cabinet.

The Philippine independence question and the United States exclusion act against Oriental people also will be among the delicate international problems to come up for discussion. Principal emphasis, however, is to be placed in the round-table agenda on questions of tariffs and trade restrictions, international commodity agreements, shipping subsidies and other issues.

The conference is an unofficial international gathering. Groups will represent Australia, New Zealand, the Philippines, France (Indo-China), Hawaii, Japan, China, Latin America, United States, Canada and Dutch West Indies. The League of Nations and the International Labor Office send observers.

Death List Rises to 10 In Kentucky Elections

Louisville, Ky., Aug. 6 (A.P.).—With voting in many counties heavier than in the record presidential election last fall, Kentuckians tonight awaited the outcome of yesterday's primary elections, meanwhile noting a mounting list of casualties from outbreaks attributed mainly to election disputes.

Counting of votes will start tomorrow. The count in Harlan will be conducted under surveillance of National Guard troops called out Friday after a shooting affray. Ten deaths from shooting or cuttings occurred during the week-end. A number of persons were wounded.

Stunt Flier Killed With Passenger

Lansdale, Pa., Aug. 6 (A.P.).—A veteran aviator and his pilot-passenger were killed today in the crash of their plane, while stunting for a crowd at a farm near here.

The victims were Henry H. Landis, 29, of Souderton, Pa., who was at the controls, and George Haines, 27, of Sellersville, Pa. Witnesses said the crash came after the ship had made a long dive from an altitude of about 1,500 feet.

Six Baltimoreans Hurt In Delaware Car Crash

Beap, Del., Aug. 6 (A.P.).—Six Baltimoreans were injured tonight, two seriously, in a three-car crash on the State road near here.

The injured are Mrs. Theresa Kolsky, 40, lacerations of the head; her mother, Mrs. Frances Michalak, head injuries; Miss Agnes Skolsky, 20, bruises; Mr. and Mrs. Irving Horowitz, badly bruised, and Saul Snyder, a passenger in the Horowitz car, fractured left arm.

Austrians Force Nazis To Erase Huge Emblem

Innsbruck, Austria, Aug. 6 (A.P.).—Twenty-seven Nazis were arrested here today and marched under armed escort to a mountain where they were compelled to climb a cliff and remove a huge swastika emblem painted at an altitude of 6,000 feet.

The action was taken under a recent decree making all members of the outlawed Nazi party responsible for acts committed by unidentified persons believed to be Nazis.

Midshipmen Coming on Square-Rigged Vessels for Visit.

Another Italian good-will tour is headed this way.

Midshipmen from that country on their annual cruise aboard two square-rigged sailing vessels will visit Washington this week. They will arrive in Baltimore Tuesday aboard the Christoforo Columbo and Amerigo Vespucci, named for the man who discovered this country, and the man for whom the country was named.

Aboard the vessels are 46 officers, 206 midshipmen and 598 sailors. Admiral Romeo Bernotti, superintendent of the Naval War College and Naval Academy of Italy, will be in command of the fleet. Capt. Tommaso Panunzio commands the Vespucci, and Commander Aristotile Bona the Columbo.

A round of social functions and activities are planned for the midshipmen and officers in Washington, and also in Baltimore and Annapolis.

On Friday they will visit the Navy Department, lunch at the Mayflower Hotel and attend a formal reception at the Italian Embassy.

Jews Assailed At Nazi Review

Accused by Minister of "Flaying German Soul" as 80,000 March.

Berlin, Aug. 6 (A.P.).—On a sun-scorched plain 80,000 men of the brown-shirted Nazi storm troops passed in review here today before Capt. Ernst Roehm, their chief of staff, in the first general massing of the Berlin organizations.

The troopers heard a field sermon which was used to attack the Jews. Preceding the review the Rev. Herr Tausch said:

"Two million brothers gave their lives for German honor and freedom and a place in the sun.

"Jews and Jew aiders flayed the German soul.

"On the ground lay the German people, spent, yoked and robbed of soul. Then the eternal God sent us—as once every few thousand years in the world history—our leader.

"There is a God who destroys the wicked and leads the just to victory."

Capt. Roehm complimented the troopers on their discipline.

Secrecy Shrouds O'Connell Search

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 6 (U.P.).—Search for the kidnapers of John J. O'Connell, jr., progressed in silence tonight after District Attorney John T. Delaney and the 34-year-old National Guard officer returned to Albany from New York.

Young O'Connell and Delaney were in New York throughout yesterday conferring with police and, it was said, seeking the apartment where the youth was held captive 23 days before being released for $40,000 ransom.

They returned to Albany just as mysteriously as they left. The district attorney concealed whatever informatalon might have been unearthed. Reports persisted, however, that developments in the case were expected hourly—perhaps an arrest.

3 Escape Army Prison By Swimming Channel

New York, Aug. 6 (A.P.).—Three soldier prisoners escaped from Governors Island tonight by swimming Buttermilk Channel, three-fourths of a mile wide, to steamship piers in Brooklyn.

They were Edward Burke, 28, sentenced for robbery after serving at the Army base at San Antonio, Tex.; Harry Stone, 24, from Fort Slocum, and Frederick Gibbs, 20, from Fort Bragg, N. C.

Called to Quakertown Church.

Quakertown, Pa., Aug. 6 (A.P.).—The congregation of the Frst Reformed Church, largest of its denomination in this section, today extended a pastoral call to the Rev. Paul T. Stoudt, of Detroit, to succeed the Rev. H. Jerome Leinbach.

Arizona Ready To Join Repeal Ballot Column

Drys Concede Foes Will Name 14 Delegates Tomorrow.

Phoenix, Ariz., Aug. 6 (A.P.).—Arizona voters will ballot Tuesday on National Prohibition and nominate a successor to Lewis W. Douglas, who resigned as representative in Congress to become director of the Federal budget.

Antirepealist leaders concede 14 delegates, pledged for repeal of the eighteenth amendment, will be chosen. The prohibitionists failed to obtain sufficient signers to petitions to place their candidates on the ballot. Twenty States have ratified the repeal amendment.

Two columns will appear on the ballots, however, and will be headed "for ratification" and "against ratification." Drys may write in the names of their candidates.

The Democratic congressional nomination is sought by two men and a woman. They are Mrs. Isabella Greenway, of Tucson, Democratic national committeewoman for Arizona; Harlow Akers, former State senator and Phoenix attorney, and William Coxon, former member of the State House of representatives. No Republicans have come forward for the office.

Girl Is Fatally Hurt In Shooting Gallery

Chum Held Although Police Believe Shot Was Fired Accidentally.

Revere, Mass., Aug. 6 (U.P.).—An outing of five girls ended in tragedy at Revere Beach today when Miss Margaret Zone, 22, of Providence, R. I., was wounded fatally by a chum at a shooting gallery.

Miss Jennie Peone, 20, of North Providence, who fired the shot, was held on a charge of manslaughter, although authorities were convinced the shooting was accidental.

The owner of the gallery said he had turned his back to load rifles for the girls when Miss Peone picked up a .22-caliber rifle and pointed it at her companion, saying, "I'm going to shoot you." The gun discharged, the bullet striking Miss Zone in the chest. She died shortly after arrival at a Boston hospital.

Chile Acts to End Old Chaco Issue

Asks Powers Whether New Action Can Be Considered Now.

Santiago, Chile, Aug. 6 (U.P.).—Inquiries as to the possibilities for new action in the Chaco territory dispute between Bolivia and Paraguay were sent today to the foreign ministers of Argentina, Brazil and Peru by Foreign Minister Cruchaga.

The acceptance by the two combatant nations of Brazil's suggestion that the ABC powers again attempt to settle the century-old territorial quarrel has made it necessary for the governments of Argentina, Brazil, Chile and Peru to decide upon the personnel of a special commission to go to the Chaco territory to carry out the League of basis for lasting peace.

Elisha Lee Dies As He Quits Train

New York, Aug. 6 (A.P.).—Elisha Lee, 62, vice president of the Pennsylvania Railroad, collapsed and died tonight after alighting from an Albany train at Ninety-sixth street.

Lee, who was a native of Chicago, was crossing the railroad tracks with his physician when he was stricken. He died before the arrival of an ambulance. His home was in Philadelphia.

Vacation Camp Guarded After Kidnap Threat

Exclusive Girls' Resort Is Heavily Patrolled by Troops and Police.

North Sutton, N. H., Aug. 6 (A.P.).—National Guardsmen, sheriff's deputies, motor vehicle inspectors and Federal operatives guarded an exclusive girls' camp on the shores of Lake Kezar here today while the mystery of a reported threat to kidnap Betty Downes, young daughter of a wealthy Philadelphian, remained unsolved.

So determined was Assistant Attorney General Thornton Lorimer, that nothing be done to interfere with efforts of Philadelphia police to capture the would-be abductors he declined even to admit the Downes girl had been the object of a kidnaping threat.

Lorimer was in command of the police and detective agencies that literally overran this quiet vacation spot today. Twenty-five militiamen from Manchester patrolled the woods and roads near Camp Bueno where Miss Downes and 106 other children, largely from Philadelphia and its environs, are encamped.

A squad of motor vehicle inspectors under Charles H. Magown, of Concord, scurried about the highways hereabouts while at least six deputy sheriffs, of Merrimack County, directly guarded the camp buildings under the watchful eye of Sheriff George Wooster.

The Federal Government was represented by Assistant U. S. Attorney Samuel W. Holmgren, of Concord, and at least one undercover operative, who arrived early this afternoon, supposedly from New York City.

One Job to a Person Urged on Employers

(Associated Press.)

President Roosevelt and Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, recovery administrator, were asked by Representative Cochran (Democrat), Missouri, yesterday to urge employers throughout the country to adopt the slogan "Only one job for every person."

Mr. Cochran said the chief offender in permitting persons to hold two jobs was the Government itself, adding that hundreds of Government employes "deprive others of work by accepting employment after Government working hours."

Preacher Chooses Four Greatest Men

New York, Aug. 6 (A.P.).—The Mahatma Gandhi, Albert Einstein, Albert Schweitzer and Toyohiko Kagawa were named by the Rev. Leon R. Land today as the four greatest living men.

"In Albert Schweitzer," he said in a sermon at the Community Church, "we have a great philosopher, sacrificing comforts and honors that he might minister to the needs of suffering people in the Congo.

"Toyohiko Kagawa's life is a record of almost incredible devotion and service to individuals from the lowest dregs of society in the worst slums of Japan.

"Albert Einstein has been called the 'most original and daring speculative thinker and scientific investigator since Newton.'

"And finally, in Mahatma Gandhi we have the great extemplar of the technique of soul force in overcoming social discrimination and political division and oppression."

Fugitive, Who Made Good, to 'Go Back'

Advertising Executive Must Finish Term for Ohio Theft.

Mansfield, Ohio, Aug. 6 (A.P.).—After six years of freedom, Paul Maxin, 25, escaped convict from the Ohio Reformatory, will be returned here Tuesday to resume service of his sentence for theft of a typewriter, Superintendent T. C. Jenkins announced today. Maxin is under arrest in Chicago.

Jenkins sent Chaplain William K. Mackey, of the reformatory, to Chicago to return the prisoner. The superintendent said that unless a pardon is obtained from the governor, Maxin probably will be returned to serve a year or more before being eligible for parole.

Under the alias of J. Paul Faraday, Maxin rose to a responsible position as advertising executive of a Chicago paint concern.

Refining Industry Files Sugar Code

New York, Aug. 6 (A.P.).—The cane sugar refining industry has filed with the Secretary of Agriculture a proposed marketing agreement and code of fair competition, it was announced today.

Acceptance of the agreement by the refiners is conditioned on protection from "the destructive competition of sellers of insular and foreign refined sugar," the refiners' statement said.

The refiners' code states that "competition should be maintained in as free a form as practicable * * * and that a price for sugar must be maintained that will cover the cost of production and provide a fair margin of profit." to that end, it stipulates that "destructive price cutting must be eliminated."

Steward Held in Bomb Plot on Peru Official

Lima, Peru, Aug. 6 (U.P.).—Police arrested the steward of a neighboring house for questioning today as they investigated the bombing of the home of Clemente J. Revilla, president of Congress, in Miraflores last night. The bomb exploded near a window of the dining room where all members of the family were dining. None was injured and damage to the house was slight.

3-in-One Hero

Oklahoman Saves Women Drawn Into Eddy of Youghiogheny.

Ohiopyle, Pa., Aug. 6 (Spl.).—Three women were saved from drowning in the Youghiogheny River below Ohiopyle Falls yesterday. John Burtchett, of Mennessy, Okla., rescued them.

Mrs. Nellie Adams, of Little Brownfield; her sister, Mrs. Charles Ivans, and Mrs. Adams' niece, Miss Regina Adams, had ventured into the region where there is an eddy. Screams of the women as they were drawn down attracted Burtchett, who managed to pull the three out of the peril.

Packers Predict Jobs Above Normal Level

Chicago, Aug. 6 (A.P.).—The packing industry, because of its new code, expects its employment curve to go up more than 10 per cent to better the 1926 level, a year considered normal from the employment standpoint.

Chicago packers tonight refrained however, from giving out estimates of probable increased employment for their individual plants.

Nordlin, of St. Paul, New Eagles' Head

Nominated Without Opposition; 7,000 in Cleveland Parade.

Cleveland, Aug. 6 (A.P.).—George H. Nordlin, of St. Paul, Minn., will be installed tomorrow as grand worthy president of the Fraternal Order of Eagles at the concluding session of the order's thirty-fifth annual convention.

Nordlin was nominated without opposition. Others who will be installed tomorrow include George F. Douglas, of Philadelphia, grand worthy vice president; Paul Steffler, of San Antonio, Tex., grand worthy chaplain; John S. Parry, of San Francisco, grand secretary, and Joseph H. Dowling, of Dayton, Ohio, as grand treasurer.

The order brought its convention to a climax today with a parade of 7,000 members and the auxiliary.

Ohio Farm Blasts Herald New Racket

Dynamiting Is Blamed on Fight to Control Threshing.

St. Clairsville, Ohio, Aug. 6 (A.P.).—A fight for control of the threshing business in this district was blamed today by Sheriff Howard Duff for two dynamite blasts that wrecked a threshing outfit and damaged a barn on the farm of Roy Ballard, near here.

Ballard and his wife were shaken up, but escaped injury. The threshing outfit, owned by Forrest Heskett, Bethesda farmer, was demolished.

Parts of the engine were hurled through the barn by the force of the explosion. Detonations were heard four miles away.

Prayers Stressed By "Fighting Bob"

New York, Aug. 6 (A.P.).—The Rev. Robert P. (Fighting Bob) Shuler, Los Angeles minister, who is on a vacation from Trinity Methodist Church South, there, began his first series of sermons in the metropolitan area today at the Second United Presbyterian Church, in Brooklyn.

The preacher, who once ran for the Senate from California as a prohibitionist, said what the President "really ought to do is throw this beer out the White House window and restore family prayers in this Nation. We need honest merchants behind these store windows more than we need blue eagles on them."

Norman Thomas Aids Relief Strike

Socialist Promises Bond for Six Who Fought 80 Cents a Day.

High Point, N. C., Aug. 6 (U.P.).—Norman Thomas, Socialist candidate for President last year, has promised bond early this week for six "unemployed strikers," in jail here on charges of rioting.

He is here to investigate the strike of unemployed men who had rebelled against the pay of 80 cents a day they were getting as relief workers. He expressed gratification that the men had the courage to strike against such wages, and said there are possibilities of the strike growing into a national issue.

Americans Reach Amoy, Fleeing Chinese Bandits

Amoy, China (Monday), Aug. 7 (A.P.).—The American Consul, Lynn W. Franklin, and 28 other foreigners, among them several Americans, who evacuated the Big Hat Mountain summer resort near Lungyen, southern Kiangsi Province, as the result of Chinese Communist depredations in that region, arrived here today.

Gen. Tsai Ting-Kai and his nineteenth route army have entered the district to alleviate the situation.

Ohio Motorcyclist Dies in Crash.

Adrian, Mich., Aug. 6 (A.P.).—Joseph Albright, 20, of Toledo, Ohio, was killed today when he fell from his motorcycle and was struck by a companion on another. The accident occured 15 miles east of here. Albright was dead when brought to a hospital here.

Job a-Begging

Civil Service Is Seeking Shoe Plant Boss in Federal Prison.

A girl called Molly Malone once walked the streets of old Dublin shouting and singing her wares: "Cockles and mussels—alive—all alive!"

Today the Civil Service Commission could give Molly a job in the streets of America. But her chant would be:

"Who wants a job as a shoe factory superintendent? A good one—alive—all alive!"

Such a job is open at Leavenworth Penitentiary. There have been far too few seekers for the job. More applicants are requested, the commission declared.

Grocers Seeking 63-Hour Code Rule

Indiana Meat Dealers Also Set Minimum as NRA Aid Urges Action.

Indianapolis, Aug. 6 (A.P.).—The Indiana Retail Grocers and Meat Dealers Association today set 63 hours a week as the minimum hours of operation for food stores, and 68 hours as the maximum. The action was taken following receipt of a telegram from A. D. Whiteside, deputy administrator in the National Recovery Administration.

Mr. Whiteside told the grocers shortening the store hours to less than 63 would not obtain the re-employment anticipated from the President's agreement. Employes of food stores will work 48 hours a week under present provisions of the NRA.

Under a tentative agreement reached here recently, more than a thousand Indianapolis food stores were to operate only between 8 a. m. and 6 p. m., Saturdays included, with Sunday openings banned. Members of the Indiana association from 36 cities were represented at the meeting here today.

Snakebite Calls Off Address on Snakes

Suffern, N. Y., Aug. 6 (A.P.).—Col. Martin L. Crimmins, United States Army, retired, was bitten tonight by a water moccasin, just before he was to have delivered an address on poisonous snakes. The lecture was canceled. Serum was administered, and two physicians predicted the colonel would recover. Col. Crimmins was transferring to a suitcase, rattlesnakes, copperheads, and the water moccasin he had brought for demonstration purposes.

Man Is Held by Police In Shooting of Another

Robert Smith, colored, 49, of 1819 Twelfth street northwest, was held at Second Precinct yesterday for investigation following a shooting during which William Smith, colored, 34, 1620 Tenth street northwest, was struck a glancing blow in the forehead by a bullet from Robert Smith's gun.

The shooting occurred early yesterday at 1919 Twelfth street northwest. Smith's injury was not serious and he was released from Freedman's Hospital.

Eight Injured in Car Crash at Uniontown

Uniontown, Pa., Aug. 6 (A.P.).—Eight persons were injured, none seriously, in a collision of two automobiles early today.

The victims are Mrs. Joseph Sprott, Mrs. F. Fuller, Mrs. Earl Wharton, Mrs. John Bartsdale and Miss Polly Rush, all of Ware Shoals, S. C., and Mr. and Mrs. Paul M. Disharoon and son of Pedro Miguel, Panama Canal Zone. The five women were in one car, Disharoon and his family in the other.

Vendors of Ice Cream Held for Sales in Parks

Park policemen yesterday renewed their drive against bootleggers—ice cream bootleggers.

Parks have their own prohibition, and that is selling merchandise without permit. Ice cream vendors are the chief culprits. Seven were arrested yesterday.

Los Angeles Woman Dies in Canadian Crash

Windsor, Ont., Aug. 6 (A.P.).—When an automobile in which she was riding collided with a truck last night, Miss Kay Armstrong, 23, of Los Angeles, was killed. Miss Pearl Bergeron, 25, and H. C. Merritt, 37, driver of the car, both of Windsor, were not seriously injured.

Idle Relief-Work Assistance Grows

330 Alexandrians Aided From July 17 to 31, Director Says.

Albert W. Boehringer, director of public welfare of Alexandria, states about one-fifth of the relief given to Alexandria families in the period from July 17 to 31 has been given in return for work done for the city.

Total expenditures for this period amounted to $242.75, with $148 paid on the work program. He hopes that this made-work program may be increased in the future so as to be helpful to a larger number of families.

Since the department was opened there have been 236 callers at the office in the city hall seeking aid. The majority desired an opportunity to work and in this way obtain an honest, self-supporting livelihood. The report states that 66 families have been aided, or a total of 330 persons.

Mr. Boehringer assumed charge of relief work in July, for which work $3,983 has been allocated by the State of Virginia from Government funds, with another $3,500 to be available shortly, and $7,000 later in the year.

Built for Two

Tandem Bike, Gone Since Gay Nineties, Coming Back Strong.

There must be something to this talk of a renaissance of the old bicycle days.

Even of the days when "A Bicycle Built for Two" was a literal paean of youthful swains.

Cycle Trades of America claims almost a 300 per cent increase in bicycle production last month as compared to July, 1932.

Forty-five thousand bicycles were built in July, it was declared, as against 30,000 the preceding month. Only 12,000 were built in July, 1922.

Manufacturing of tandem bicycles—those bicycles built for two—was started again on a wholesale scale. Except for special orders, this type of cycle had not been built since the gay nineties.

Band Leader Dies In Fight at Party

"Bunny" Benson's Death Laid to Battle With Grid Player on Coast.

Burlingame, Calif., Aug. 6 (U.P.). A gay house party ended in tragedy today when Fortune Nelson (Bunny) Burson, 33, San Francisco orchestra leader, died, supposedly from injuries incurred fighting a football player.

The fight, in which fists and beer bottles were used, occurred between Burson and Richard Chilcott, of San Mateo Junior College, police said. It was witnessed by Burson's fiancee, Frances Biddison, 23, the party hostess.

Chilcott, released on his own recognizance, told authorities Burson knocked him unconscious with a bottle.

An autopsy, according to police, showed Burson's death was caused by brain hemorrhages, due to injuries "inflicted by a blunt instrument." A blackjack was discovered near the scene.

Mr. Prohibition Is Lynched in View of Capitol

Potter's Field Waits Effigy Hanged by Wag Who Quotes Bible.

The eighteenth amendment is dead. The body is at park police headquarters and if there are no claimants burial will be in potter's field.

Sergt. H. T. Miskell and Private G. R. Shibley made the discovery. Garfield Statue, at First street and Maryland avenue northwest, just across from the Capitol, was the scene of the ignominious lynching.

Swaying in a light breeze, the high-hatted effigy hung outside a 5-foot tent which was covered on both sides with bombastic testimony against prohibition. The tent was covered with oilcloth. On one side were several flaps, containing dozens of booklets entitled, "The Inside Dope on Prohibition."

Stovepipe Hat and All.

The victim himself, his high hat bearing the label "Eighteenth Amendment," was garbed in the conventional Rollin Kirby manner, black silk suit and stovepipe topper. His stuffed face wore a wizened expression. He is about 40 inches tall. His creator endowed him with a red nose.

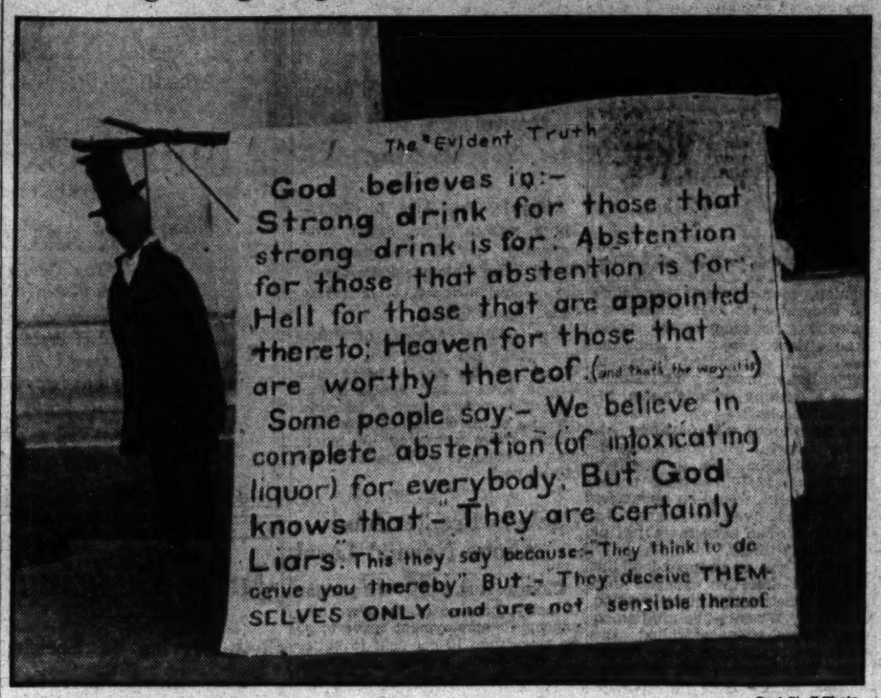
Park police don't know who was responsible for the display but are ready to slap some sort of charge against him—just what they don't know—if he shows up to claim his handiwork.

"Inside Dope," Quotes Bible.

"The Inside Dope on Prohibition" (Volume 1, first edition) proclaims one W. J. Frederick as its author. Its 14 pages are written along the same lines as the tented sermon, with the Bible liberally invoked.

A large crowd was enjoying the sight when Miskell and Shibley came by and spoiled the show by bundling corpse and death house into their police car.

Wag Hangs Eighteenth Amendment in Effigy



The "Evident Truth"
God believes in:-
Strong drink for those that strong drink is for. Abstention for those that abstention is for. Hell for those that are appointed thereto; Heaven for those that are worthy thereof. (and that's the way it is)
Some people say - We believe in complete abstention (of intoxicating liquor) for everybody. But God knows that - They are certainly Liars. This they say because - They think to deceive you thereby. But - They deceive THEMSELVES ONLY and are not sensible thereof

Loan Request Is Drafted for Sewer System

Arlington Application Will Be Submitted Soon to Recovery Board.

ARLINGTON COUNTY BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

Informed that the Virginia advisory committee under the industrial recovery act met at Richmond Saturday to perfect its organization, County Manager Roy S. Braden yesterday announced that he is awaiting information as to when and where to submit the county's application for a $2,250,000 loan for the proposed county-wide sewer system.

All details as to the draft of the application by the county board have been completed, Braden stated, and as soon as the committee is prepared to receive the petition, it will be submitted.

Mystery still surrounds how Glen Melvin, 28, sustained serious cuts on the head early yesterday morning in Arlington County.

He was found unconscious in the gutter in front of Dr. Victor Meyers' home in Fort Myer Heights by passing motorists.

Dr. J. M. Shippee, who took charge of the case, stated yesterday that while Melvin refused to give his address or any information as to how he was hurt, it was his opinion the man was struck by an automobile or was thrown from one. His condition is said to be serious.

Representative Howard W. Smith and Postmaster General Farley will be honor guests on the moonlight excursion to Marshall Hall sponsored by the Democratic Club of Arlington County tomorrow night, according to the president, Charles R. Fenwick. Among other guests will be delegates from the Alexandria, Fairfax and Loudoun County Clubs. The boat will leave Wilson Wharf at 8:30 p. m.

The Arlington County Bar Association will hold its monthly meeting this afternoon in the courthouse at 2 o'clock. All members are requested to attend.

He was also past eminent right grand commander of the Virginia Grand Commandery, Knights Templar, and former president of the Presbyterian General Assembly Training School at Richmond.

Pastor's Funeral To Be Held Today

Winchester Stores to Close During Rites for Dr. Frank T. McFaden.

Winchester, Va., Aug. 6 (Spl.).—Funeral rites for the Rev. Dr. Frank T. McFaden, eminent Southern Presbyterian minister and past grand master of the Virginia Grand Lodge of Masons, will be conducted at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning from Loudoun Street Presbyterian Church here, of which he was pastor at the time of his unexpected death Saturday.

Following the local services, the body will be taken by motor to Hollywood Cemtery, Richmond, for interment at 5 o'clock. Active pallbearers will include six nephews of the deceased, while honorary pallbearers will be the officers of Loudoun Street Church and members of the Winchester Ministerial Association.

A proclamation was issued late today by Mayor Charles R. Anderson here requesting all business houses to close for the hour of the funeral. The mayor also instructed that all municipal offices at the City Hall be closed.

Interment was in Oakwood Cemetery. Mr. Hogan was a native of Albemarle County. Besides his wife, he is survived by five sons and two daughters, all residents of this city.

Gen. Von Below Germany's War Leader, Is Dead

Expires in Waynesville, N. C., After Stroke; Lived Here Since 1919.

Lieut. Gen. Baron Hans von Below, 74, chief of staff of the German army on the Eastern Front during the World War and a resident of Washington since 1919, died yesterday in Waynesville, N. C.

Gen. von Below had a long and distinguished career in the army of the old empire, and was at one time colonel in command of the Augusta Guard, the empress' personal guard, and a member of the kaiser's official family.

At the close of the war he was in command of an army corps on the Western Front.

His brother, Field Marshal Otto von Below, was commander in chief of the German forces on the Eastern Front during part of the war.

Baroness von Below was the widow of Frederick Turnbull, of Philadelphia, when she married the general, a bachelor, just before the war.

They were known as two of the best contract bridge players in Washington.

The baroness was with her husband at the time of his death, which came suddenly following a heart attack several days ago. They were spending the summer at a Waynesville hotel.

Kiwanis Club Dedicates New Camp for Boys

Supper Served to Guests at Alexandrians' Resort for Poor Youths.

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU.
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

With impressive ceremonies, the United States flag was formally raised over the boys' camp of the Alexandria Kiwanis Club, 7 miles south of Alexandria, yesterday afternoon.

The flag and flagpole were donated by James W. Jackson Council, Junior Order of United American Mechanics, and were presented to the Kiwanis by J. Fred Birrell, member of the State Legislature. Irving Diener, Kiwanis president, formally accepted the flag. He dedicated the camp to underprivileged children in the presence of a large gathering of friends of the Kiwanis and the boys, who were guests of the club. A buffet supper was served on the veranda of the clubhouse. The Citizens Band, of Alexandria, gave a concert.

Exercises were opened by the Citizens Band. Thomas M. Jones, vice president of the club, gave a short history of the camp project, and extended the thanks of the club to those who aided in bringing it to a successful completion. Special tribute was paid to J. Kent White, chairman of the building committee, and to other committee chairmen. During the flag-raising, "The Star-Spangled Banner" was played by the band.

The camp was opened two weeks ago, when 15 boys were taken there for a 10-day stay. These were followed by 15 more, and these will be followed by other parties until cool weather in the fall. The camp is in charge of Clarence Ale, director, and Godfrey Runaldue, assistant director. Boys are outfitted with play clothes. Everything at the camp is free to the boys. Everything possible for their comfort and entertainment is being done by the Kiwanis.

Two Boys and Girl, 15, Held In Fairfax as Crime Outfit

Capture Follows 30-Mile Chase by Man Who Charges Theft.

Fairfax County Jail held two youths and a girl yesterday and, according to Sheriff E. P. Kirby, the solution to a cross-country crime wave.

Harold Hoover, 17; Marshall Martinson, 16, and Norme Berg, 15, were arrested late Saturday night after a 30-mile auto chase between Groveton and Stafford Courthouse, Va. They are charged with theft of a tire and gasoline.

The girl, a pretty blonde, and her two companions stole a new automobile in St. Paul last week and started eastward, Sheriff Kirby says they told him. Needing food or fuel, they would stop at a general store or filling station, have their wants fulfilled and then bolt without paying the bill, he claimed.

Going had been easy when they decided to touch Dave Crockett, Groveton merchant, for a tire, gasoline and oil, according to the sheriff. That was late Saturday. Crockett stepped into his own car and gave chase.

At Accotink, 12 miles down the Washington-Richmond highway, Deputy Sheriff George McCann joined the pursuit, which at times was at a 70-mile-an-hour clip, and captured the trio at Stafford Courthouse.

Kirby said last night their descriptions tally with the trio who shot and killed Gustave Hoeh, a merchant near Chicago, when he resisted an attempt to rob him last Friday. He has communicated with Chicago and St. Paul authorities.

The girl and the two boys said they had escaped from a reform school, the sheriff declared. Asked what they intended to do with the rope found in their car, they replied, the sheriff said, that they had planned to hold up a woman storekeeper and bind her.

Officials Inspect Shenandoah Park

Tugwell and MacDonald Study Completion of Skyland Drive.

Luray, Va., Aug. 6 (AP).—Heads of departments interested in the acquisition of the Shenandoah Park land and the completion of Skyline drive are meeting here over the week-end.

Assistant Secretary of Agriculture Tugwell and Chief of the Bureau of Public Roads T. H. MacDonald, accompanied by their wives, were conducted today over the proposed southern extension from Swift Run Gap, at Elkton, to Rockfish Gap, at Waynesboro.

Another party will view the northern extension from Panorama for which bids will be asked as soon as money is allocated. Tomorrow a party headed by Gen. Hugh Johnson and Director Robert Fechner will view the work of clearing dead chestnut trees on the spur road from Camp Fechner to Rapidan, where the entire force of three conservation camps has been transferred for a week with the purpose of pushing work in readiness for the expected visit of President Roosevelt next Saturday.

2 Girls and 2 Men Hurt In Parked Auto Crash

Moorefield, W. Va., Aug. 6 (Spl.).—Miss Lillian Martin, of Moorefield, and Jerry Markwood, of Petersburg, W. Va., were painfully injured Friday night when their automobile collided with a parked automobile on the State road near Fort Hill, near Petersburg.

The Markwood car turned over three times. Miss Atha Lee Snider, of Petersburg, and Harman Hartman, of Petersburg, also in the car, were bruised.

The party was returning to a camp near Petersburg. Miss Martin and Mr. Markwood were taken to hospitals for treatment.

●ABOVE—IN RATING THE POPULAR CIGARETTES, Shute says, "Camels are milder, and what is even more important to any golfer, they do not jangle the nerves."

●ABOVE—TWO CONTINENTS CHEERED when slender Densmore Shute, brilliant young American golfer, with wrists of steel and nerves that never wavered, won the British Open—the tenth American champion in ten years!

Steady Smokers turn to Camels

When it comes to healthy nerves, "DENNY" SHUTE speaks with authority. "I couldn't have won the British Open if my nerves hadn't been in perfect condition," says Shute. "Healthy nerves are essential to any golfer who wants to turn in a good score. The enjoyment of cigarettes has not interfered with my golf game because I have smoked Camels right along. I have tried all the brands and long ago found that Camels are milder, and what is even more important to any golfer, they do not jangle the nerves."

* * *

"Denny" Shute offers conclusive evidence that Camels are milder. That they don't interfere with healthy nerves. That smokers like Camels better, the more they smoke them. Consider the fact that Camels are made from costlier tobaccos—and switch to them yourself. You will also discover that Camels are better for steady smoking.

●RIGHT—"I'M NOT A CHAMPION GOLFER—not even a fair one, according to Mr. Shute's standards! I'm a young married woman, interested in home and children. But I'm inclined to be the nervous type. So I switched to Camels, for the sake of my nerves, and because Camels are definitely a milder cigarette."

How are Your Nerves?

IT IS MORE FUN TO KNOW

Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE tobaccos than any other popular brand. Leaf tobaccos for cigarettes can be bought from 5¢ a pound to $1.00...but Camel pays the millions more that insure your enjoyment.

Camel's Costlier Tobaccos

NEVER GET ON YOUR NERVES
NEVER TIRE YOUR TASTE

McCoy, Former Wealthy Truck Man, Ends Life

Bankrupt, Job Lost, He Shoots Self in His Manassas Garage.

Wilfred E. McCoy, Manassas, Va., who during his years in the trucking business had become widely known all over Virginia, was found dead yesterday in the garage behind his home with a bullet wound in the right temple. A revolver lay at his side.

County Coroner E. H. Marsteller said no inquest would be held, but that a certificate of suicide would be issued.

Surviving McCoy are his wife, Mrs. Luna A. McCoy, and a daughter, Miss Maderlin M. McCoy.

Loss of Job Blamed.

Business reverses and the loss of his position are cited by friends as the reason for his act. Until about four years ago, McCoy was considered wealthy, but his trucking business went into receivership last December and he filed voluntarily as bankrupt last May. He then obtained a position as Virginia manager for the Jacobs Transfer Co., of Washington, which took over his defunct McCoy Transportation Co. He was removed from that position Saturday.

McCoy's body was found by a colored helper. McCoy had returned home, walked back to the garage and given a cordial greeting to the helper. He entered the garage and a shot was heard, but since he often shot rats there it was only by chance that the helper went in and found the body.

Started Business in 1914.

Born in Elkton, Va., Mr. McCoy was in the garage business in Alexandria for about two years, moving in 1914 to Manassas, where he became proprietor of the Central Garage. This became the Manassas Motor Co. in 1920, holding the Ford agency there. In 1923, McCoy took up trucking as a sideline, hauling produce and milk, and in 1926 established the McCoy Transportation Co., which was incorporated in 1930. The company maintained large warehouses in Washington and a fleet of trucks.

During the last few weeks, McCoy's daughter has been operating a small truck line to help bolster the family income. Their home is due to be sold under mortgage August 26, officials said.

Mr. McCoy was a Shriner, a member of Acca Grotto, Richmond.

Rector's Wedding Set for Sept. 6

Rev. D. C. Wright, Waynesboro, Will Take Bride to Georgia.

Waynesboro, Va., Aug. 6 (Spl.).—The Rev. David Cady Wright, rector of St. John's Episcopal Church of this city, will be married to Miss Mildred Woodward Cochran, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Smith Cochran, of Folly, near Staunton, September 6.

The ceremony will be at 5 o'clock in the afternoon at Trinty Church, Staunton, and will be followed by a reception at the home of the bride's parents.

Miss Cochran will have as her maid of honor her sister, Miss Elizabeth Brooke Cochran, and the only bridesmaid will be the bridegroom's sister, Miss Jane Adair Wright, of Savannah, Ga. Miss Cochran is a graduate of St. Catherine's School in Richmond and attended the Peabody Conservatory of Music in Baltimore.

The Rev. Mr. Wright, formerly of Savannah, is a graduate of Kenyon College, Ohio, and the Virginia Theological Institute in Alexandria. After the marriage they will go to Athens, Ga., where he will take up his new charge as rector of the Emmanuel Church there. He will also have charge of student religious education at the University of Georgia.

Conductor Quits After 50 Years

E. C. Chaney on Short Runs Covered 3,000,000 Miles With N. & W.

Luray, Va., Aug. 6 (Spl.).—For the last forty years able at all times of the night to tell what part of the road he was passing over by the "ride" of his train, E. C. Chaney has been retired as a passenger conductor on the Norfolk & Western Railroad after a half-century's service. Conductor Chaney had reached the age limit.

During his service he has covered more than 3,000,000 miles of his run between Hagerstown, Md., and Shenandoah, this county. In recent years his mileage had been increased, his run being between Hagerstown and Roanoke.

A brother, B. V. L. Chaney, also was retired for age recently, after having been with the same railroad for half a century.

Boards Named For Frederick County Voting

115 Officials, at Cost of $500, to Conduct Election of One Man.

Winchester, Va., Aug. 6 (Spl.).—Frederick County Electoral Board today appointed 115 officials to conduct a special election here on Thursday, August 10, to select a man for the Virginia House of Delegates to fill out the unexpired term of the late Joseph S. Denny, of White Post.

Although but one candidate seeks the office, the election is required under Virginia statute and officers stated today it would probably cost the county between $500 and $600 to hold the election. The man selected for Mr. Denny's place will serve only until January 1.

E. Blackburn Moore, of Berryville, is the lone candidate for the place, standing on the Democratic ticket. Voters, however, will have the privilege of writing any other choice on the ballot.

Rattle Stilled

Maryland Woman Kills Huge Snake in Midst of Berry Picking.

Mount Savage, Md., Aug. 6 (Spl.). While picking blackberries on the Van Meter farm, Mrs. Mary E. Pollock, of near Mount Savage, killed one of the largest rattlesnakes seen in this section in years. It was 6 feet 8 inches long and had 13 rattles and 2 buttons.

Mrs. Pollock has picked over 130 gallons of berries this year and this was the first snake she had seen.

Peach Harvest Is Going Strong In Albemarle

Orchardists in Crozet Area Are Elated by High Prices.

Waynesboro, Va., Aug. 6 (Spl.).—Peach harvest is now in full swing at Crozet with orchard owners greatly encouraged by the recent increases in prices.

The Alberta variety has risen to between $1.25 and $1.50 per bushel, f. o. b. shipping point. The Crozet annual crop averages 500 railroad car loads and was rated last year as the largest single shipping point of peaches in the East.

With the North Carolina crop now harvested, the Crozet orchardists have little competition to face on the market until next week the Augusta County crop begins to be picked.

The peach market opened with the Florida and Georgia crops bringing 75c to $1.00 per bushel and the North Carolina crop brought little more. The Crozet fruit growers, therefore, feel especially fortunate and picking and packing has been rushed considerably in the effort to market the fruit while the prices remain at the high level. Many professional packers from the far South are being employed in the Crozet orchard.

The peach harvest in Augusta County will begin next week and the growers are hoping the price will remain firm. The Augusta crop does not approach the tremendous Crozet output. Neither is the crop commercialized to the extent of the Albemarle fruit, but orchardists are anticipating the unusually good peach prices to balance the low figure predicted for the 1933 apple yield.

Following the harvesting of the Augusta crop, the professional packers who began work several months ago in Florida, will move into Maryland and continue working northward through New York State and into Canada.

Dr. Miles said the time for his departure will depend upon action by the Montgomery Presbytery. He has been here about seven years.

Clan Reunions Drawing Many From 3 States

Maryland Well Represented at West Virginia Gatherings.

Grafton, W. Va., Aug. 6 (Spl.).—The season of family reunions continues in full swing, with leading families of northern West Virginia and the western part of Maryland now enjoying many happy gatherings of clans.

Visitors to these meetings, some observed formally and some were informal gatherings, come from all over Maryland, West Virginia and the Old Dominion.

The eighth annual reunion of the Brown family, always one of the largest in this section, will be next Sunday at the Brown Church grove on the Grafton-Fairmont road. An elaborate program has been arranged. C. G. Brown, Fairmont, is president of the association.

Pierce Family to Assemble.

At the same time the Pierce family will assemble at the Pierce Farm on the Northwestern turnpike, 4 miles east of Grafton, for a full day's activities.

The Porter and Moore reunion at Wadestown brought members from West Virginia, Ohio, Maryland and Pennsylvania.

The descendants of Robert Jones met today at the Four-H camp near Farmington. A picnic dinner was served at noon.

The annual reunion of the Reed family will be next Saturday at the home of James P. Reed in West Alexander.

Cochran Clan to Meet.

The Cochran clan reunion at Wheeling Park drew members from over the State. A basket dinner was served with a program following. Fred Cochran, president, was in charge. Mrs. Ida C. Haughton, Columbus, Ohio, family historian and author of "Chronicles of Cochran," attended.

The Bode, Rymer, Spurgeon and Burton families will hold a homecoming next Sunday in Gilmer County fairgrounds, Glenville. The Auburn band will play. Dr. D. P. Kessler, Weston, will deliver the principal address.

At the same time the Dodson and Waldeck families will hold their annual all-day gathering at the A. N. Woofter farm, near Alum Bridge.

Bennetts to Hold Reunion.

Jackson's Mill will be the stage for the Bennett reunion next Sunday when Eli Bennett, of Weston, will preside. Clark Blake, of Clarksburg, is vice president, and Miss Cora Tyers, Weston, secretary-treasurer.

The descendants of David and Elizabeth Wolfe gathered at Laurel Park, near Clarksburg, today for their third annual reunion and basket dinner.

The Shahan-Williams-Ritter meeting will be held next Sunday at Reynolds Grove, Reynoldsville.

The Lanbert reunion was held today at Crickard Grove, near Montrose, with a large attendance.

Staunton Builders Pledge Aid to NRA

Staunton, Va., Aug. 6 (Spl.).—Architects, contractors and dealers in building supplies at a meeting here unanimously adopted a resolution to sign President Roosevelt's emergency agreement and to work out a code suitable to Staunton conditions. S. J. Collins, architect; Capt. C. W. Lambert, chairman; Aubrey Potter, W. E. DuVall, F. N. Moran and B. M. DePriest made addresses.

Clarksburg, W. Va., Aug. 6 (Spl.). A group of war veterans of Middleburg, Sisterville and Marietta, Ohio, today resumed search in the waters of Middle Island Creek and the Ohio River for the body of Richard Westwater, who drowned Friday night while inspecting a trot line in a boat at Shiloh.

Parade Prizes Being Given by Capital Stores

More Cups Needed for Big Firemen's Fete; Aids Busy on Plans.

Firemen and committees at work on this year's Labor Day parade, plan some of their most intensive work this week.

Although a great many of the trophies for winners of the various parade events have already been donated, others are needed and an intensive drive will be made to collect the majority of them before next Sunday.

A total of 45 cups must be had for the big outdoor pageant. Hotels, theaters, night clubs, restaurants and individuals have contributed cups. Others should be secured.

No Price Limitations.

The firefighters place no price limitation on the trophies. Any size silver, or gold plated cup may be used. Local concerns desiring to contribute trophies in the name of their concerns, are urged to get in touch with the trophy committee, through Sergt. A. J. Bargagni, parade marshal.

Likewise, the parade committee is asking merchants who are entering floats in this year's commercial division to place their entries quickly, in order that a better position may be given them in the line of march.

Floats of Business Houses.

This year the committee has decided to allow Washington business houses to enter floats, provided they are artistic in design and pass the approval of the float committee.

Several concerns are busy arranging floats, and are planning elaborate contributions to the artistry of the parade.

Progress of parade plans will be reported at a meeting of the National Firemen's Association Wednesday evening, at which time future developments of the colorful event will be discussed. The meeting will be held at Sergt. Bargagni's home.

Campaign Started By Augusta G.O.P.

C. C. Leep Likely Candidate for House, Following Rousing Meeting.

Waynesboro, Va., Aug. 6 (Spl.).—One hundred Republicans of Augusta County staged a rousing meeting here last night and gave notice to the Democrats that the two Democratic nominees would not go to the House of Delegates unopposed.

Several men were advanced as possible candidates to oppose W. Stuart Moffett and C. G. Quesenbery in the general election, but the final choice of a candidate will be made at a county-wide convention at Staunton August 21. C. C. Leep, of Waynesboro, G. O. P. candidate for the Assembly two years ago, who made an excellent showing in a section preponderantly Democratic, probably will be the nominee of the convention.

Officers of the club elected to direct the coming campaign are Brown Deputy, chairman; H. A. Giddings, vice chairman; J. B. McGahey, second vice chairman; T. O. Tench, third vice chairman; Westford Warner, secretary, and Melvin Land, treasurer.

Young Winchester Democrats Elect

Jack T. Engle Heads County Group That Plans Member Drive.

Winchester, Va., Aug. 6 (Spl.).—Jack T. Engle, young Winchester business man, was elected president of the Young Democratic Club of Winchester, and Frederick County, at a session here last night. He succeeds Commonwealth Attorney Burr P. Harrison.

Other officers elected include Mrs. Dorothy McCann Rice, vice president for Frederick County; D. J. Howard, vice president for Winchester, and Miss Eliza Tucker, secretary-treasurer.

A drive for members will be started immediately to reach a climax with a rally and picnic the latter part of August. The Young Democrats passed a resolution unanimously supporting the State ticket in the November election.

Another Pennsylvanian Arrested in Flag Insult

Bedford, Pa., Aug. 6 (Spl.).—Frank Rouze, of near New Paris, has been taken into custody by State police in a round-up of youth who, police charge, were involved in the desecration of the United States flag.

The young man and companions were charged with breaking into the Eight-Square Schoolhouse, near Fisherton, taking a large flag, fastening it to the back of a car and trailing it in the dust. Elmer Mock of the same place was arrested previously.

Posse Hunting For Slayer at PineyPoint, Md.

Man Kills Fisherman With Oar, Wounds Another; Four Pals Seized.

Leonardtown, Md., Aug. 6 (Spl.). A posse of officers and citizens tonight was scouring the region around Piney Point for the Negro who today killed one man with a boat oar and seriously injured another.

The victim was Henry E. Hawkins, 42, Sperryville, Va., who had gone to Piney Point, 18 miles from here, with some friends for fishing. The injured man is W. H. Massie, jr., Washington, Va., who ran to his assistance. He was cut on the head.

Meanwhile, four Negroes who were with the assailant are being held in the Leonardtown Jail for hearing tomorrow at 2 p. m. before Magistrate Phillip Medley.

Hawkins, father of seven children, came to this section with W. H. Massie, jr., the injured man; W. L. Massie, C. B. Miller and T. C. Lea, of Washington, Va., and James H. Fletcher, Sperryville. Hawkins went to a pier to engage a fishing boat. He was accosted by the five Negroes and one of them struck him on the head with an oar. Massie ran to aid him and was knocked unconscious with the oar. The assailant fled.

The four Negroes were seized by other witnesses, and Sheriff Richard Hammett was summoned. The prisoners said they were Francis Maddox, Neddie Johnson, George Robinson and Pudding Robinson.

Hawkins' body will be taken to Woodville, Va., for funeral services.

Miss Nixon Dead At Leesburg Home

Sister of Famous Shipbuilder Succumbs to Paralysis at 86.

Leesburg, Va., Aug. 6 (Spl.).—Miss Florence Nixon, 86, sister of Lewis Nixon, of New York, shipbuilder of international fame, died at her home here last night following a stroke of paralysis.

Miss Nixon was a life-long resident of Leesburg, the daughter of the late Joel Lewis Nixon and Mary Jane Nixon. She was a member of the choir of St. James' Episcopal Church, Leesburg, for a number of years and also a charter member of Loudoun Chapter, United Daughters of the Confederacy. Besides her brother she is survived by a sister, Mrs. Ada Spinks, of Washington, D. C., and a nephew, Reginald Nixon, commissioner of revenue of Loudoun County.

Funeral services will be held Tuesday at 11 a. m., conducted by the Rev. G. Peyton Craighill, of St. James' Church, with interment in Leesburg Cemetery.

Two Men to Face Murder Charges

West Virginians Returned From New York in Double Slaying.

Charleston, W. Va., Aug. 6 (AP).—Leo Frazier, 30, of Charleston, and Charles Harper, 19, of Huntington, were returned to Charleston tonight to face charges of murder in the slaying of Deputy Sheriff Roy Shamblin and Ralph Harper, his prisoner.

They were arrested Tuesday in New Rochelle, N. Y., just a week after Shamblin and Harper were slain in what officers said was an attempt to free the youthful prisoner, on his way to serve a 25-year term for murder.

Authorities said indictments will be sought when the Jackson County grand jury meets next week. Also charged with murder is Henry Cano, of Charleston, who has been held since the day after the shooting. A woman docketed as Dorothy Cano was retained for questioning.

Charles Town Woman Succumbs, Aged 52

Charles Town, W. Va., Aug. 6 (Spl.).—Mrs. Helen V. Myers, 52, wife of John F. Myers, residing near here, died today. Prior to her marriage she was Miss Moller, of Jefferson County. Surviving are three sons, Daniel, Calvin Louis and Raymond; six daughters, Mrs. Thurmond Whittacre, Misses Margaret, Helen, Mary, Catherine and Ruth Myers. To the Home Makers of America

Sugar and the Home

Sugar is a household necessity; its cleanliness, purity and price are of daily concern to millions of homes. As refiners of the raw cane sugar of the Tropics, we and our predecessors have served the country for over 200 years. Our refineries and products are the best in the World. We have performed the refining service through the years at low cost. Before and during the World War, the United States cane refining industry proved to be the key of the sugar supply of the Nation.

Expanded capacity a legacy of our War effort

During the World War, the industry went under governmental control as a patriotic service, expanding its capacity to care for the Allied nations. No provision was made by our Government to hold, through trade agreements, the Allied nations' business after the War. Refiners, as individuals, were powerless to accomplish this end, so this left us with excess capacity more than enough for domestic need. Since the War nations have by tariffs, bounties and other devices closed their doors against American refined sugar, and by bounties on exports have displaced our refined sugar even in world markets. Our large excess capacity is thus a disastrous legacy from our war effort.

Deliberate duplication in the Tropics

Due to a loophole in the tariff the domestic industry has been further imperiled by a deliberate Duplication in the Tropics of refining facilities long established here. Our Tariff and Colonial Policy encouraged the production of raw sugar in the Islands and protected its refining on the Mainland. The tariff loophole reversed that—clearly a mistake and a costly one. The extent of this duplication is shown by the following table of refined sugar coming into continental United States since 1925.

From	1932	1931	1930	1929	1928	1927	1926	1925
Cuba	423,252	326,662	244,485	228,541	166,720	79,201	51,859	1,183
Puerto Rico	84,504	72,314	66,164	38,969	40,008	10,584	2,891	707

Tropical refineries hum. U. S. refineries work part time

The refined sugar brought in during 1932 was sufficient to supply 14,150,000 Americans, equivalent to the consumption of 21 states, and resulted in reduced meltings in United States, dismissal of employees, reduced wages, and decreased purchases of supplies.

Tropical refiners now seek to perpetuate their duplication of United States refineries by demanding an official share—or "quota"—in the United States market!

Naturally. But would it be fair to the domestic industry, their employees and stockholders, numbering tens of thousands? Would it be in the public interest? Would it square with American policy, old and new? The Philippines and Puerto Rico have been liberally treated and should be content to continue as producers of raw sugar, as originally intended. Would it be fair to give Cuba a "quota" on chocolate and silk and other manufactured articles, or would it be fair to give Canada a "quota" on flour, or Holland on cheese? If so, what a stimulus for further unnecessary duplication of mainland facilities! If not, why should the sugar refining industry be subject to such official treatment?

No justification for Cuba to duplicate domestic refineries

In 1920 the Tariff Commission pointed out that Cuba did not refine sugar, and so the 20% preference on Cuban raw sugar afforded protection to American refiners. This theory failed when Cuba built refineries. Cuba knew full well our tariff principle of providing a higher duty on an imported manufactured article than on the raw material imported for its domestic manufacture. Cocoa beans are on the free list but chocolate pays 40% duty. Raw silk is free of duty but silk itself pays 65% duty. And so generally. Cuban duplicators of domestic sugar refineries well understood that they had no claim on the United States market or households.

Foreign countries generally safeguard their refining industry from duplication even in their own colonies

This is true of Canada, England, France, Italy, Holland, Sweden, Denmark, Japan, Australia and generally throughout the World. Refining in country of consumption is the approved practice. Such is the practice in Canada, England, France, Holland, Japan and other countries and always has been the practice in the United States. It has proven best for raw sugar producers everywhere. It has proven the best safeguard for the households rather than dependence on remote tropical refineries.

Why we are advertising these facts to the Home Makers of America

United States sugar refiners now have the capacity and can employ labor if the sugar now refined in Cuba was refined in the United States. We enter daily about 25,000,000 homes. Cleanliness, purity and prices are daily topics. If sugar prices are high the households look to us. If low, the sugar producers in the Tropics look to us. We stand between these two large groups, with a permanent relationship to both. Sugar refining and distribution, to be efficient in all respects, must be a large volume industry. In years of crop failure we search the World for supplies. In years of war we are vital to national defense. Anything which lessens our volume lessens our efficiency and increases our costs. The households of the country will be the first to feel the effect. From our contacts with the sugar producers of the Tropics we are satisfied that they agree with us that the two-hundred-year system of producing raw sugar in the sugar islands and refining it in the United States, where it is consumed, should not be disrupted.

Decision at Washington will affect Homes of the Nation

We are advertising these facts so that the home makers of the country may know that our Federal Government at Washington, under the cloak of its Recovery Program, has been asked by a small minority group of producers of the Philippines, Puerto Rico and Cuba to make a decision against the interest of our people in the United States.

The Next 16 States.

The march toward repeal of the eighteenth amendment will be resumed this week. Not much interest has been manifested in the Arizona balloting, which will take place Tuesday, because no fight is being waged in that State. The prohibitionists failed to name candidates, and the repealists claim that Arizona will become almost by default the twenty-first State to ratify the twenty-first amendment.

Most of the sixteen States that are scheduled to vote on repeal before the amendment can become effective are in the South and West. Sentiment in both of those sections has been tested out and the trend in favor of the new amendment is strong. Southern States are scheduled to vote as follows: Texas, August 26; Florida, October 10; North and South Carolina, November 7. Maryland, which will vote on September 12, may also be included in this list. Latest indications are that Virginia will vote for delegates on October 3, thus becoming one of the first 36 States to ratify the repeal amendment. In view of the fact that Arkansas, Alabama and Tennessee have all voted in favor of repeal there seems to be little probability that any of these southern States will reject the new amendment.

The heavy repeal majorities already registered in Oregon, California, Wyoming and Nevada indicate that the west is overwhelmingly against the eighteenth amendment. After the vote in Arizona on August 8 will come the test in Washington on September 5, and in Idaho and New Mexico on September 19. A vote on repeal has been tentatively set for September 5 in Colorado. Definite plans are being laid in Utah for a vote on November 7. Gov. Cooney of Montana is trying to avoid a special election for repeal delegates, but he has indicated that Montana will act if such action is necessary to insure repeal of the eighteenth amendment this year.

Utah is doubtless the driest State in this western group. But the people of that State have been hit hard by the depression. They are in a mood for change. Utah may be expected to join the group of 36 States whose votes will put an end to prohibition.

The other States which have set dates for balloting on repeal are scattered through the Middle West, the East and New England. They include Missouri, where balloting will take place August 19; Minnesota, September 12; Ohio and Pennsylvania, November 7; Vermont, September 5, and Maine, September 11. Probably all of these States will be found in the repeal column.

Other States may join in the movement to cast their ballots this year, but present indications are that their action will not be essential to the completion of repeal. In the 20 States that have voted, including many that were formerly considered dry, the total vote in favor of repeal is nearly 3½ to 1. A few ultra-dry States have refused to authorize conventions and some have definitely postponed their balloting until the fall of 1934, but it appears that the eighteenth amendment will be out of the Constitution before that time.

A Nation on Wheels.

The American people have become so accustomed to automobiles that they would find it extremely difficult to get along without them. Thirty years ago the United States had only 32,920 registered automobiles and no motor trucks. Now there are enough motor vehicles registered to carry every individual in the country at the same time. The automobile is an every day necessity for millions of people.

The largest registration ever recorded was in 1930, the year after the depression began. Since that time there has been some decline. A world census of automobile registration has just been completed by A. W. Childs, chief of the automotive division of the Department of Commerce. It accounts for 24,317,020 motor vehicles registered in the United States at the beginning of 1933, a drop of 6.4 per cent from the 1932 total. The peak of registration three years ago was 26,523,779. In view of what happened to business, industry and personal incomes during the last three years, it is remarkable that so many automobiles have been kept in operation.

Other countries have not become so dependent upon the automobile as is the United States. According to the Department of Commerce census there were only 23,568,295 motor cars registered in the entire world at the first of this year. France has 1,845,000 cars, giving her second place in the list of countries using gasoline motor transportation. England is third with 1,385,472, and Canada fourth with 1,106,408. Germany lags behind with only 616,200 cars, followed by Australia, with 533,833. Next in order come Italy, Argentina, New Zealand, Belgium and Spain.

The absence of Japan in this list of 11 nations possessing most of the world's automobiles is notable. Automobile production in Japan is negligible, and only a small minority of the people can afford to buy motor cars. Liberia has the smallest number of automobiles in proportion to population. One car is registered for every 47,170 inhabitants. Russia has only one car for every 5,128 persons. The United States is really the only nation on wheels.

Freight Rates Sustained.

The Interstate Commerce Commission has denied the petition of farm, lumber, coal and other organizations asking for a reduction of railroad freight rates. The petition contended that all other costs of doing business had come down, and that railroad freight rates remained at the level prevailing before the depression, thereby imposing a handicap upon industry and agriculture. The railroads responded that if rates were reduced many lines would be unable to meet their interest and rental payments and would be forced into bankruptcy.

The commission in the majority decision, holds that present rates are not shown to be unreasonable; that the earnings of railroads have been greatly affected by loss of traffic to motor and waterway competition and by reduced rates to meet such competition; that if rates were lowered by even 10 per cent the net revenue in the near future would probably fall short of meeting fixed charges; that general rate reductions, by lowering revenue would threaten the continuance of adequate service and thereby tend to increase unemployment; and finally that the preservation of an adequate railroad transportation machine is more important to the country than lowered freight rates.

Three members of the commission dissented from this decision, and in their opinion declared that maintenance of the present rates constitute a violation of the prohibition against unjust and unreasonable rates. These members also contended that it was to the interest of the railroads themselves to ameliorate the distressing conditions affecting industry and to assist in the plans for national recovery.

It does not appear that the commission's decision is intended to stand premanently, and perhaps rapidly changing conditions will greatly affect railroad earnings. The improved business of the railroads is enabling them to give better service in some instances. They seem to be striving to meet the sharp competition of motor trucks and barges. It is stated by the commission in the majority opinion that "after allowance for the recent upturn in commodity prices the freight rate level is still relatively higher than the commodity price level," but it adds that the value of commodities transported is not the controlling factor in fixing fair freight rates.

Enter the Epicure.

Believing that the era of the hip flask is drawing to a close and that sane conviviality should be encouraged in connection with a better appreciation by Americans of good viands, a New York group has organized the Society for the Advancement of Better Living. Fourteen-course dinners seem to be the first objective, and it is proposed to establish something of a standard by holding at least one dinner and one luncheon a month. The society will not look only to food and drink for uplift, but these will serve in the beginning to bring congenial souls and cultured minds together in the movement.

These "modern disciples of the old Greek philosopher, Epicurus," would assemble high-brow writers and musicians to assist in the cultivation of social graces among the masses. Cultural pursuits must be made popular for Americans, it is held, with a view to instilling in the people "the technique of moderate and sane living." The society may not be able to demonstrate fully its idea of what the proper combination of food and drink should be at a refined American dinner until after sixteen more States have spoken on the eighteenth amendment, but it is eager to make a start.

The list of charter members of the organization includes well-known names in theatrical, literary and other artistic circles, and at least one United States senator. The honorable secretary takes the mission of the society with due seriousness, holding that the future civilization of America depends on whether we abuse or rightly deal with that most exquisite of all human felicities—that of the sane and temperate enjoyment of good food and drink in an atmosphere of social ease, intelligent conversation and urbanity. The need is seen of establishing a guide and example for the young people, deprived by post-war excesses, in the gracious, old-fashioned mode of living. So the Society for the Advancement of Better Living undertakes to be a pioneer in the cause.

Old Law a New Hurdle.

A new dilemma confronts the Government agencies which are trying to extend relief to the farmer. Some one has called attention to an old statute, enacted in 1875, under which Federal agencies are required to withhold sums due the Government when making payments to individuals owing the debt. In the opinion of some officials this law is applicable to payments about to be made to wheat and cotton growers in return for reduction of their acreage planted to these crops.

President Roosevelt has been asked to decide whether or not the Government must collect debts owed by farmers out of these benefit payments. Until his decision has been reached compensation checks are being withheld, although some farmers have been authorized to destroy their cotton on land leased to the Government.

Farmers in various parts of the country owe the Government $139,335,742. Over a period of several years loans have been made, especially in the wheat and cotton belts, for seed, feed and crop production. These outstanding loans are now largely in default. Farmers have been unable to repay the Government because of drought, low prices or other adverse conditions. But many of these debtors are now in line for benefit payments through the agricultural adjustment act. It is estimated that $200,000,000 will be distributed among wheat and cotton growers who cooperate with the Government in reducing acreage. If all the debts owed to the Government by farmers scheduled to receive such benefits should be deducted, the actual amount of cash distributed might be reduced by as much as one-half.

Apparently cotton growers who agreed to reduce their acreage did not expect their debts to the Government to be deducted from the benefit payments. It is feared in some quarters that if the 1875 statute is held applicable in these cases it may seriously affect the outcome of the movement to reduce acreage. Farmers are expecting substantial cash payments for their cooperation with the Government, and any forced collection of old or new debts out of the first fruits of the farm adjustment act would be a great disappointment.

Collection of crop production and seed loans out of the adjustment funds would doubtless be a great relief to the Farm Credit Administration, which has the responsibility for this work. But that factor probably will not enter into the President's decision. The question is whether the old law is applicable to the present situation.

The Conservation Corps.

The Civilian Conservation Corps now has an enrollment of about 300,000 men in 1,556 camps scattered throughout the country. Of the $300,000 daily wages a portion is retained to be sent to the families of the workers. Besides this relief aid, it is suggested that the money expended on the corps is by no means wholly lost, but is partly recouped by the prevention of costly forest fires, the eradication of pests, and the development of national parks by trails, roads, telephones, &c. President Pack of the American Tree Association estimates that a previous loss equivalent to $200,000 a day resulting from fires on 50,000,000 acres of forest will be saved by the work of the Conservation Corps.

Considerable employment is indirectly created by the demands of the Conservation Corps. While Army trucks are used whenever feasible, about 6,000 automobiles and trucks are required for the operations, representing an outlay of $3,000,000. Camp equipment, buildings and clothing cost millions of dollars. Other large items are tools, dynamite, cement, gasoline, pipe, drill steel, paint and 1,000 miles of telephone wire. The athletic equipment for the camps cost $200,000. In all, about $20,000,000 was required to establish and equip the camps. Another $20,000,000 will be expended in acquiring lands in the South, to which the winter operations of the Conservation Corps will be transferred. About 8,000,000 acres of forest land will be taken over, and 200 winter camps will be established.

The Little Red Schoolhouse.

From the Topeka Capital.

The little red schoolhouse has been one of the most significant of all American landmarks for more than a century. It is part of the background of millions of Americans; it has been the starting post for many of the Nation's most successful men; and it lives today in a halo of sentiment, a thing as typically American as corn on the cob.

But Owen D. Young was quite right in his recent warning to the National Education Association that we must bend every effort to getting the little red schoolhouse off of the scene.

The rural villages of the red schoolhouse's heyday, Mr. Young points out, were self-contained and self-supporting. They were islands, remote and isolated. The cultural life of the Nation was centered in the cities; to the cities, consequently, went the ambitious and energetic young men as soon as the red schoolhouse had got through with them.

Today the wind of change is blowing over the land. New economic conditions foreshadow a decentralization of industry, of population and of culture. The small town is due for a rebirth. The old barriers that isolated it have vanished forever.

But, says Mr. Young, "we will not get this change in country life without good schools. People will not move there or even stay there if the educational facilities for their children are inadequate. The schools are the key which will unlock the country for modern living."

All of this is perfectly true, and no one who has traveled through rural districts in recent years can fail to realize that a tremendous start has already been made in the right direction. The fine new schoolhouse is more and more becoming the cultural and architectural center about which the life of the small town is built. Many and many a town has spent more money than it could really afford to give its children the best schoolhouse possible.

That is a healthy trend. Our democracy must stand or fall by its educational system, and the demands which it will make on its schools in the immediate future will be greater than ever before.

The little red schoolhouse, enormously useful as it has been, has outlived its day. The American scene will lose one of its dearest landmarks—but it will get something better to take its place.

Changed.

Cool the breeze and fair the day,
Lily pads in bloom,
Now the town seems far away
With its grief and gloom,
Strange in just an hour I can
Seem to be a different man.

Yesterday I railed at life
And at buildings gray,
Then I was a man of strife
Battling through the day,
Driven on by human words—
Now I'm listening to birds.

Now I've put away renown,
Fretfulness and care;
Turned my back upon the town
With its stifling air
And I'm fishing on a stream
Where a thousand glories gleam.

Yesterday I fancied all
Eye could ever see
Was a line of buildings tall
Prisoning men like me.
Now beneath God's open sky
Life seems different. So do I.

Without Bonds He Is Still a Slave If He Serves Against His Will

By Robert Quillen.

LAWRENCE TIBBETT was reared in the faith that success comes only as the reward of hard work. And since hard work is commonly defined as something that nobody enjoys doing, he thinks there must be some trick in his success. He is paid for doing the thing he most likes to do.

But his experience isn't unusual. To every man who achieves much, the work he does is play.

Perhaps that is the secret of success. In any case, no man can do his best unless his work is something that he would do for the joy of it if he had no other incentive.

Of course the genius can do a number of things remarkably well, and the man who makes a great success of merchandising might be equally successful as a farmer; but the ordinary man must find his job in a limited field, and he seldom climbs above the rank of drudge unless his work is the kind of thing he likes to do.

It isn't the job that makes drudgery; it is the state of mind.

In ordinary times, millions of men continue to drudge at distasteful jobs year after year because they began to earn their living in that way and haven't the courage to quit and make a new beginning.

But now Fate has intervened and made arrangements for these same millions to begin at scratch. Within the limits of their ability they can choose the work they like when the wheels turn again.

Why go back to a job you hate when you are free to try the thing you long have yearned to do?

Does the old job promise more money or greater security? Do you dread the criticism of relatives and friends?

A little money and the approval of relatives make a sorry mess of pottage to replace your birthright.

What can you get out of life except happiness? If your distasteful job brings you more money, what thing of value, except happiness, can you buy with it? Bless you; if the new job makes you happy, you will have riches enough.

You have but a few short years to live. It is tragic folly to spend them fattening in a hated treadmill if some leaner occupation offers you contentment.

Political Comment

Something Demanded From All.
Kansas City Times.

The spirit of the recovery program is the spirit of friendly cooperation and mutual concession for mutual good. The program can succeed only to the extent that such a spirit prevails. There have been numerous evidences of the proper attitude in this matter, the latest example being that of the steel industry in its modification of minimum wages in the South and in elimination from its code, on request of the industrial administrator, of the provision relative to company unions.

But the spirit of concession is not and can not be a one-sided affair. There are occasions on which it must be displayed by the worker as by the employer. Contention, strife and an unyielding position are as bad for the one as for the other. Where they are permitted, recovery is threatened and the one group will be called upon to suffer equally with the other.

Uncertainties of Wheat Allotment.
Minneapolis Journal.

Whatever the several Washington relief program administrators may think of their various jobs, and each job has features that make it in some respects the most difficult, the Secretary of Agriculture has the biggest gamble. If it were given to any one to foresee the weather for 1934, the Secretary's work would be greatly simplified. As it is, he is dealing with uncertainties. So, although the recent announcement that farmers who come in under the benefits of the wheat-processing tax will be asked to sign for a 20 per cent acreage reduction, it is now uncertain whether they will be called on to cut planted area by more than 8 or 10 per cent.

The Banker's Part.
Houston Post.

The obligation resting on bankers to assist in making the National industrial recovery act a success was set forth clearly and convincingly by Jesse H. Jones, chairman of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. Business and industrial interests are joining in a national program of increasing employment and enhancing the buying power of the people. Credit is the lifeblood of business, and if there is to be expanding of business, obviously there must be an expansion of credit by the banks.

New Alibi in Order.
Dayton News.

Stimulated Improvement.
Los Angeles Times.

How much of the undoubted improvement in business and employment in this country has been due to the actual and prospective application of the various artificial stimuli of the "New Deal" is a question on which one man's opinion is as good as another's.

Those that hold that a very substantial part of the improvement is traceable to the natural tendency of disturbed economic conditions to right themselves without extraneous aid find an argument in the fact that the betterment of such conditions in this country is substantially paralleled abroad, where no such program of systematic government pressure has been brought to bear.

The Anticrime Campaign.
St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

The Roosevelt administration, in its short life, has already worked revolutionary changes in many fields; we look forward confidently to its success in the war against crime. In this war it starts, not from scratch, but with a reputation for persistence and skill that has made Federal agents and Federal justice regarded with deepest respect by the underworld.

The Test at the Polls.
Kansas City Star.

By an unnecessarily complicated and far from satisfactory procedure the delegate candidates for the Missouri State convention to act on repeal have been selected. From each senatorial district, except one, there have been named two sets of candidates, one in favor of repeal, the other opposed to it. In the one district, the Twenty-third, the drys refused to participate in the preliminaries, and no candidates representing them were selected. It will become the duty of Gov. Park, under the law, to appoint these candidates.

As a matter of fact, it might have been a better plan if the governor had been authorized by the Legislature to name both sets of delegate candidates from lists supplied him by the wet and dry forces of the State. That would have been much simpler and less expensive; it would have provoked less criticism and it would have given the people, equally well, a chance to express themselves for or against repeal.

Days of Change.
Sioux Falls Daily Argus-Leader.

It isn't a question now so much whether we will recognize Russia, but whether Russia will recognize us. In fact, the United States has changed so much in the past five months that we aren't sure anybody can recognize us.

The Once Over.

By H. I. Phillips.

DR. MOLEY: IN OR OUT.
(A Washington Strange Interlude.)

COL. HOWE.
I am so very much surprised
You could floor me with a feather;
My view is, when it's analyzed,
We are having lovely weather.

SECRETARY HULL.
Give me, oh give me, the news about Moley—
Don't spare a detail; I want the facts wholly!

REPORTERS.
Don't rush us; here's the latest act—
They've shifted Moley; it's a fact!
He goes to serve with Homer Cummings
And ends his diplomatic slummings.

SECRETARY HULL.
I hate to let emotions rule me;
I'm hoping, boys, you wouldn't fool me.

REPORTERS.
We're simply stating what's been done;
Cordell, we don't fool any one.
Kidnaping gangs he will dissemble—
Already you can see 'em tremble!

SECRETARY HULL.
Kidnapers he will chase, you say?
I hope the chase leads far away;
The farther Moley has to go
The happier I shall be, you know.

However, there is still some doubt
My doctor friend is really out;
According to the latest dope
He's merely widening his scope.

POLITICAL EXPERT.
That stuff is merely so much bunk;
I tell you Dr. Moley's sunk!
A crime wave drive? The truth they hide—
He's being taken for a ride.

DR. MOLEY.
(From afar off.)
The papers always get things wrong,
They've been against me all along;
Although I'll hunt kidnapers, I'll
Not let the hunting cramp my style.

I like Cordell; Cordell likes me;
We always press that point, do we;
And even when I'm probing crime
He'll feel I'm with him all the time.

SECRETARY HULL.
(With a groan.)
Oh dear! I fear that this is so;
They can't, I fear, make Moley go
So far away that I can be
A fellow with some privacy.

POLITICAL EXPERT.
You're in a pessimistic mood;
I tell you he has gone for good!

SECRETARY HULL.
(Appealingly to Col. Howe.)
Out with the truth! Oh Howe I crave it—
And you're the only guy to have it!

COL. HOWE.
Tee! Hee! There's no use asking me,
I never know a thing, you see;
My only statement is, to wit:
It's lovely weather, isn't it?

SECRETARY HULL.
Ah, well, I'll have to trust to luck;
I hope with Cummings he is stuck;
My friends they say he's on the spot—
But dear, oh dear, I fear he's not!

LET'S BE FAIR.

Under the new Stock Exchange rules customers' men are prohibited from calling customers on the phone without written consent. An uprising by customers is expected any moment. For they just love it.

Take away from the average market addict his morning call from a customers' man and you rob him of his daily illusion that he is a pretty important figure in the financial world.

"Nor may any firm employ a clerk in a nominal position because he can bring in business," says another rule. There you go making it impossible for a boy with a fine golfing record to make an easy living.

Another rule declares it unethical for brokers to pay expenses incurred in entertaining customers. "Unethical? Why," shouts the Average Little Lamb, "it's incredible!"

WHY JURORS TOPPLE OUT OF THEIR CHAIRS.

(From a stenographic report in a current murder trial.)

Q.—And did you go with him steadily after that?

A.—As steadily as you would go with a fireman.

Letters to the Editor.

Somebody Would Have to Remain on the Moon if Prof. Conrad's Rocket Should Reach Goal.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: According to W. A. Conrad, asistant professor of mathematics at the Naval Academy, a trip to the moon and back in a passenger-carrying rocket is worth the cost of two battleships, or approximately $100,000,000. Did any middies volunteer to make the trip? A deep-sea trip in a submarine has its dangers, but the professor's trip to the moon makes a submarine dive absolutely "fool-proof."

Who would volunteer to remain behind on the moon in order to touch off the rocket on its return trip to the earth? How would the marooned volunteer be rescued?

Suppose, instead of seeking middies to volunteer for the trip to the moon, the Naval Academy should hold a contest to see what middy can "box the compass" on a pie? That would be a useful experiment. OLD SALT.

Oklahoma Visitor Notes Vast Changes in Washington in 27 Years.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I saw Washington some 27 years ago; again yesterday and today. Marvelous change! Yet it seems but yesterday, as if I rubbed Alladin's wonderful lamp amid other circumstances, when suddenly a vision appeared. No, not a mere vision, but Washington; America's wonder city—marble, granite, architecture, art, stupendously unfolding the great plans of L'Enfant, as possibly George Washington might have imagined at the time they were made.

Mexican Radio Parley Is Still In Deadlock

U. S. Channels Menaced by Demands of Latin-American Nations.

By Robert D. Heinl.

Private advices reaching Washington are that there has been a deadlock at the North American Radio Conference in Mexico City for the past week. The opinion is ventured that if this is not broken soon the conference may be dissolved without an agreement.

One report is that the Mexicans have demanded twelve clear channels, which the Americans declare is out of all proportion to their needs. Canada has only five clear channels, but is sharing additional regional and local frequencies with the United States.

Menace to U. S. Channels.

Likewise it is understood that other Latin-American countries have demanded clear channels which would result, if lumped together, as one broadcaster put it facetiously, "in the United States having about one clear channel left." The United States now has 40.

The average radio listener is perhaps more interested in the outcome of the conference than he realizes. If no agreement is reached he may be affected almost immediately, unless there is a change of policy by the Mexican government with regard to stations which have been closed down in this country and have opened up just across the border.

Dr. Brinkley's Threat.

Station XER, at Villa Acuna, operated by Dr. Brinkley, of Milford, Kans., is already causing serious interference with his 75,000 watts power. If, through the representations of former Vice President Curtis, who is in Mexico City as Brinkley's unofficial observer, he is allowed to step his power up to 150,000 watts even more havoc may be created in this country, whose highest powered station is 50,000 watts.

Furthermore the Mexican government has authorized the construction of a 100,000 watt station at Piedras Negras, and still another of 500,000 watts at Matamoras.

Dayton Pilot Killed, Companion Is Hurt

Plane Crashes in Kentucky, Its Engine Crushing Victim.

Flemingsburg, Ky., Aug. 6 (AP).—One man was killed and another injured, probably fatally, this afternoon when an airplane crashed in a field about one mile from here. The man killed was identified as Arthur Evers, 32, pilot, and the other was identified tentatively as Robert C. or Harold Pierce, 30. Both were believed to be from Dayton, Ohio.

The plane was seen to circle low over the outskirts of town. A few minutes later it crashed headlong into a field. The men were trapped inside the plane, the engine crushing Evers.

It was believed the plane was en route from Dayton to take up passengers from an improvised landing field near here.

Repeal of Economy Act Is Demanded

Senator Robinson Brands It "Brutal Deed of Cowardly Congress."

Indianapolis, Aug. 6 (AP).—Speaking at a home-coming celebration in his honor here today, United States Senator Arthur R. Robinson, Republican, declared that the "so-called economy act must be repealed at the earliest possible moment."

"Only thus can be righted the inexcusable wrong that has been done the war veterans of the United States," he said.

Fifteen drum corps and bands led a parade to the World War memorial, from where the senior Indiana senator spoke.

The economy act was described by Senator Robinson as "the most cruel, brutal and utterly indefensible act ever passed by a cowardly Congress."

Physician, Beaten In Apartment, Dies

New York, Aug. 6 (AP).—Dr. Walter P. MacGibbon, 61-year-old physician, who was beaten severely in his apartment early Friday, died of his injuries today coincident with arraignment of an 18-year-old former patient, who, police said, acknowledged striking Dr. MacGibbon.

The ear, nose and throat specialist was found late Friday with a fractured skull and a broken jaw.

The former patient, Raymond Sullivan, was held in $5,000 bail before a magistrate for a hearing Wednesday on a charge of felonious assault.

Police quoted Sullivan as saying he had been drinking and struck the physician with a bottle after going to his apartment in the hope the doctor might know where he could get a job.

Joseph D. Oliver, Noted Plow Maker, Expires

South Bend, Ind., Aug. 6 (AP).—Joseph D. Oliver, 83, noted plow manufacturer, died here today after an illness of several weeks.

Mr. Oliver was chairman of the board of directors of the Oliver Farm Equipment Co. It was organized in 1930, being composed of the Oliver Chiled Plow Works, of South Bend; the Nichols & Shephard Co., of Battle Creek, Mich., and the Hart-Parr Co., of Charles City, Iowa.

Half-Forgotten Romances of American History—Rachel Donelson and Jackson

Days of "Old Hickory" in White House Clouded by Her Death.

By Elisabeth E. Poe.

"To speak no slander, nay, nor listen to it," was the sage admonition of King Arthur to his Knights of the Round Table, and the same counsel might well prevail in Washington, a whispering gallery since the days when John and Abigail Adams rounded Hains Point with the rest of the Government in sailing sloops to set up the world capital that was to be.

The high-placed, of course, are always targets for the envious barbs of gossip. The great and good have been no exception in the matter of victims. One of the most appealing romances in all American history is that of Rachel Donelson and doughty Andrew Jackson, whose White House tenure lost much of its savor to him because of calumnies that were a direct cause of the death of his wife some months before his inauguration and which embittered him to his dying day.

With all his outer crustiness, Jackson had a heart as tender as that of a woman. In his romance with Rachel Donelson he found the one love of his life. Although after he came to Washington he was besieged on all sides by maids, widows and designing mothers who wished to see their daughters occupying the coveted post of First Lady of the Land, there never was another woman in his life after the untimely death of Rachel Donelson.

Rachel Donelson had been a first lady of the frontier since the time when only a 13-year-old girl, she had helped her father Col. Donelson, battle with the redskins from the gunwale of their hunting skiff. Rachel had not flinched at the peril and her lovely dark eyes glowed with excitement without a trace of fear.

Their Romantic Meeting.

Like the pioneer woman she was, Rachel Donelson learned the ways of the wilderness and was happy there because she had the courage, the strength and the ability to adapt herself to its demands. Col. Donelson thought, however, that his children were being deprived of some of the advantages of civilization, so as Rachel grew into young womanhood he decided to take his family to the settlements in Kentucky.

First love came to her there for a gloomy, taciturn chap named Lewis Robards and there was a brief courtship and a marriage. Yet after all they were not suited to each other and they soon parted, she to go to her family then living in Nashville, Tenn.

Little did Rachel Donelson Robards dream that the real romance of her life was to come to her there.

Tennessee had a new public prosecutor, one Andrew Jackson, a stormy frontier lawyer of 21. Born in 1765, he had been too young to fight in the American Revolution, although legend claims that he participated in at least one skirmish in that conflict which "tried men's souls." But he felt the drive of the stirring times after the peace came. Father and mother had died in his childhood and he was alone in the world at 14. But the sturdy Scotch-Irish strain in him made this but a slight peril.

Andrew Jackson was a man at the age when the boys of today are still in preparatory school. He earned his own way and wrested an education out of the scanty pioneer educational facilities at one and the same time. He studied law between times and so successfully that in 1788 came his first public office and romance together.

Arriving in Nashville the young public prosecutor wanted a place to live. The neat home of Col. Donelson struck his fancy. Accustomed to asking for what he wished he stormed up to the door and asked if he could be accommodated. It is said that Rachel was fascinated from the first moment she gazed on him, tall and thin-faced, with blue eyes ablaze—the eyes of fighting sea captains—and a saber cut streaking his forehead from some of his earlier soldiering.

Divorce Cause of Gossip.

He got the room and before long he had won the heart of the daughter of the house as well. The vision of Robards faded out of her mind and she began to smile at her backwoodsman lover. Meantime she was not yet released from her errant husband. In those days divorce was indeed the court of last resort and not entirely respectable in the staid Scotch-Irish settlement. What was to be done?

Rachel was a girl of spirit and advanced beyond her times. She felt that her marriage was a mistake and that she could be happy with Jackson. With legal acumen he began to look about for remedies under the law. He found that a divorce could be granted by the Legislature of Virginia, which was done in the winter of 1790-91. While perfectly satisfactory to Rachel and Andrew, some of their friends questioned it and a buzz of gossip arose which was finally to grow into a shout and end their marital happiness.

There seems to have been, as well, some irregularity about the divorce. At any rate, after Jackson and Mrs. Robards had been married in 1791, Capt. Robards in 1793 applied for and secured another divorce from his former wife in Mercer Court, Kentucky. So the Jacksons remarried in 1794, to be doubly sure of their right to be united. In their eyes the Virginia divorce had been satisfactory and they ignored talk about the later one and the hum of criticism that arose all around them.

After they lost Hunter's Hill, their home, through the collapse of some commercial paper in which Jackson had unwisely invested, they built a glorified log cabin which they called the Hermitage. Political fame came fast to Jackson, first as chief justice of Tennessee, and then as United States representative and senator from that State.

Politicians' Rough Tactics.

Then came the War of 1812 and the world knows how Jackson's military career eclipsed even his political one, how he led his forces of homespun-clad frontiersmen into the very teeth of the British at New Orleans and how he captured Pensacola in his invasion of the Seminole country in Florida. Never a danger threatened that could daunt Andrew Jackson so long as he knew that at the Hermitage Rachel Jackson was keeping the home fires burning.

The new Hermitage came after Gen. Jackson returned from the wars and his election as United States senator. Rachel accompanied him to Washington, but found its social round very fatiguing and soon returned to the quiet and peace of The Hermitage.

While in Washington the Jacksons boarded in the same house with Gen. Lafayette, then the Nation's guest. Writing of this to some friends in Tennessee, Mrs. Jackson declared:

"When we first came to this house, Gen. Jackson said he would go and pay the marquis the first visit. Both having the same desire, and at the same time, they met on the entry of the stairs. It was truly interesting."

When Jackson campaigned for the Presidency, his opponents dragged forth the facts of his marriage to Mrs. Robards, and did not spare Mrs. Jackson in their attempts to keep the general from the White House. In failing health for some years, Mrs. Jackson tried to bear up. But it was too hard to bear that he, her hero, the object of her life's great romance, he to whom she had devoted the affections and energies of her long life, should be taunted, on her account; that he should, for her sake, be considered unworthy of the trust of that Nation for whose defense and honor he had undergone unnumbered fatigues and conflicts and perils.

When victory perched on the Jackson banners it was but a shallow one for them, for her health was still alarming. She said simply when she heard the news: "For Mr. Jackson's sake, I am glad; for my own part, I never wished it." She seemed to regret the necessity of living in the White House. Once she remarked to a friend: "I assure you I would rather be a doorkeeper in the House of my God than to live in that palace in Washington."

Slander Gains Its End.

The last blow fell upon her when, while shopping in Nashville, she overheard a conversation in which she was accused of almost every fault in the category of possible feminine sins. The circumstance so agitated her that she had a breakdown after her return home, although she did not tell Jackson until she was on her death bed just what had occurred.

A few days before a great ball which was to be given to Gen. and Mrs. Jackson in celebration of the anniversary of the battle of New Orleans on December 23, Mrs. Jackson was mortally stricken. She died in her husband's arms, serene to the last in the sure knowledge of his devotion and love. At her grave tears coursed down his stern cheeks, while the rest of the multitude wept with him. Waving his hand, he begged them not to weep any longer. "I know," said he, "it is unmanly, but these tears were due to her virtues. She shed many for me."

His Rachel gone, White House and political honors mattered little to Jackson. Until his death he wore her miniature about his neck and hidden beneath his shirt. On the back of the miniature was a pretty little wreath made of his and her hair.

Under a simple monument in the lovely Hermitage garden in Nashville sleep Gen. Jackson and his beloved wife, secure as Shelley wrote "from envy, calumny and pain." On the tablet which commemorates Mrs. Jackson's memory are these words penned by her husband:

"Her face was fair, her person pleasing, her temper amiable and her heart kind; she delighted in relieving the wants of her fellow-creatures, and cultivated that divine pleasure by the most liberal and unpretending methods; to the poor she was a benefactor; to the rich an example; to the wretched a comforter, to the prosperous an ornament; her piety went hand in hand with her benevolence, and she thanked her Creator for being permitted to do good. A being so good and yet so virtuous, slander might wound but could not dishonor. Even death, when he tore her from the arms of her husband, could but transport her to the bosom of her God."

Inoculated Pets Are Still at Large

Lincoln, Nebr., Aug. 6 (AP).—Lincoln's police department went rabbit hunting today after the Lincoln General Hospital received an anonymous tip that a number of rabbits seen scampering about might be those inoculated with infectious diseases, which were stolen yesterday. None was found, however.

A telephone call to the hospital this afternoon was the first response to an appeal by police, health authorities and newspapers to recover the 29 rabbits and 4 guinea pigs taken from cages on the hospital grounds Friday night.

The guinea pigs were inoculated with fluids from tubercular patients while the rabbits were inoculated with various infectious diseases. Doctors said the diseases might be communicated to human beings if the animals were eaten but the animals probably were harmless if only handled.

City Searched For Girl Who'll Star in Movies

Paramount Scouts Will Pick Her From Riders on Wilson Boats.

Today is the beginning of Paramount's search for a Washington girl for a featured role in the picture, "Eight Girls in a Boat."

Today scouts from the motion picture company will ride the boats of the Wilson Line, selecting one girl from each trip. Tonight, four girls will have been picked. Tomorrow the same routine will take place, and so on for seven days.

At the end of the seven days, all of the girls who have been chosen will be presented on the stage of Loew's Fox Theater, where representatives from The Post, Paramount and the theater will decide the winner.

Winner Goes To Hollywood.

The lucky girl will go to Hollywood, with all expenses paid. She will receive a salary of $50 a week, while working in "Eight Girls in a Boat." At the end of the picture she will be given an opportunity for future screen work, a possible movie career.

Here is a movie hunt with no rules, no entry blanks to fill out and no particular details to follow. All Washington girls have to do to compete is ride one of the Wilson Line boats, beginning today. If you are the lucky one, you will be notified by the paramount scouts.

A contest similar to this one is being conducted in eight American cities. From each one a girl will be sent to play in the movie.

"Be Yourselves."

Girls who ride the boat today are urged to be themselves. The movie people have not stated what type they seek. No mention is made of whether she must be blonde, brunette or red head. Neither is any age fixed, no weight, nor height.

The Post will publish details of the search and from day to day pictures of the girls chosen from the Wilson boats will appear in the paper.

From Clown Cap to Chinese Pagoda Comes Inspiration for Season's Chapeaux

Window Shades Acquire Scenic Effects in Color

New Make-Up Outfit Works Wonders With Tired, Sallow Complexion.

By Ann Davis.

"I'm afraid I'm a poor shopper," the customer remarked to the young man back of the counter. "I'm looking for something in window shades, but I haven't the faintest notion what."

The young man was prompt. "Something serviceable, pretty and reasonably priced?"

"Yes," she answered, wonderingly. "How did you know?"

"Oh, I'm a pretty good guesser sometimes," he modestly replied as he reached for the sample book. "Here's something for the living room," he continued, exhibiting an ecru shade sample whose plainness was broken by interwoven stripes. "This one also comes in a lighter cream. Here's one with a water scene," he pointed to the lillies, ferns and ducks in green, rose and yellow, on a white background. "Very pretty for the bathroom." He turned the pages of the book. "This one for the nursery." It was decorated with blue lined doll-like figures shaded in red and yellow. "All of these," this master of shade lore continued, "are specially processed. They won't crack, pinhole nor deteriorate when exposed to light or water."

The customer was well pleased. She made her selection easily, and left the shop satisfied with her washable shades, the shop and the courteous clerk.

Whether the dog has chewed your book, and torn the leaves apart, or whether Junior has wreaked an equal amount of damage, or whether age itself is responsible, an F street bookbinder can fix up any battered member of your library to look like new.

And there's more to the story than that. The bookbinder does this at a lower rate than you've figured on. Out with the ancestral volumes! Dress them up for fall!

One colonial maid sweeps the crumbs away, the other spreads her ample skirts to catch them. Whether for bridge, breakfast, luncheon, or dinner, the maids are ready to serve you in all their silver plated splendor. They belong to a well-known set. Maybe you know them, Miss Crumb Tray, and Miss Crumb Brush? On sale for 59 cents.

The call of the wild, whatever it is, has nothing on the lure of the World Fair. Neither time nor money must stand in your way. Some one murmurs, "Rash statement!" But no, a trip is being planned which removes all your difficulties. Time, three days, cost, $31.85. This includes a round-trip railroad ticket, dinner and breakfast in air-cooled diner, transfer from station to hotel, two nights in first-class hotel, souvenir admission ticket to the world's fair grounds, sightseeing tour of Chicago, and a tour through the fair with lecturers. If you're having such a gay time you can't leave, your ticket is good for a stay-over. The party will leave Saturday, August 12. If by that time 100 people are going the trip will cost only $26.45. Better enroll now. The trip's a real treat!

She was beautifully dressed. Obviously her clothes had come from an expensive shop. But there was something wrong. Her hose! They were the right color, but their thick, glassy look told the tale of an erring bargain hunter. The price was so exceptional and the shades so appropriate she had succumbed to their appeal. But by spending little she was paying dearly. The shopper noted the moral and decided to find some sheer hose that were inexpensive, long-wearing and good-looking. She found them. Call and she'll tell you where.

It was nearly time for the party. She spread her fluffy frock on the bed and looked at it admiringly. Trying on her new slippers, she waltzed around the room in them. The first party for months! When she sat down at her dressing table, her spirits dropped. The reflection of a tired, care-worn face brought tears to her eyes.

Cinderella's godmother flew in at the window, left a small square box on the dresser and flew out again.

The weeping maiden who believed in godmothers more firmly than we do wasn't a bit surprised. Fact is she was somewhat provoked with her godmother for being a bit late. However, she opened the package. A make-up set with rejuvenating powers! She followed directions carefully. First a mask of strawberry cream which she removed with clear water. An application of facial oil to soften the skin. A touch of powder base, and then the powder. Her heart beat rapidly as she looked anxiously in the mirror. She scarcely recognized her own face! She felt sure she'd be the belle of the ball now.

A downtown store is selling these make-up kits, $6 value for $3.

What's in Fashion?

Fall's New Berets and Toques Are Draped High With Points and Pleats in Crowns

You'll like the new fall hats! They look as if the designers had thought of them in light-hearted moments. Pert as a clown's wink. Dashing as a racing jockey. Small, and usually built skyward by clever draping of the crowns. Very wearable hats, coming well down over your hair in back and tilting romantically toward your right eye in front.

The tricks they've thought of putting the berets through! High in the back, often with a bright feather fancy planted on the very top. And sloping toward the front, sometimes emphasizing the slope with pleating or stitching, as the hat at the lower left in the illustration does.

Soft or Rigid.

Some rather troubadourish berets are shirred, flaring into soft pouches at the side front. And in contrast to these you'll see others with padded rims that give them a more rigid outline. Still another type has a visor and looks a lot like a man's cap.

Visors are oftener seen on toques, however, like the one at the top of the illustration. Helmet effects, folded and draped close to your head in glorified jockey fashion.

Overseas Cap.

Did you like the lines of the doughboys' overseas caps? You can have that in a new toque . . . back point high and front point dipping low.

And the most piquant, rakish, carefree hat of all is the clown toque. If you can stand it severely pointed, all the more amusing.

If not, you'll want it modified and softened by draping. The one shown at the right in the illustration is softened, as you see, and some have their points flattened down even more.

Some toques show a Chinese influence in shallow crowns with sharply turned-back cuff brims. These brims are often pulled out at the sides in pagoda effect.

Another type is crested, with twisted rolls, ruchings or feather fringes. So if you like a hat with a little something on it there's the kind to please you.

Most women will look for velvet first . . . or satins to go with late summer clothes and early fall ones, too. Later you'll see felts, ribbed silks and woolens sprinkled over the streets. Soft, pliable materials that can be draped and tucked and corded in the new built-up ways.

The practical black and red-brown will most often be picked to go with the dresess of these colors or to match black and brown accessory sets. But you'll see navy and gray, too, and bright heads bobbing along in reds and greens and bright blues.

Chance Teaches Infant to Swim As Lessons Fail

Mother's First Efforts to Have Baby Learn to Swim End in Outright Failure.

By Alice Clarissa Richmond.

A woman who as a girl had been a very fine swimmer decided to train her young son to swim as early as possible. The child was still unable to crawl when she began to put him into the water; by the time he was 18 months old he was able to paddle about in deep water on water-wings.

Not satisfied with his progress, the mother now decided to give him lessons, and every day forced him to leave the other children and learn strokes and form.

When he was 3, and still could not swim, she insisted on his jumping into water above his depth, in spite of his protests and pleadings.

Has Nightmares.

After a few weeks of this the child began to have nightmares, sometimes two or three times in a night, and, as a result of the loss of sleep, to lose appetite and weight. At first the mother would not believe that the swimming lessons were the cause of the child's terrors, but as the child grew worse she finally became persuaded of it and gave up forcing the situation.

The boy learned to swim quite by chance. One day he fell off the dock, and before any one could reach him he had swam several strokes alone, much to his own surprise. Every one congratulated him on his accomplishment and made much of his bravery in saving himself.

Gains Confidence.

Far from being frightened by the accident, it seemed to give him the self-confidence which had been lacking, and the next day he jumped in of his own free will and within a week was swimming.

Water is not the natural element for mankind, and a person has to overcome an initial fear of it before he enjoys it. To force a child to do a thing he fears starts an inner conflict which, if repressed at the time, will often appear in sleep, when the brakes have been removed.

Corded Wool Coat Dress Has Novel Features

Preparing for the cooler days she hopes will come during the summer, Dorothy Jordan, movie star, has bought an attractive coat dress of corded navy wool, featuring sleeves with fullness above the elbow.

A novel yoke arrangement and covered buttons running down the entire length of the dress give this costume an unusual touch.

Blue and white polka dotted silk fashions her Schiparelli turban. Her gloves, purse and pumps are of blue kid with a trimming of suede.

The Family Marketer

Reasonable Care in Shopping Reveals Good Buys in Food Lines; Cantaloupes From Maryland at Peak of Season; Beans Plentiful.

By Hoyt Barnett.

Food vaules are plentiful at this time of year.

But to get real food values one must either shop around or take advantage of efforts made by another shopper who has taken the time to investigate food values.

This is the first of a series of daily stories written for readers of The Washington Post who are interested in getting greater food value for their food dollars.

The cantaloupes coming into Washington from Maryland are the best of the season, quality and price considered. This variety is the so-called green-meat cantaloupes and, served either alone or with a scoopful of ice cream in the center, are hard to beat.

Tomatoes Look Rough.

Plenty of tomatoes are coming in from Maryland, too. But they don't look very good. They are rough and poorly colored. Carefully selected lots are worth the money.

There is a good supply of locally produced string and stringless beans. One can't tell the difference between the two varieties if the beans are well cooked. The price is right at this time.

A grower from nearby Maryland promised to have some honest-to-goodness Golden Bantam corn on the market today. Ask your grocer for some. But don't be fooled by the so-called golden corns that are nothing but a yellow field corn and, in fact, are inferior to even the present poor quality white corn on the market.

Veal Prices Reasonable.

For some unexplained reason, all cuts of veal are cheap this week. This meat appears to be the best buy on the market here. Spring lamb, of course, is mostly of fine quality, but the price is higher than a kite. And getting higher.

If the weather is cool at any time this week, take advantage of the kindness of the weather man and save yourself some money on meat dishes. And here is the way:

Brisket or short ribs of beef are selling as low as a nickel a pound in good stores. Parboil this meat and then roast with vegetables.

Get the hot work over on the cool days, and eat the meat cold on the hot days. In this way the housewife gives herself a break on the cooking and her husband a break on the eating, because, from what butchers say, they have been selling prepared lunch meats by the yard.

Retail Food Prices.

Eggs—Government-inspected, 29 to 30c; extras, 24 to 26c; loose mediums, 21 to 23c.
Butter—Prints, 30 to 32c; tub, 28 to 30c.
Poultry—Broilers, 25c per lb.; friers, 25c per lb.; heavy hens, 20c per lb.; medium hens, 25c per lb; light hens, 18 to 23c per lb.
Potatoes, 3 to 4c per lb.
Carrots, 7½c per bunch.
Beets, 5c per bunch.

Paris Likes Riding Breeches of Fur

De Marinis Shows Newest Equestrian Note at Salon Opening.

By Mary Knight.

Paris, Aug. 7 (U.P.).—Fur riding breeches is what the well-dressed young lady will don to ride to the hounds this fall and winter, if one is to follow the American couturier, De Marinis.

De Marinis showed these astonishing trousers at the fashionable Rue de la Paix salon this evening, while the audience cheered. Fur, said De Marinis, is in vogue not only for the collar and neckpiece, but for the breeches—and several fetching models were shown.

The designs in fur were not limited only to riding breeches, but included similar costumes for aviation and other sports, trimmed in furs. One had a huge front pocket on sports coats to be used like a muff for both hands, the hands to enter from either side.

There was a lavish use of fox, lynx, lamb, mink, ermine and sable in these designs and they appeared more than a little popular with the buyers.

De Marinis' exhibit also included luxurious evening gowns done in cloth of gold, crepe velvet, heavy satin and silks, with normal waistlines.

Skirt lengths from 8 to 10 inches from the floor in daytime costumes, but to the instep and grazing the floor for evening wear, with many trains a yard long, in contrasting colors and tissue.

What Today Means

"Leo."

If August 7 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 9:20 to 10:30 a. m., from 5 to 5:45 p. m. and from 9 to 10 p. m. The danger periods are from 11:30 a. m. to 12:45 p. m., from 3 to 3:30 p. m. and from 6:15 to 7:15 p. m.

Influences operating on this date will probably be of a troublesome nature and will tend to stir up petty animosities and jealousies. Particularly between married people will there be bickerings and naggings. Children will be unaffected and continue the even tenor of their ways without excessive quarreling.

The child born on this August 7 will probably lack decision and will invariably turn to his elders for guidance. He must be taught to act on his own initiative. He will probably seek his amusements indoors, preferring books and thought-provoking games to the more vigorous outdoor activities.

If August 7 is the date of your birth, it is quite possible that you will early in life discover what is to be your goal. From that time on, you will very definitely point all your activities in that one direction and without swerving or being forced off your course push on till you fulfill your dream. You are not one to work quietly or unostentatiously. You want people to know that you are pushing on to great things and their cheers and encouragement from the sidelines mean much to you. You are a hard worker and a steady one. There is no pettiness in your make-up. You can always show a sincere enthusiasm about the other fellow's advances and victories and for the less fortunate you have a word of encouragement. At times you are inclined to boast, but invariably you see the ridiculous side of such a procedure and drop that attitude.

Born on August 7 you will on only a few occasions be pinched for money. You will probably never amass a great fortune, but there always will be enough to get by on comfortably. Around your home you are a most congenial person and considerate. You are well thought of in your community and whenever some money raising charitable scheme is to be launched, more often than not you are called upon to take an active and directing part in it. You are most adroit in your speech and without seeming to argue, you make your point. Your mate will play a very important part in your success, and will be devoted to you.

Successful people born on August 7:

Thomas W. Silloway, architect and author.

Robert B. Roosevelt, statesman and author.

Powell Clayton, soldier and statesman.

Charles W. Stoddard, author and poet.

Bille Burke, actress.

John F. Dryden, senator and insurance executive.

Change.

By Katherine Smith.

I love you when the lying light
Of flickering candles fades too soon,
But will the love I give tonight
Withstand the piercing glare of noon?
The darkness of the night's begun
To fade into the morning's grey,
In the future's noon-day sun
Will I still love you as today?

Lotions Will Sooth Sunburn And Heal Skin

Bleaching or Irritating With Soap and Water Causes Trouble.

By Elsie Pierce.

To bleach a sunburned skin is to add insult to injury. Many women make the mistake of irritating an already painfully parched skin by applying bleaching agents before the burn has "settled" or graduated to a "tan." Again, many women use soap and water on the skin that has been freshly burned. At first the water may seem to allay the irritation, but actually it only causes the skin to smart and sting all the more.

Soothing Cream.

The best thing to treat a sunburned skin to is a coating with a good soothing nourishing cream to allay irritation and soften the skin. Oils or specially prepared unguents for soothing sunburn will do the trick nobly, too. Wait until all the sting and pain is gone, and then wait another week before you bleach with even the mildest agent.

Cleansing cream is the logical thing to use for cleansing the skin. In fact, it may be used to very good advantage before and immediately after exposure for more than cleansing purposes. Apply one coat. Remove ever so gently with tissues. Then apply a second coat and allow to remain as long as convenient. You'll find a new purpose for this cream; a soothing, softening aid.

When the skin is freshly burned avoid the use of powder for a few days at least. Very often powder sticks to the burned skin and forms a painful crust.

Mild Bleach.

When you are ready for the bleaching, don't attempt to use a very strong agent to begin with. To be on the safe side start with a mild bleach and then as the skin's resistance is built up change to a stronger preparation. Each skin has its own particular idiosyncrasy to bleaches. Therefore, there's no prescribing anything definite. Experimentation is necessary. If the slightest irritation ensues discontine the bleach and use the soothing cream instead.

The cornmeal and buttermilk combination makes a mild bleach that should agree with even the most sensitive skin. More bleaches in my bulletin on freckles, also my bulletin in giving recipes for beauty masks to be made at home. Send self-addressed stamped envelope for these.

Post's Model Home Visitors Trebled

Fine Weather Brings Out Throng to See Chevy Chase, Md., House.

Fine weather yesterday trebled the number of visitors to The Washington Post's model home. The attendance was greater than that of the preceding two Sundays during the period of this home's presentation. More than 1,000 persons have been delighted by an inspection of this excellent display dwelling at 4604 Nottingham drive, Chevy Chase, Md.

The residence, sponsored by The Washington Post, presented by Boss & Phelps, built by A. T. Newbold and furnished by Hutchison's, Inc., will be open for inspection daily until 9 p. m.

To inspect it, drive out Connecticut avenue to Bradley lane, then west to Wisconsin avenue and south to Nottingham drive, or out Wisconsin avenue to Nottingham drive, the first street south of Bradley lane.

Warm Weather Aid to Housekeeping.

The modern hostess saves wear and tear on her fine linens and simplifies her housekeeping problems when she entertains in summer weather by using luncheon sets of crepe paper. The hostess may choose crepe paper doilies, napkins and plate mats that rival her linens in loveliness, or gay, cheerful sets that add a festive note when she serves mugs of foamy beer or gives a Mickey Mouse party.

Serve Fruit Salads Cold

Almost any combination of fruits, both fresh and canned, may be used in a mixed fruit salad. Some grapefruit or orange gives pungency in mixtures of other fruits. Canned or fresh pineapple improves the flavor, and so does banana. Cherries, firm white seedless grapes, ripe peaches and Bartlett pears are good summer fruits to use. Sometimes the juices are stiffened with gelatin so that the fruits can be attractively molded. Or they may be frozen and still served as a salad.

Successful salads are dainty, refreshing, cold, crisp, and while sufficiently seasoned, they should never have too much dressing. Appearance contributes to their "appetite appeal" as well as taste. When the juices or colors run together, or the lettuce looks wilted, the salad is no longer attractive. Be sure the lettuce is clean and very crisp. Drain the juice from the fruit or it will dilute the dressing. You can save this juice for other uses, or use some of it in making the dressing. Orange, lemon and grapefruit juice are often used instead of vinegar in French dressing for fruit salad. Spiced vinegar left from pickels or pickled fruit will also make an unusually good French dressing.

Have all the ingredients cold when you are ready to put a fruit salad together. Don't cut the fruit up into too small pieces. Mix carefully to avoid mashing or breaking them, if you are planning to serve the salad from a bowl or platter at the table, and pass the dressing in a separate bowl.

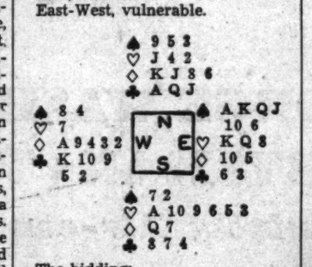
Playing a Long Shot.

In a hand recently played at the American Whist League Championships at Hanover, N. H., Mr. Joseph E. Cain, of Indianapolis, former holder of the Pair Championship, made a desperate play which he quite correctly decided was necessary if he were to have any hope of fulfilling a redoubled contract. In making the play he took advantage of a slight slip on the part of a careless defensive player.

East, Dealer.
East-West, vulnerable.



The bidding:

East	South	West	North
1♠	2♡	Pass	3♡
3♠	Pass	4♠	Dbl.
Redbl.	Pass	Pass	Pass

There is nothing particularly worthy of praise about the bidding. South's overcall of two hearts was highly doubtful even considering that he was not vulnerable. The same thing might be said of West's failure to make a free bid immediately over the two-heart bid. At any rate East and West finally got to four spades, North doubled, and, for some reason or other, Mr. Cain redoubled. As a matter of fact, his reason was that he knew he had received a bad score on the previous board and accordingly decided to gamble for a top on this one.

South, the Opening leader, decided that very little could be gained by opening a heart, particularly after his partner had supported the suit, and he chose as his Opening lead the club eight. The nine was played from the Dummy and North won with the Knave, immediately returning a low spade, which Mr. Cain won with the Ace. A survey of the situation told him that his only hope of fulfilling the contract lay in setting up the club suit. He accordingly led the only remaining club from his hand and went up with the King, which North covered with the Ace. North's proper return at this point is undoubtedly another trump, and this particular North player immediately realized this. Possibly due to carelessness and possibly due to the fact that he could not conceive of Mr. Cain finessing against a card which would surely drop, he led another low spade, retaining his nine-spot for no good reason.

Mr. Cain, at this point, was the proverbial drowning man grasping for a straw. With the Queen of clubs outstanding, the only hope of setting up the club suit and getting the necessary discards was to find an extra card of reentry to the Dummy. This second reentry might might now exist if North was leading away from the spade nine. After just a few seconds' hesitation he played low, and when South followed with the seven-spot Mr. Cain must have inwardly congratulated himself.

The rest of the play was quite simple. Another club was led and trumped in Declarer's hand; the last trump drawn and Dummy reentered with the Ace of diamonds. The two good clubs were now played, Declarer discarding one diamond and one heart. The Ace of hearts was conceded to the opponents and a set of two tricks redoubled and vulnerable was turned into a made contract with a plus score of almost one thousand points at Duplicate play.

Cotton Fabrics Combine To Make Chic Ensemble

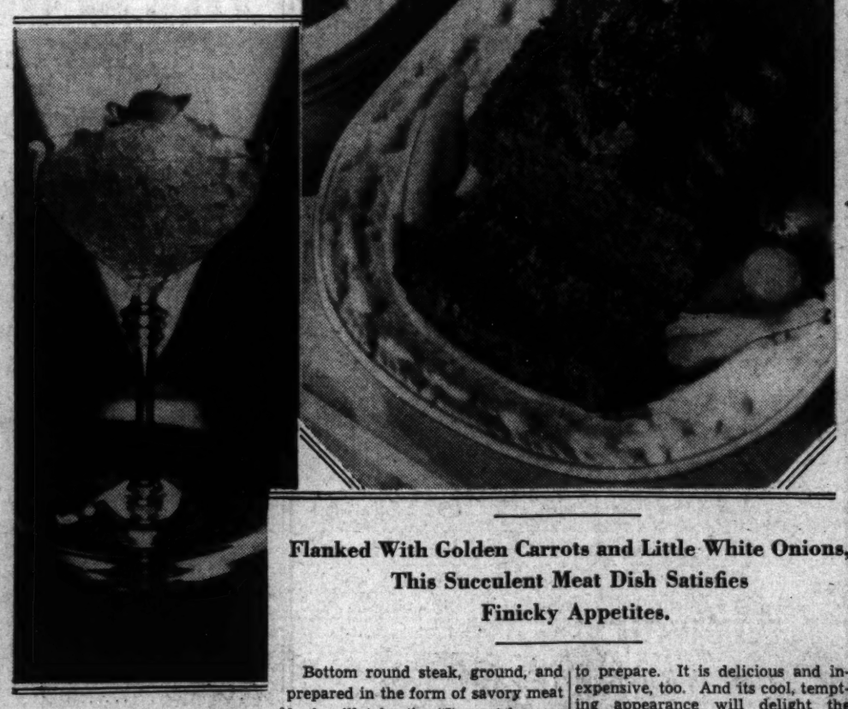
An ensemble in which even red-headed Ginger Rogers, young picture starlet, looks demur, is the one which she recently wore on a shopping expedition.

The dress is of oyster white pique with short sleeves and a box-pleated skirt. The very short jacket of slate blue whipcord has a novel double sleeve arrangement—elbow length box-pleated sleeves over a pair of long tight ones. A Peter Pan collar and cuffs of oyster pique and a large bow of black patent leather ribbon give the finishing touches to the jacket.

Her bag, belt and pumps are of black patent leather and her sailor hat of black shiny straw is trimmed with flowers of oyster white pique.

Meat Loaf Solves Hot Weather Dinner Problem, Frosty Dessert Tempts Family

Easy-to-prepare dishes like these rate high with housewives in summer time.



Flanked With Golden Carrots and Little White Onions, This Succulent Meat Dish Satisfies Finicky Appetites.

Bottom round steak, ground, and prepared in the form of savory meat loaf, will take the "I'm not hungry tonight" look off your husband's face. It is also pretty sure to do away with the children's hot weather plaint, "It's too hot to eat tonight, mother."

Serve it hot for dinner the first day. It's easy to prepare, delightfully tasteful and light enough to appeal to the most finicky appetite.

Most housewives today are familiar with the use of quick-cooking tapioca as a "precision ingredient." For meat loaf, it forms a binder that holds the loaf in shape, prevents crumbling when cold, adds nutritive value and avoids the heavy taste this dish may sometimes have.

Sliced cold, savory meat loaf is an ideal luncheon meat. It also lends itself most successfully to sandwich filling when the children plead for a picnic or outdoor supper.

With such a main dinner dish, a light, easy-to-digest dessert is always in order in hot weather. Jell-O Flakes is the simplest of desserts to prepare. It is delicious and inexpensive, too. And its cool, tempting appearance will delight the whole family.

Savory Meat Loaf.

2 thin 2-inch slices salt pork, diced.
2 pounds round beef, ground
½ cup quick-cooking tapioca
⅛ small onion, finely chopped
2 cups canned tomatoes
2½ teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon pepper

Fry out salt pork until golden brown. All pork and drippings to other ingredients and mix thoroughly. Bake in loaf pan in hot oven (450 F.) 15 minutes. Then decrease heat to moderate (350 F.) and bake 30 minutes longer. Serve hot or cold. Garnish with parsley.

Jell-O-Flakes

1 package Jell-O (any flavor)
1 pint warm water

Dissolve Jell-O in warm water. Turn into shallow pan. Chill until firm. Break into bits with spoon. Pile in sherbet glasses and garnish with maraschino cherries and leaves of fresh mint. Serves four.

New Craft Keeps Idle Fingers Busy

Most women like to keep their fingers busy these days. That's why so many women have taken to the new craft of crocheting with crepe paper. The crepe is inexpensive and is made in so many different colors that a woman can crochet a purse, belt, and hat easily.

Black Satin Toques and Berets $10

Peaked crowns—smart visor effects—amusing draped berets—all in black satin, are here! There is no chance for costume monotony this year with these new fall hats. Right now, feathers are good. If you deal in the future, then it is sheer wool, ribbed silk and felt hats with glass or rhinestone ornaments, $5 to $12.50. In black, brown, eel grey and greens.

Women "Generals" in NRA Fight Depression Battle on Even Terms With Men

Preacher Raps Man's Vanity On "Progress"

Rev. C. M. Muir Bitter on Chicago's Failure to Pay Teachers.

"Why get so excited about a century of man's progress?" asked the Rev. C. Marshall Muir, preaching yesterday morning at the Chevy Chase Presbyterian Church.

"Does a century of progress mean that man has thereby reached perfection? To say the least, it is an anachronism to speak of a century of progress when the city in which the world's fair is held hasn't paid the teachers of her youth for a year, and the free land that lauds our progress has chained 20,000,000 who want work to unemployment. Another hundred years and every invention displayed in Chicago will be out of date, the inventors will be in their graves, the building a heap of rust. What does a century of progress amount to?"

Mr. Muir spoke on "Ten Million Centuries of Progress." He drew his text from the 28th verse of the sixth chapter of Mathew, "Consider the lilies of the field." He continued, in part:

"Let me show you 10,000,000 centuries of progress. Here is a beautiful flower. I look at it. I catch my breath at its loveliness. Its delicate colors defy the human artist who would paint them. No man-created thing at the world's fair can compare with its beauty. * * * I hold in my hand 10,000,000 centuries of God's progress.

"The beauty I see in the flower is God. Gone are the days when I shall think of God as a jealous creature up in the sky. Banished forever from my thoughts is the God men tie up in neat theological packages. From henceforth God to me is beauty, wherever I find it, or Him. You can not separate art from the artist. The religion of Jesus is not his ethical principles alone. There is no gospel of Jesus without Jesus."

Mr. Muir is a graduate of McKinley High School and of Washington and Jefferson College. A native of Washington he is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Muir, of Chevy Chase.

Cool Cottons for Summer Evenings.

The junior debs have the right idea when they choose evening things for the warm summer nights. They look for frocks of cool cotton with very few ornaments, rather than elaborate silks.

Betty Furness, young picture player, exemplifies the mode in an informal evening gown of white embroidered organdie over a taffeta slip. Bouffant skirt is edged with a narrow pleated ruffle, which also outlines the double cape collar.

A wide sash of plain white organdie encircles the waist, ending in a huge bow and long streamers in the back.

Meeting of A. F. of L. Council Postponed

(Associated Press.)

A meeting of the executive council of the American Federation of Labor, scheduled to begin today at Atlantic City, has been postponed until September 6.

The federation said yesterday this action was taken because of the inability of President William Green to leave Washington. His presence here is necessary, it was explained, to look after the interests of labor in connection with the national recovery activities.

Mary Harriman Rumsey, Daughter of Rail Magnate, Heads Important Advisory Board

Shows Interest in Future Trend of Retail Price of Commodities.

Rose Schneiderman, Former Associate of Working Girls, on Job, Too.

Women "generals" are fighting side-by-side with men on the NRA headquarters staff as Field Marshal Hugh S. Johnson directs the battle against depression.

These women neither ask nor receive favors as they whole-heartedly hurl their energy and experience into the great experiment in industrial control.

In private life these women "generals" represent a fair cross-section of womankind — scholars, labor leaders, club women, women of wealth and leisure.

Together, under Gen. Johnson, they have their shoulders to the wheel, applying their talents to that particular segment of the great recovery program for which they are best equipped.

Chief among these women "generals" is Mrs. Mary Harriman Rumsey, New York, chairman of the important Consumers' Advisory Board.

Mrs. Rumsey is just now most interested in how many pennies you and I will be paying a month or a year hence for bacon or buttons, sardines or shoe-strings.

Has Complex Philosophy.

In her crowded office in the Commerce Building she presides over her board of five women and six men. Several assistants work with her. She is working every day, all day long—hours longer than the maximum recommended for industry—for the love of her job.

Daughter and heiress of that ruggedly individualistic railroad magnate, E. J. Harriman, she belies her life of financial ease and affluence, and is active in her sponsorship of a program which calls for the redistribution of wealth from the hands of the favored few to the hands of the wide-spread many. She, in this, is a paradox indeed.

Slim, dark-haired, sympathetic brown eyes, Mrs. Rumsey looks cool in her flowered chiffon dress and brown sailor hat. She remains unruffled in spite of the magnitude of her job and the people hurrying about.

She does not suggest the efficient female statistician, although she has waded through yards of necessary figures on costs of producing all manner of things we must eat and wear and use in play.

Balance Is Necessary.

"We must hold the balance, the fine, delicate balance, between prices charged the consumer and wages paid the worker," Mrs. Rumsey explains. "And we must help the consumer and the wage earner to remember that he or she is generally one and the same person."

Leads Full Life.

Mrs. Rumsey's concern over how you and I, and the rest of us, must fit our purchases to our budgets did not awaken with the economic explosion of 1929. For years she has been a sympathetic student of the problem.

The management of two Middleburg, Va., farms and a Port Washington, N. Y., manor, the mothering of three beloved children, fulfilling her father's trust as executrix of his vast fortune, have not been enough to occupy her these sixteen years since the death of her husband, Charles C. Rumsey. She has, in addition, pursued a passionate interest in the problem of buying power that has at last been forced into public notice.

She considers the consumers the base of the eternal triangle of human subsistence; capital and labor its two sides. And these two sides she sees rather comprehensively from the apex she has reached through environment and a long espousal of the worker's cause.

She has fought many a fight, and waged many a campaign working side-by-side with her old friend, Miss Frances Perkins, Labor's present leader, with whom she now shares a Georgetown colonial home.

Is Good Executive.

She is a good executive without seeming aware of it, deferring often to the judgment of the six men and five women who complete her board.

She considers her board members the cream of the land for her purposes. They include Mary Dawson, president of the National Consumers League; Grace Morrison Poole, president of the National Federation of Women's Clubs; Dr. William F. Ogburn, Chicago University professor and president of the American Sociological Society; Dr. Frederick Howe, Washington cooperative worker and lecturer.

And there are Emily Newell Blair, whose political and literary work are well known; Belle Sherwin, president of the National League of Women Voters; Mrs. Joseph J. Daniels, president of the Indiana League of Women Voters, as well as Dr. Frank P. Graham, president of the University of North Carolina; Dr. Alonzo Taylor, of Leland Stanford University, and Dr. James P. Warbasse, president of the Cooperative League of the United States.

Schneiderman Another General.

Another of the women "generals" on Field Marshal Johnson's staff is Rose Schneiderman, of New York. She shares, with six men, the membership of the Labor Advisory Board, which, with the Consumers' and the Industrialists' Boards, are advising Field Marshal Johnson on the three sides of his code problems.

Peppy little, red-haired Rose Schneiderman is realizing now some of the dreams of a girlhood spent in New York millinery and garment sweatshops, and of her later years when, as secretary of the Women's Trade Union League, she has fought in the cause of better labor conditions and higher wages for her sex. In this cause she has shared prison cells with striking sisters.

Miss Schneiderman may be found more often nowadays in the council rostrum at code hearings than in her NRA office. There are the hearings of lace curtain manufacturers and their employes; of the corset and brassiere makers, the milliners, the dress and hosiery makers. She knows them all and the long years their labor contingents have been hoping for better deals.

A hat means more to Miss Schneiderman than a chic tilt, a silk dress more than lines and color. She sees, stitched tightly into each, the dreams and cares of women, bent weary over machines—long, tedious hours stolen from their homes and children.

Cry of Baby on His Porch at 6 a. m. Tells Sleeper of Foundling There.

Awakened by a baby's wail at 6 a. m., yesterday, Edmund Windolph, of Dawsonville, Md., went downstairs to investigate. He found an infant boy on his front porch, crying with all its might. Mr. Windolph called Montgomery County police headquarters at Rockville.

Corpl. Harry Merson, who answered the summons, found the child wrapped in blue and yellow baby blankets, clasping an empty milk bottle, with a wooden box for a crib. He carried the child to the home of Dr. Upton G. Nourse, who said the baby was about 4 months old and apparently in healthy condition.

The policeman then took the child to Montgomery County General Hospital at Sandy Spring, where the nurses named him "Tommy." Police hope to trace the parents by fingerprints on the milk bottle.

The child has blue eyes and light brown hair.

How to Keep Well

By William A. Evans.

Athlete's Foot No. 2.

In certain groups of people it is said that they are unanimous when it comes to having athlete's foot. They may be weak, crippled and disabled, with athlete's foot as their only qualification as athletes.

This disorder usually affects the skin between the toes, causing itching, oozing and peeling. When these more annoying symptoms are absent the presence of the causative microbe can safely be inferred if there is a sweetish, musty, offensive odor given off by the exfoliated skin between the toes. While the toe area is the favorite location of the eruption caused by the fungus of athlete's foot, it may locate in any one of several areas on the feet or elsewhere.

The cause is one or more of the fungi, of which plants there are hundreds of species. This particular group of fungi lives in such places as the interior of shoes, in floor and carpet dust, in and around the toenails. They select the skin between the toes as a good place to do their work because the area is moist, warm and protected and the skin is not thick or tough.

In a sense the harm done by athlete's foot is trivial. Nobody dies from it, nor is anybody made very ill or very greatly discommoded by it. But it is highly contagious, it causes a good deal of vexation and the time taken and the cost required to cure it, the loss of time and energy that can be charged up to it and the difficulty of prevention make it a matter of considerable importance. It is a source of a good deal of trouble to medical officers of the Army, Navy, and Marine Corps and to physicians in charge of the student bodies of universities and colleges.

Dr. W. L. Wilson found it so troublesome among the soldiers in Schofield barracks that he decided to do something about it. About one-fourth of the men in a certain command had it. He cured these by means of Castellani's paint and ammoniated mercury, as has already been described in a previous article.

To prevent the spread of the disease every person using the baths and pools was required to put his feet in a tub containing a 15 per cent watery solution of thiosulphate of soda before he went into the bathroom or poolroom, and to repeat this performance as he emerged after his bath or swim. This solution was kept fresh and strong. Since the chemical is inexpensive the cost of the solution is trivial. This foot bath can be so arranged as to cause very little inconvenience. The men were given a powder composed of sodium thiosulphate and boric acid, with which they were to dust the interior of their shoes. This powder was described in last week's article on athlete's foot. It is inexpensive and its use not bothersome.

Making use of these procedures, the soldiers in this command were speedily cured of all athlete's foot, and they remained free for the several months they were under observation. Doubtless in time most of them will become careless and indifferent, and the job of cure and prevention will need to be repeated.

Headaches.

W. W. writes: For the last six years, about once a week, I suffer from severe headaches, and the only relief is a good dose of salts. Doctors from whom I have taken treatment (without any relief) tell me my liver isn't functioning as it should and give me a box of pills. My general health is all right, and but for these headaches I would be sitting on top of the world. When they come on I am no good and have to lie down until they subside.

Reply.

If you have constipation headaches you should be able to keep them in check by overcoming constipation. This you can do by diet, change in eating and drinking habits, and by exercise. It is not advisable to take salts often, or any other form of laxative tablets or pills.

May Be Eczema.

M. writes: At intervals my navel becomes very itchy and a substance comes from it with an offensive odor. It doesn't flow rapidly. Just a small amount collects around the navel and becomes crusty.

Reply.

Eczema of the navel is not infrequent. It is not of much importance. Cleanse with cold cream. Follow with a good dusting powder. It is sometimes advisable to apply an iodine salve or some other salve.

After the eczema has ceased to be oozy be certain to wash the recess with soap and water at least twice a week for life.

Crowd Welcomes Untermyer Back

Attorney Who Presided at Jewish Parley Explains German Boycott.

New York, Aug. 6 (A.P.).—Samuel Untermyer, the attorney, who presided at the international Jewish conference in Amsterdam, was welcomed back today by a cheering crowd which waved anti-Hitler placards as Untermyer explained the boycott movement and praised the Roosevelt recovery program.

"Our campaign is two-fold, defensive and constructive," said Untermyer. "On the defensive side will be the economic boycott against all German goods, shipping and services. On the constructive side will be an appeal to the League of Nations to construe and enforce the labor union provisions of the Versailles treaty and the written promises made by Germany, while the treaty was under negotiation, to protect its minorities, which have been flagrantly violated by a disenfranchisement and persecution of German Jews."

District Guard Pitches Camp For Training

700 Men in Washington Units at Cascade, Md., for Two Weeks.

Camp Albert C. Ritchie, Cascade, Md., Aug. 6 (Spl.).—Seven hundred strong, the District National Guard arrived here today for two weeks intensive training in the field. The Twenty-ninth Division staff, under Maj. Gen. Anton Stephan, also entered camp.

Arriving at noon, the troops spent the afternoon unloading equipment and getting settled. The 121st Engineer Regiment, the Headquarters Detachment Division, the Twenty-ninth Division, the Twenty-ninth Military Police Company and two Negro companies constituted the Washington troops.

Tomorrow the detachment will reconnoiter in the area around Gettysburg Battlefield in preparation for the annual training problems.

Among Washington officers in the camp are Col. John W. Oehmann, District building inspector; Lieut. Col. Peyton G. Nevitt, adjutant general of the District; Maj. Sidney Morgan, secretary of the Tariff Commission; Maj. William T. Roy, assistant parliamentarian of the House of Representatives, and Col. Carey Jarman.

500 in Horse Show At Hot Springs, Va.

42 Events Scheduled for Hospital Fund Benefit Friday, Saturday.

Hot Springs, Va., Aug. 6 (AP).—More than 500 entries in the 42 events are expected to compete in the sixth horse show of the Bath County Horse Show Association here next Friday and Saturday. The show is held anually for the benefit of the Community House hospital fund.

The present show inherited the traditions of the old Fassifern Farm show, inaugurated by the late M. E. Ingalls in 1912. When the Fassifern show was discontinued because of the World War, it was taken over by the Bath County Fair Association, and six years ago the fair turned the event over to the Horse Show Association.

Mrs. Fay Ingalls, New York and Hot Springs, is president of the association. Capt. William M. Talbott, Hot Springs, is secretary, and Mrs. Tate B. Sterrett, Hot Springs, vice president.

The Stylefinder Family

At the Stadium

(All rights protected by the George Matthew Adams Service. Trade Mark Registered U. S. Patent Office.)

By Mary Brook Lucas

"With all I want to do in New York this week, I don't mind if our passports are being held up, thinks Mother subconsciously. She is totally unaware of neighboring eyes, focused on her smart costume topped by the wine-colored felt beret with high back and forward movement, and wisp of veil for mystery.

It's a big occasion for Brother and Sister, being allowed to go to the Stadium! Brother looks angelic in his Eleanor-blue linen trousers with wide belt and suspenders. He likes his white linen shirt and cap, too. Sister resembles a rosebud in her simple pink silk dress, with its original arrangement of shirring at neck and shoulders.

During the intermission curly-headed Judy, looking most demure (but is she!) in crisp white dotted swiss, discusses Bach and Beethoven with her escort. Her dress, form-fitting to the knees, flares into a Spanish ruffle effect about her little feet. A new style innovation is the black net evening coat she wears with upstanding tucks.

Jeanne has just acquired one of those fluffy ruffle jackets which, nearing the season's end, lend vivacity to an old dinner dress. This one is of pale blue mousseline de soie, which she is wearing over her faithful bluish-white satin. Moonstone earrings and necklace add the coveted note of distinction which is one of Jeanne's attributes.

Tomorrow—Hats About Town.

Miss Emma Marshall Wed To Mr. William E. Lowe.

Miss Emma Lawrence Marshall, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Levin Rothrock Marshall, New York, was married to Mr. William Ebbets Lowe, son of Mrs. C. Towne Lowe, New York, and of Mr. Gerald Lowe, Saturday afternoon in the Episcopal Church of St. John's of Lattingtown in Locust Valley, N. Y.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Samuel Stuart Hardy, rector of St. Paul's Episcopal Church, of Marion, Ohio, in the presence of 200 guests. The church, the interior of which is of carved English oak, was decorated in white and blue with a background of green. In the side windows were tall spikes of madonna blue delphinium and white larkspur with pendant vines. Along the chancel rail was a hedge of white larkspur and on the altar were tall vases of white gladioli and larkspur, with cybotium ferns on either side.

The bride, escorted by her father, entered the church while Maurice Garibrant, organist of the Cathedral of the Incarnation, played the wedding music. She wore an ivory satin gown with long raglan sleeves and cowl neck of lace made from the wedding dress of her mother. A tulle veil worn over her face was draped with a short lace veil that had belonged to her maternal grandmother. A band of orange blossoms held the veil. She carried a prayer book which belonged to her mother.

Miss Trina C. Marshall, sister of the bride, was her only attendant. Her gown was of light blue silk net, tucked all over and trimmed with a ruching around the neck and shirt. It had puffed sleeves and a sash of darker blue velvet. Her hat also was of blue net, trimmed with darker blue velvet, and she carried an armful of delphinium spikes in varied shades of blue.

Gerald Lowe, jr., was his brother's best man. The ushers were Mr. William Brevoort Potts, of Red Bank, N. J.; Mr. Robert Walker, Mr. Donald Agnew, Mr. Donald Z. Kipp, Mr. John A. Gwynne, and Mr. Marselis C. Parsons, jr., of Rye, N. Y.; Mr. Levin R. Marshall, jr., and Mrs. Duncan Marshall, brothers of the bride, and Mr. George H. Day 2d.

A reception at Locust Hill, the Marshall country home, followed the ceremony. Mrs. Marshall received with the bride and bridegroom.

The bride is a descendant of the family of Chief Justice John Marshall of the Supreme Court of the United States. On her mother's side she is related to the Lawrence family, of Long Island, noted in Colonial history. She attended Miss Chapin's School, in New York, and Miss Porter's School, in Farmington, Conn.

Review Units Told To Favor Veterans

Hines Issues Orders to Boards on Presumptive Service Disability.

(Associated Press.)

Special boards of review being set up to pass upon war veterans' presumptive service disability cases were directed yesterday by Frank T. Hines, veterans' administrator, not to "allow their personal feelings to intrude."

The orders, prepared and issued under direction of President Roosevelt, repeated the instructions to "resolve all reasonable doubts in favor of the veteran, the burden of proof in such cases being on the Government."

"It is to be remembered that the majority of claimants are disabled persons who are seeking benefits of law to which they believe themselves entitled," Hines said.

I can't help feeling that "Toasting" makes a difference

I do not treat my choice of a cigarette lightly . . . for, as with other little niceties of life, my cigarette is a matter of intimate concern with me. After all, I do place my cigarette between my lips! And so, when I say "Luckies Please" —I am paying a tribute to that immaculate feeling I have when smoking a Lucky. And that is my own individual reason for saying "Luckies Please!"

because "It's toasted"

Radio Dial Flashes

By Robert D. Heinl.

THERE has been an immediate and tremendous response to the appeal made by Alfred J. McCosker, president of the National Broadcasters Association, to stations to cooperate with the National Recovery Administration in arousing the country.

Already 400 stations have actually signed up on this, according to Philip G. Loucks, managing director of the association, and more continue to come in.

Special announcements are being sent to the stations to broadcast by the National Recovery Administration. The question is now up as to whether or not electrical transcriptions may be furnished the stations.

The ancient ceremony of the "Dunmow Flitch" will be described from Town Hall at Great Dunmow, England (WRC, 12:30 p. m. today). The ceremony came about in this way: In the year of 1244 a prize was instituted by one of the signers of the Magna Carta to be awarded to "whatever married couple will go to the priory and kneeling on two sharp-pointed stones will swear and give proof that they have not quarreled nor repented of their marriage within a year and a day after its celebration shall receive a flitch of bacon."

Transplanted from Venice to Chicago to pole gondolas full of sightseers around the lagoon of A Century of Progress while entertaining their fares with the dreamy music of Venice, twelve Venetian gondoliers will bring the folk songs of the canals to us this afternoon (WMAL, 2:30 p. m.).

The gondoliers, who have no director and who speak no English, are working up the songs in their own fashion for the broadcast.

Col. Edward Goring Bliss, of the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co., will speak for the Council of Social Agencies in the Washington Chamber of Commerce forum tonight (WMAL, 7:45 p. m.).

"AIR PIRATES" in Texas are to have the attention of Col. Thad Brown, acting chairman of the Federal Radio Commission, who will visit that State during an inspection tour of the country. The commission has received reports that no less than 43 broadcasters are operating illegally in Texas and the names of 13 of the alleged violators have been submitted to Attorney General Cummings.

Col. Brown will likewise inspect monitoring stations in various parts of the United States. He will also find out whether the economy program inaugurated by the commission is reducing the efficiency of the field force.

Gladys Rice, singer, familiar to audiences throughout the country, has been signed by Columbia and will be heard tonight with Andre Kostelanetz through WJSV at 9 o'clock. Miss Rice also will sing in her own program with Howard Barlow and his orchestra each Thursday evening at 9:45, beginning August 10.

Daughter of Sally Cohen and John Rice, famous vaudeville team of a generation ago, Gladys Rice has spent her life in the theater.

The Radio Guild's production today will be "Cricket on the Hearth," by Charles Dickens (WMAL, 3 p. m.).

AN appeal and report to the nation on the Administration's effort to curtail wheat production under terms of an agreement expected soon from Geneva will be broadcast in a series of Monday programs, beginning tonight. Chester C. Davis, of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration, will tell of "A Balanced Wheat Harvest." (WJSV, 10:30 p. m.)

Tom Noonan, "Bishop" of Chinatown, has signed a 52-week contract with Ed Wynn's new chain. Known as "The Cathedral of the Underworld," the broadcasts will include Sunday services of the Bowery Mission in Chinatown, New York City.

"You said in your column, speaking of Al Jolson's broadcast, that he formerly lived on Four-and-a-half street." A neighbor remarked yesterday; "Is there really a Four-and-a-half street in Washington?"

"Yes," we replied. "Likewise, there is a Half street, which a good many people living here don't know about."

Station WPRO, 100 watts, of Providence, R. I., wants to get on Station WMAL's frequency. Besides WMAL in Washington, there are already four other stations sharing it, WGBF, Evansville, Ind.; KFRU, Columbia, Mo.; WOS, Jefferson City, Mo., and KGFX, Pierre, S. Dak.

However, on WPRO's present frequency there are 46 stations, mostly 100-watters.

A new sketch by Raymond Knight, of the "Cuckoos," the title of which is at present undetermined, will start September 24 over the WJZ network.

THE stratosphere balloon ascension proved a disappointment to the National Broadcasting Co., one of its sponsors, because there wasn't time to notify listeners when it would start. Word reached Washington about 5 p. m. Friday that the balloon would go up at midnight and that a description of its ascent would be made.

This was too late for the evening papers and too early for the morning papers with the result that though there were several broadcasts over WRC and WMAL preliminary to Lieut. Comdr. Settle's departure only those who happened to be listening in knew anything about it.

The balloon finally went up at 3:05 a. m., our time, Saturday morning. Herluf Provensen, assistant manager of WRC, kept his station on the air until that time. Nothing was heard by radio from Commander Settle after he left.

Thus not only the NBC was left in the dark, but also the Chicago Daily News, another sponsor. The third sponsor of the event, however, cashed in big. This was the Century of Progress Exposition, which seems to have a lucky break in everything it does. Not only has the exposition been kept in the public eye by the stratosphere advance publicity, but thousands upon thousands paid an admission fee to the exposition grounds to witness the start.

The balloon was equipped with such powerful radio apparatus that Prof. Auguste Piccard had expected to talk to Comdr. Settle from Belgium.

Apparently the Landt Trio and White, whose return was promised this morning, have been sidetracked. It is expected that they will arrive later in the month.

THE March of Transportation, the dramatized story of man's progress in travel from primitive times to the days of automobiles, airplanes and railroads, will be presented in a new series of weekly episodes beginning this noon (WMAL, 12:15 o'clock).

E. C. Graham will tell why you should "Buy in Washington," (WOL 6:45 p. m.).

The Silver Spring Gypsy Chorus, directed by Robert Frederick Freund, will make its radio debut tonight (WMAL, 8 o'clock).

The Gumps — Beauty and the Beast

ONLY FIVE MORE DAYS—AND THEN TO GIVE MYSELF IN MARRIAGE TO A BEAST LIKE THAT COUNT—IF ONLY THESE WERE THE DAYS OF CHIVALRY IF THERE WERE SOME BRAVE KNIGHT TO FIGHT FOR ME—TO PROTECT ME—
IS THERE NO ESCAPE FROM THIS HORRIBLE FATE—TO BE CHAINED AND ANCHORED FOR LIFE TO A MAN I DESPISE AND LOATHE—
WHAT DOES THE FUTURE HOLD FOR ME NOW? MY HOPES ALL CRUSHED—NOTHING BUT BLACKNESS AND DESPAIR AHEAD—
CHILLS RUN OVER ME WHEN I EVEN THINK OF HIM—I HATE HIM—I DETEST HIM—AND YET I MUST SACRIFICE MYSELF TO HIM FOR MOTHER'S SAKE—TO SAVE HER FROM PRISON AND SHAME—
FIVE DAYS MORE—WITH WHAT SATISFACTION TOWNSEND ZANDER VIEWS THE FUTURE
I'LL DITCH THAT GANG—WHY SHOULD I SPLIT WITH THEM? MILLIONS! BIM'S MILLIONS! HA! HA! MORE MONEY THAN I EVER DREAMED OF HAVING—AND MILLIE—IN ONE WEEK I'LL HAVE HER TOO, AND THE WORLD WILL BE MY FOOTSTOOL

THE HAIR-GROWING MACHINE A FAKE?
—DIXIE AND PA CAN HARDLY BELIEVE THEIR EARS AS SAMSON HIMSELF DENOUNCES HIS OWN INVENTION BEFORE THE FINANCIERS WHO HAD COME READY TO PAY MILLIONS FOR IT—
—WHAT ARE YOU WAITING FOR?—I TOLD YOU—MY MACHINE'S A FAKE! —A FRAUD!—A HOAX!
NO—NO—SAMSON—
YES—AND THEY WANTED TO PAY MILLIONS FOR IT!!! HA-HA—THINKING THEY'D FATTEN THEMSELVES UP ON THE PROFITS LIKE PIGS AT A TROUGH—
CONTRACT
WELL, YOU OLD FOOLS—THERE'LL BE NO GOLDEN SWILL FOR YOU!—HERE'S WHAT I THINK OF YOUR CONTRACT—!
—AND NOW GET OUT—AND DON'T EVER LET ME SEE YOUR GREEDY FACES AGAIN!

Joe Palooka — Psychology

SO YOU'VE BEEN IN A SCRAPE WITH THAT DETECTIVE TRACY AND THAT'S WHY YOU WANT TO STAY ON MY SHIP, EH STOOGE?
RIGHT YOU ARE, MIKE. BY THE WAY, WHAT ARE YOU DOING NOW?
I'M AN "IMPORTER" AND I DON'T PAY ANY CUSTOM DUTY EITHER — GET IT?
YEAH?
YEAH! TAKE A LOOK AT THAT! THE SHIP'S SIDES ARE HOLLOW WITH SECRET COMPARTMENTS ALL OVER. THIS TUB CAN CARRY A MILLION DOLLARS WORTH OF "CERTAIN THINGS" IN THE WALL OF MY CABIN!
SAY, LISTEN MIKE, I'M CRAZY ABOUT THE WATER AND BOATS..AND I LIKE THIS RACKET OF YOURS. HOW ABOUT LETTING ME JOIN YOU... PERMANENT—AS A PARTNER.
AS A PARTNER?, WHY CERTAINLY, STOOGE—HAVE YOU GOT FIFTY THOUSAND DOLLARS?
DOES "STOOGE" HAVE FIFTY THOUSAND DOLLARS, CAN HE GET FIFTY THOUSAND DOLLARS?

CHICAGO—THE MARTINI-BLINTZKY FIGHT WILL BE NOT ONLY A SELL OUT, BUT IT IS EXPECTED THAT TEN THOUSAND PERSONS WILL BE TURNED AWAY WHEN THE GATES ARE THROWN OPEN. WITH BUSINESS ON THE UPTREND, AND THE CENTURY OF PROGRESS EXPOSITION ATTRACTING TOURISTS FROM ALL OVER THE COUNTRY, IT'S A CINCH THAT THE PROMOTORS WILL MAKE A MAGNIFICENT PROFIT. NATE LEWIS THE PROMOTOR ANNOUNCES THAT MANY NOTABLES FROM THE PRINCIPALITY OF HANGOVERIA, MARTINI'S NATIVE COUNTRY, HAVE RESERVED RINGSIDES.

DOES HE HURT YA AT ALL?
NO-HE JIST PUSHES WHEN HE PUNCHES. HE AINT JARRED ME ONCE!
SWELL! EVRYTHING'S GONNA WORK OUT MY WAY! LET 'IM THINK HE'S HURTIN' YA.
WHY? THAT WUNT BE TELLIN' THE TRUTH!
IT'LL MAKE HIM FEEL BETTER. IT'S SORT OF A PHSYCOL-OG-O—OH WELL, JIST DO WHAT I TELL YA.

Two U. S. Envoys Visit Boy Scouts' Jamboree

Godollo, Hungary, Aug. 6 (AP).—The American Ministers to Hungary and Roumania today visited the fourth World Jamboree of Boy Scouts and attended a special church service at the tent of Sir Robert Baden-Powell, founder of the order. They then inspected the American quarters.

Wife Sues Husband On Lipstick Clew

Seattle, Aug. 6 (AP).—Mrs. June Gilmore filed suit to divorce her husband, David, protesting he came home with perfume on his coat and lipstick on his face. Even his work as a cosmetics salesman failed to protect him from suspicions, she said.

Pasadenian Falls Dead in Boston.

Boston, Aug. 6 (AP).—Melvin L. Fletcher, 60, retired Pasadena, Calif., businessman, collapsed and died, apparently from heart trouble, in the North Station today. He was about to take a train to Acton to visit a sister.

Walt Mason, Himself

The Hoodooed Year.

THE luck is rather queer for champions this year; with tiger spring they reach the ring, and then they disappear. The challengers arrive in groups of three or five; the champ agrees to scrap with these, and knows he will survive. Invincible he feels; he's sound from head to heels; he's sound and trim in every limb, and smooth as conger eels. Detractors may point out that he's an ancient scout, punch drunk and stale, and far from hale, with symptoms of the gout. They'll say they are afraid he's on the downward grade devoid his step of pristine pep, his muscles are decayed. The champion, he knows the envy of his foes; and he is sure he will endure through fifteen rounds of blows. His confidence is great and he can hardly wait to meet the foe and duly show some fireworks to that skate. His managers stand around and argue and expound that he is fit to scrap and hit and slug and swat and pound. At last the fight is on; two men of weight and brawn stand up to spar and knock the tar, and keep it up till dawn. The champ is out of luck; full soon a blow is struck that knocks him down as when a clown is run down by a truck. And then the birdies sing; he's lying in the ring, a bleeding bulk, a battered hulk, another dethroned king.

New Yorker Today

By Mark Barron.

New York.—A motion picture magnate swung into his office the other morning and tossed a book on the desk of an assistant. On the cover was a photograph of a trim sailing vessel driving into the wind.

"Look into that book, will you?" ordered the producer. "There might be a good sea picture in it for us."

The title of the book was "The Sailing Rules of Yacht Racing."

The Old Spirit.

One of the more enterprising insurance agents pulled out of his mail an invitation to a reunion dinner of his college fraternity.

"Might be a good idea to attend," he thought. "If I renew contacts, perhaps I can sell a few policies to some of my old classmates."

Arriving at the dinner, he discovered that eight of his chapter brothers also were insurance agents, there with the same idea of doing business.

On the uptown blocks of Third avenue is a barber shop named, for some inexplicable reason, the Hollywood. Apparently the owner has been impressed by the recent Mae West trend in cinema entertainment, for a large sign in the window reads: "Come up and see us some time, any time."

Some months ago an author of popular, romantic novels returned to his Sutton place apartment feeling a trifle upset. He had dined that night too well, and not too wisely. Retiring, the combination of lobster and crepes Suzette brought on nightmares which made him tumble and toss in bed. Eventually he tossed once too much and fell out of bed, breaking his leg.

The mishap resulted in an odd complex, for now whenever he returns at night from an especially rich dinner he very carefully spreads a pallet on the floor and sleeps there.

Pavement Heartbeats.

Two youthful civil engineers were surveying property lines in the vicinity of Park avenue and Fifty-fifth street the other noon. One of them was squinting through whatever you call that glass they squint through, while the other was marking the lines with a piece of yellow chalk.

A pretty girl, smartly dressed, walked up to the second one and asked for a loan of his chalk for a moment. Stooping, she printed on the sidewalk this message: "Eddie—Couldn't wait. Meet me at Marge's. A party there at 4 o'clock. Linda." Around the message she drew a heart with an arrow piercing its center.

Handing the chalk back to the young engineer, she dropped him a charming curtsy and tripped on her way. Romance in the machine age.

Most aviators are taciturn fellows, but Casey Jones seems the most silent of them all.

Warner Brothers Announce Season Product—Johns Tunes His Banjo

Ten "Specials," Many All-Star Films on List

Brook Johns Selected for Local Revue; Award Is to Be Announced.

By Nelson B. Bell.

Warner Brothers and First National, their allied producing unit, have every reason to anticipate a season of definite box-office hits, according to John J. Payette, general manager of the Warner interests in Washington and vicinity.

Mr. Payette has just returned to the Capital from a sales convention held in the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel in New York and from it has brought home a complete release schedule for the ensuing season of 1933-34. From a cursory examination of the prospective attractions destined to find their way to the screens of the Earle and Metropolitan Theaters, it would appear that Mr. Payette's enthusiasm is founded upon something slightly more substantial than a lively imagination and a devout hope.

With 30 features each listed on the Warner Brothers and First National release charts, it is significant of the earnestness both companies are evidencing in their drive for an honest rating at the top of list of producers of pictures of preeminent worth that each boasts five films of such extraordinary character and merit as to warrant their listing as "specials."

Washington has already acclaimed one of these specials on the Warner Brothers list—"Gold Diggers of 1933." The other four, said to be of no less magnitude and dramatic importance, are "Footlight Parade," now being made on the West Coast with James Cagney, Joan Blondell, Ruby Keeler and scores more of the Warner Brothers contract stars in the leading roles; "The Massacre," with Paul Muni, based on a story of the Indians of today—if you get the idea—by Robert Gessner; "Sweethearts Forever," a musical romance with a New York background, costarring Ruby Keeler and Dick Powell, destined, from all present indications, to be one of the screen's most popular duos, and "As the Earth Turns," by Gladys Harty Carroll, to be interpreted by an all-star cast.

First National's five specials would be something like this: Al Jolson in "Wonder Bar," a film version of his most recent stage success, with Kay Francis, Joan Blondell, Adolphe Menjou, Aline MacMahon, Dick Powell, Warren William, Bette Davis and Glenda Farrell; "British Agent," by Bruce Lockhart, a story of Russia during the Czarist regime, starring Leslie Howard; "Classmates," with Ruby Keeler and Dick Powell, who seem to be on all of the Warner Brother-First National rosters; Paul Muni in "The World Changes," a tale of American pioneer days, with Mary Astor and Aline MacMahon, and Barbara Stanwyck in "Broadway and Back," with Ann Dvorak and Patricia Ellis. "Broadway and Back" is a story of three generations in the American theater.

Program Releases.

Of the remaining 50 subjects necessary to complete the announced total of 60, stories have been selected and casts assigned for 41. The nine not as yet specifically accounted for comprise a reasonable margin of flexibility, making it possible to take advantage of sudden developments in the news, precipitate changes in public taste and those other intangible elements that frequently render it advisable to have an occasional open spot on the years' production schedule in order not to be "scooped."

The two Warner producing units announce that they have 16 stars, 30 featured players, 14 junior stars, 35 supporting players under contract for the year that impends.

In addition to the releases already named, Paul Muni will be starred in a third picture, title still to be announced; Leslie Howard in two in addition to "British Agent;" Ruby Keeler and Dick Powell in "The Football Coach."

Edward G. Robinson will be starred in "Napoleon, His Life and Loves," "Dark Hazard" and one other.

Jimmy Cagney will be starred in two in addition to "Footlight Parade," and Ruth Chatterton will be seen in "Mandalay" and a second as yet unnamed, with Adolphe Menjou, while Barbara Stanwyck, in addition to "Broadway and Back," will be seen in "Ever in My Heart" and two others with George Brent.

Richard Barthelmess will be starred in three, "Shanghai Orchids"—whatever they may be—a second with Adolphe Menjou and Joan Blondell and a third to be announced, and William Powell, likewise, will be seen in three, "The Gentleman from San Francisco;" as Philo Vance in "The Kennel Murder Case," by S. S. Van Dine, and a third with Kay Francis.

Single and All-Star Casts.

Joe E. Brown will be starred in three comedies, "The Crowned Head," "Steamboat Sam" and a third with Joan Blondell and Ginger Rogers, to be announced at a later date.

Kay Francis will be starred in two subjects in which Warren William will share honors, "Registered Nurse" and "The House on Fifty-sixth Street" and in "Seven Wives," with Adolphe Menjou, who seems to be coming in for more than his share of work in support of virtually all of the stars on the two lots!

Mr. Menjou on his own account, by the way, will be featured in "Bedside" and "Convention City."

Joan Blondell and Bette Davis, two of the most talented as well as most charming—and I am writing now from a personal acquaintanceship with them both—will be among the busiest of Hollywood's younger stars, since the W. B. schedules have them prominently cast in a number of all-star productions in addition to the regular releases in connection with which they have already hereinabove been named.

There will be three features, furthermore, featuring Aline MacMahon and Allen Jenkins.

Among the all-star pictures to which reference has been made are "The Return of the Terror," by Edgar Wallace; "Diamond Dan," "The Bureau of Missing Persons," "Havana Widows," "East to Love," "Country Club," "The Life of Rothschild," "From Headquarters," and "A Modern Hero."

It begins to look now as if when you get yourself all dressed up it will no longer be possible to chant Raymond Hitchcock's doleful plea that you have "no place to go." You can take Mr. Payette's advice, even if it is prejudiced, and go to one of the Warner theaters, with a reasonable assurance that some of the above will be spread out before you on the screen.

Gentleman Farmer.

Brook Johns, Washington's favorite son, son-in-law, adopted son or what would you, has been officially designated master of ceremonies for the "All-Washington Revue," to be presented on the stage of Loew's Fox Theater the week of August 18, according to announcement flung from the Loew housetop last evening.

Gene Ford, producer of the revue, put the finger on Mr. Johns after having given his professional record a perfunctory once-over between auditions at the Willard and arguments with the principals in Mr. Barron's office at the Fox. He could not have done better.

Brook Johns is an old Ziegfeld stalwart, was teamed for a long time with Ann Pennington, even buffeting a reporter down a flight of stairs on occasion in her behalf, and aided and abetted by a banjo, which he plays loudly, but not very well, he scored tremendously as an m. c. out St. Louis way before returning East to take up the life of a gentleman farmer.

Mr. Johns at present is raising a fine family of sons on a farm out Norbeck way in Montgomery County, Md. In addition to the sons, I understand he raises an occasional furtive radish and a casual mortgage or two!

The boys and girls are beginning to double again. For instance, it is possible to see Alan Mowbray as a pretty competent jewel thief with George Raft and Clive Brook in "Midnight Club," at Loew's Fox, and as a particularly pernicious prime minister with George Arliss and Reginald Owen in "Voltaire," at the Earle. Margaret Lindsay, remembered from "Cavalcade," also is with Mr. Arliss in "Voltaire," and on the same screen is heralded as one of the principal players with William Powell in "Private Detective 62," coming next week.

Speaking of Reginald Owen—and we were no longer ago than that last paragraph—it hardly seems possible that the King Louis XV of "Voltaire" was the simple-minded, but observant, butler, with Ann Harding and William Powell in "Double Harness." From butler to king is versatility enough for anybody!

That $10 Prize.

City Manager Carter Barron, of the Loew interests in Washington, permits the information that the prize-winning title of the "All-Washington Revue" will be made known tomorrow to be tucked away obscurely at the bottom of a long screed pertaining to other aspects of this notable, local production.

The response to the offer of a $10 prize award for the best title for the reveue was so great that it has required several days to determine the winner. As a matter of fact, I learn from that little birdie that the choice has narrowed down to a meager three or four titles, and that any one of them may win the ten-spot. The jury, as I understand it, is still out.

Don Redman who, with his Connie's Inn Orchestra, is sharing topline stage honors with the Mills Brothers at Loew's Fox this week, should make an unequivocal hit with the Phil Lampkin, musical director at the Fox. Redman also is a southpaw, wielding the baton with the fork hand, just as Mr. Lampkin does. Two portsiders on the same bill in the same theater wouldn't happen half a dozen times in the entire theater-going of a Methusaleh.

In Honor of Voltaire.

Negotiations are now in progress looking to the permanent preservation as a valuable historical document of the motion picture, "Voltaire," now being shown as chief feature of the bill at the Earle Theater.

It is planned to present a print of the picture to the Sorbonne in Paris as a gift from the Warner Brothers, producers of the film, to the French nation as a permanent addition to its official archives.

"Voltaire" this week is enjoying a triple world premiere—in Washington, London and Paris. The title role is one in which George Arliss long has wished to appear.

In its present elaborate production, Mr. Arliss is supported by a brilliant cast, led by Reginald Owen, Doris Kenyon, Alan Mowbray, Margaret Lindsay and David Torrence.

DEEMING IT ONE OF THE OUTSTANDING PRODUCTIONS OF THE SEASON, COMPARABLE TO THEIR EARLIER "MIN AND BILL," THE LOEW EXECUTIVES ARE SCREENING "TUGBOAT ANNIE," STARRING MARIE DRESSLER AND WALLACE BEERY, FOR THE ESPECIAL BENEFIT OF THE LADIES AND GENTLEMEN (SIC) OF THE LOCAL DRAMATIC DESKS IN THAT LABYRINTHINE BACK STAGE PROJECTION ROOM OF LOEW'S FOX THEATER TODAY AT 12:30 O'CLOCK. BY STARTING AT 7:30 I HOPE TO FIND THE PLACE IN TIME. MORE LATER.

After that, I'll be seeing you out in front of The Post scoreboard.

I stood it as long as I could last night while they were putting it up, but when the guy began using my desk for a sawbuck, I did what?

I made a home run!

Cinema Stars in the Warner Brothers Constellation

Luminaries of major brilliance whose scintillant talents will brighten the screen during the ensuing season. Left to right, and more or less from top to bottom, will be recognized Barbara Stanwyck, William Powell, Ruth Chatterton, Paul Muni, Edward G. Robinson, Dick Powell and Ruby Keeler, James Cagney, Al Jolson, Bette Davis, Joan Blondell, Kay Francis, Joe E. Brown and Richard Barthelmess.

Reich to Be Ruled By Hitler "Senate"

Chancellor Announces Curb on Individuals in Fascist Regime.

Berchtesgaden, Germany, Aug. 6 (U.P.).—Chancellor Hitler, in a speech here today, announced a scheme for the organization of a "party Senate" to play a major role in ruling the Reich.

"The hierarchy of our leadership," Hitler told Nazi commanders, "soon is to be transformed into a party Senate, comprised of the oldest, most worthy and most loyal comrades of the party."

It was understood the Senate will be an advisory council, curbing individual initiative, isolating the Nazi commanders and further centralizing control in Germany's Fascist regime.

Forest Worker, Thrown From Camp Truck, Dies

San Bernardino, Calif., Aug. 6 (AP). Hurled out of a civilian forest camp truck as it tilted over an embankment, Vincent Goebel, 24, of Muncie, Ind., received injuries last night which resulted in his death today at the Relands Community Hospital.

Goebel and six other forest conservation recruits were thrown out of the truck as it failed to make a turn near Forest Home. The others were not injured seriously.

Golden Wedding Celebrated.

Cumberland, Md., Aug. 6 (Spl.). Mr. and Mrs. Louis Emerick, former residents, celebrated their golden wedding with an outing at Ideal Park, Johnstown, Pa., and a family reunion. Mrs. Emerick was Miss Annie Willison, born near Cumberland.

Michigan Town Is Saved as Fire Sweeps Forest

Two Volunteers Injured; Marquette County Residents Alarmed.

Marquette, Mich., Aug. 6 (AP).—The town of Diorite, 4 miles west of Ishpeming, was saved from destruction by forest fires late today.

Two firefighters were injured and many residents of Marquette County were alarmed as smoldering flames broke out in more than 15 different sections during the day. The flames were fanned by high winds.

The largest fires were near Diorite and at Sand River, where more than 600 acres have been burning during the last week. The brush and slashing blazes were well scattered throughout the county, there being five near Ishpeming, three south of Gwinn, two south of Marquette, one being near the State Fish Hatchery, and three northwest of Marquette, at Sugar Load and Hogback.

The forest fire which broke out about 8:30 a. m. today, west of Low Moor, was at first concentrated to an area of about a quarter of a mile square. But fanned by a brisk wind, the blaze got out of control and started northward. At 2 o'clock this afternoon it jumped Highway U. S.-41 and M-28, traveling swiftly in the direction of Diorite.

The combined efforts of fire departments from four towns, members of the Conservation Corps, at Humboldt, and volunteer firefighters kept the flames from spreading into Diorite.

Ishpeming and Negaunee fire departments arrived on the scene as five houses were being threatened by the flames.

Lindbergh Plot Schemer Is Killed

Man Who Served Term in Extortion Plan Shot During Robbery.

Pittsburgh, Aug. 6 (AP).—John Sonnie, 24, of Greensburg, sentenced to an Omaha, Nebr., prison in 1932 for attempting to extort money from Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, was shot and killed by a constable early today.

The officer, Ray Hertel, who charges the youth and his brother Carl were holding up couples in parked cars along lonely roads, says Sonnie tried to rob him.

Patrolling a country road early today, Hertel, attracted by a disturbance in the neighborhood, pulled his car to the roadside. He says Sonnie and his brother stepped forward, the latter brandishing a gun, and ordered him to "reach for the stars!"

With one arm in the air, Hertel reached in his back pocket, as if to get his money. Whipping out a gun, he shot Sonnie twice.

Canadian Railmen Near Strike Ballot

Meeting Today Expected to Take Action Over 10% Pay Cut.

Montreal, Aug. 6 (AP).—One more meeting of the general conference committee of the railway running trades unions will be held tomorrow before ballots for the impending strike vote are sent to the membership.

Preparation of the ballots was begun yesterday but all the general chairmen have not yet placed their approval on the form. It is believed this is the purpose of tomorrow's meeting.

On the ballot the 24,000 engineers, firemen, conductors, trainmen and telegraphers, employed on Canadian railroads will be asked to decide whether they wish to accept the further 10 per cent wage cut effected by the Canadian National and Canadian Pacific railways or go out on strike.

The Federal Diary

By George D. Riley

FORTY years ago a mere lad was filling a position as messenger boy in the old Government Printing Office. Today, this personage, Raymond F. Crist, is in manhood's estate—chief of the Bureau of Naturalization, Department of Labor. Fittingly, he took this office shortly after he has passed the half-century birthday.

Raymond F. Crist

In the periods between, he, while his companions slept, toiled upward in the night. He went to night school, was graduated in dentistry, and gained the degree of bachelor of law. Mr. Crist took advantage of every opportunity for self-improvement. In a rambling experience, he traveled both in America and abroad.

One of the high lights of his work-a-day career was his secretaryship to a Cabinet official. Today, Swarmi Fedd doffs his turban and salutes the man of ages, for it is a special occasion and, as the poet says, "we live in deeds, not years."

SECRETARY ROPER sponsors this one, discussing equitable treatment of employees:

"A group of newspapermen intent on learning efficiency methods used by Hetty Green in her banking business, called on her with a request to go through her establishment. She consented and conducted them through.

" 'Why is it,' asked one as the party went along, 'you have some employees here making more than others and yet some are doing identical work?'

" 'I have some people here to do exactly as I tell them,' she replied. 'They follow implicitly their instructions. I have others who tell me what to do and although they do the same work I paid one more than another.' "

Eat moderately.

Surely most of us in Government service can comply at least with the third and fifth precepts.

THERE is a Government employe who is going in for "society." He tells it in his own words:

"The dowagers grade us. For instance, if we happen to be smoking a cigarette and blow the exhaust ceilingward, we lose five points." (This sounds like the old rating scale itself.) "To smoke correctly, one must puff a little out first and that downward. The rest of the smoke then can be exhaled at one snort, and that downward.

"Suppose the lady meets some one and can not recall the name first hand. We are asked for the identity. We lose five points if we do not know, but if we do we are marked up."

And to save the old hide we can say if the latter comes under the heading of "greatest possible reliability" or "greatest possible accuracy." On second thought, it probably will be "completely informed." See element Nos. 1, 2 and 6 on your rating scales.

MEETING yesterday morning in a theater on the Avenue well plastered with NRA emblems, several hundred metal trades employes, Navy Yard, unanimously adopted a resolution for presentation to President Roosevelt and Secretary Swanson on the free and easy method of installing an additional 1⅛⅝ per cent pay slash (added to the 15 per cent), so that now these workers receive $28 a week.

Here is the order from Mr. Swanson, effective yesterday:

Pending decisions for adjusting navy yard work to shipbuilders' code, the available funds necessitate discontinuance present 5½-day work week basis with six days' pay. Therefore, during this transitory period the instructions contained in Alnavista $123 1600 June are canceled and the department's letter of June 1, establishing a 5-day work week will become effective at all navy yards and naval stations Sunday, August 6. Further instructions will be isued soon as decisions as to application of Code 1030.

This is the beginning of fiscal year. Yet the order tells us funds are not available. Recently we heard how busy the Navy Yard will be making guns and allied equipment for the mammoth Navy building program. As far as Federal employes are concerned, it seems the whole layout in Government service is "transitory." Is it a matter of "millions for defense but millions less for living?"

For the life of us we can not see why uniformed men should receive better treatment from their "Uncle" than the service of supply. Yet, we find uniformed men gradually moving into civilian work at the navy yard. The latter become "free agents."

RECOGNITION of the fact that living in Washington is more costly than in other cities is an immediate need. Those who have come here in recent months know it. The "steady pay rolls" boost living cost. Twenty-five dollars in most sections is equivalent to $50 or more here, so that separate cost figures need application alongside the pay roll totals in the National Capital. No attempt has been made to make fish of one and fowl of another.

Let us review the Navy Yard situation, setting forth effect such an order will have on one trade alone, namely the machinists. This will result in reduced purchasing power, as will be readily seen when approximately 2,000 employes will be affected who receive from $1.53 per hour upward.

On January 1, 1929, first-class machinists at the Washington Navy Yard were receiving $7.04 per day, or $42.24 per week basic pay. From this amount 3½ per cent was deducted for retirement, leaving actual pay received $40.76.

From July 1, 1932, until April 1, 1933, under provisions of the original economy act, the machinists suffered a reduction of 1-11 of their basic pay in addition to the 3½ per cent cut in their weekly earnings from $40.76 to $36.92 for a 40-hour work week.

From April 1, 1933, and up to the present time, under the amendment to the economy act, a 15 per cent reduction was substituted in the place of the 1-11 reduction, further cutting the pay of mechanics at the Washington Navy Yard from $42.24 per week basic pay to $34.42 for a 44-hour week.

The pay for a first-class machinist in the Washington Navy Yard has been $34.42 per week for 5½ days work, Saturday half-holiday being granted by Congressional action.

NOW first-class machinists will receive $28.69 per week.

From July 1, 1932, up to the adoption of the proposed schedule, the machinists' pay will have dropped from $42.24, basic pay, to $28.69 as thus shown:

	Per Day	Per Week
January 1, 1929	$7.04	$42.24
July 1, 1932	7.04	36.92
April 1, 1933	7.04	34.42
Proposed plan	7.04	28.69

This means $42.24 to $28.69 reduction in three years.

The NRA shipyards code calls for working hour reduction to 32 without pay loss for previous hours worked.

Purpose of NRA is to increase purchasing power.

Collective bargaining is provided in codes.

For U. S. Navy Yards all that is out.

The resolution signed by Walter L. Disbrow, president; Walter V. Hurley, secretary, Columbia Lodge No. 174, I. A. M., and Neil F. Graham, president, and R. B. Kelso, secretary, M. T. A., representing Naval Gun Factory, calls for a 39-hour week with pay for a 44-hour week "which can be accomplished legally by working 7 hours per day for five days and 4 hours on Saturday pending convening of Congress, when legislation can be passed to reduce the work week of Federal employes without loss of pay in weekly earnings."

MAKE THE TRIP BY TELEPHONE first

Of course, you plan to take a vacation if you can. And here's a tip to make it more enjoyable—
GO BY TELEPHONE first to your hotel, to reserve a room, to friends, telling them when to expect you. And then, while you're away, telephone home often to see that everything's O. K. Telephone the office and keep up with business affairs. Telephone home just before you start back.
Out-of-town telephone rates are very low. Call by number after 8:30 p. m. and you can talk to places 135 miles away for only 45c.
See the Bell System exhibit at the "Century of Progress". Telephone ahead.

Loss to Mackmen as Yanks Win Cuts Nats' Lead to Three Games

This Morning

With Shirley L. Povich.

ROCHESTER was never like this, mused Big Ed Chapman, the Nats' rookie pitcher yesterday, as Jimmy Foxx socked him for a home run, Ed Coleman reached him for a single, Frank Higgins touched him for a triple and Roger Cramer rapped him for three bases, all within the space of an inning. It seems that Clark Griffith's prize rookie for whom he said he paid and paid, discovered that the difference between the big leagues and the minor leagues means something more than the disparity in the wage scale.

There are good hitters in the minors, but they only appear ever so often in the batting line-up. There's no "breathers" in a big league line-up. Chapman discovered that he had to pitch to every man as if he had been a .350 hitter in the minors. A pitcher gets better support in the majors, 'tis true, but even the major league outfielders are not permitted to use extension ladders.

Yanks Reported Through.

Word seeped into Washington yesterday via the Philadelphia baseball writers who had seen their team polish off the Yankees in three straight games, that the old men of Manhattan aren't what they used to be, and are a set-up for the Nats in the four-game series opening today with a double-header.

I have it straight from the Philly scribes that Joe McCarthy is not in good with the Yankee cast and that his strategy has not won over his men. Coupled with that is a growing Ruth faction on the club that is conducting a whispering campaign aimed to enthrone the Babe as manager of the club at the first excuse.

Against the Athletics in the Yankees' late, lamented three-game series, the New York club was a listless, shiftless crew, according to the A's war correspondents. For the first time in their memory, the Yankees failed to get a single home run in a Philadelphia series or to even come close to one.

Sewell Playing on Dime.

I have it straight, too, that Joe Sewell is playing third base on the proverbial dime and that if he doesn't hurry and get off the silver standard around that bag, young Jack Saltzgaver will be brought up from the Yankee farm at Newark to take over third base for the remainder of the season.

Lou Gehrig has been about as much help to the Yankees of late as an anchor tossed a drowning gent. Larrupin' Lou, otherwise known as the Laddie known as Lou, has hit only two home runs since June 21, once suffering a 30-day famine, and otherwise has conducted himself in a manner unbecoming as a big shot in the Ruppert fusileers. Against the A's pitching, he was stiff as a board, but swinging at anything within 2 feet of the plate in his anxiety to get a hit.

The tales they tell about Earl

Yankees Beat Boston Sox By 5 to 4

Score Winning Run in Seventh on Error by Walters.

Pipgras and MacFayden Both Are Pounded From Mound.

NEW YORK, Aug. 6 (AP).—With the aid of three Boston errors, some timely hits and George Pipgras' wildness in the early rounds, the Yankees broke their losing streak today by beating the Red Sox, 5 to 4.

Neither of the starting pitchers, Pipgras nor Danny MacFayden, could go the route. The former was found for three runs in the first inning after the Red Sox had scored twice, and finally retired in favor of Johnny Welch in the third. MacFayden lasted until the sixth, when Boston put over two runs to tie the score.

The Yanks scored the winning run in the seventh when Buck Walters fumbled Tony Lazzeri's grounder, letting Lou Gehrig score.

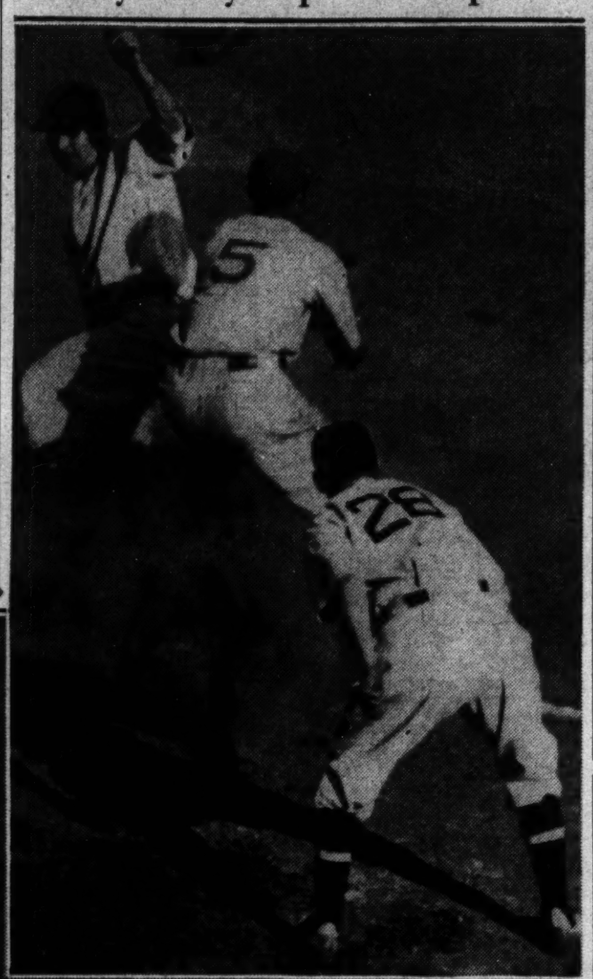
Jenkins on Marathon Drive

Wendover, Utah, Aug. 6 (AP).—Overheated gears forcing him to stop one attempt last night, Ab Jenkins, Salt Lake City race driver, set out again today to break his record of 2,710 miles in 24 hours of continuous running on salt beds here.

Jenkins, driving a 12-cylinder stock car, said he broke several records up to 1,000 kilometers before he halted his test over a circular course yesterday.

He started again at 2:29 p. m. (mountain standard time) today.

Plays Carry Hope and Despair



Louis Johrdan, Post Staff Photographer.

The completion of the two plays shown above both made and broke the Nats as they ineffectively battled the Athletics yesterday. The lower photograph shows the end of a flashy double-play, which killed a three-run home rally in the third. Schulte is out at second, following Foxx's one-handed stop which robbed Kuhel of a hit. The visiting first baseman stepped on first and then lined to Williams, who is seen putting the ball on Schulte. In the upper picture, Heinie Manush is seen sliding into third following his triple with the bases loaded in the sixth. This blow tied the score at 8-all.

Women Today Open Western Golf Play

Chicago, Aug. 6 (AP).—Virginia Van Wie, the national champion, and five State titleholders head the best field in years in the Western Women's Open Golf championship tournament which opens tomorrow at the Oak Park Country Club with an 18-hole qualifying round.

Against the national titleholder will be arrayed Mrs. Opal Hill, of Kansas City, the defending champion; Mary K. Browne, of Cleveland, former national tennis champion and just about as good a golfer; and June Beebe, young Chicagoan, who won three straight tournaments in the Chicago area recently.

The State champions are Mrs. H. Austin Pardue, of Minneapolis, Lucille Robinson, of Iowa; Mrs. A. H. Means, of Utah; Mrs. Harley Higbee, of Detroit, and Miss Beebe. Mrs. Joseph Palma, champion of Hawaii for the past four years, also will make a bid.

2 Events Won By District Canoeists

Ernie Millar Is Second in Championship at World's Fair.

CHICAGO, Aug. 6 (AP).—Canoeists from the Nation's Capital figured prominently in the annual championship regatta of the American Canoe Association which opened today on the north lagoon of the World's Fair Grounds, winning two events and placing second in two and finishing third in still another.

Ernie Millar, of the Potomac Boat Club, finished second to Howard La Brant, of the Columbia Club, Chicago, in the national single blade championship. La Brant won by a slim margin, paddling the 800-meter course in 4:14.

Fast Time Recorded.

The Washington Canoe Club's squad, composed of Houghton, Schultz, Massey and Johnson, captured its event in the fast time of 3:47.6, leading the Yonkers and Philadelphia Canoe Clubs over the line. The same club accounted for the senior squad, its crew of Knight, Vollmer, Ackad and Rodman outdistancing its rivals by a wide margin.

The Breeds Canoe Club, of East Roxbury, Mass., took the lead for the championship trophy, winning four of the nine single-blade titles decided today. Double-blade events will be held tomorrow.

The other two events in which Washington men figure follow:

Junior tandem—Won by Stanley Cincowski and Frank Krick, Cacawa Canoe Club, Philadelphia; second, Melvin Young and Herman Vollmer, Washington Canoe Club; third, M. Rervan and C. Barnes, Night Owls Club, Boston. Time, 4:05.

Senior tandem—Won by E. Volente and T. Blackman, Breeds Canoe Club; second, H. Knight and E. Rodman, Washington Canoe Club; third, J. Burch and E. Miller, Potomac Canoe Club. Time, 4:08.2.

Shute, Hagen Continue To Score in England

Brighton, England, Aug. 6 (AP).—Denny Shute and Walter Hagen continued their winning golf exhibition streak today, defeating A. H. Padgham, British Ryder Cup player, and Charles Parson, local pro, 6 and 5, in a 36-hole match.

The Americans, with a best ball of 64, against 67 for their rivals, were 3 up after 18 holes.

Shute, recent winner of the British open crown, scored a 66 in the morning round, while Hagen had a 67, Padgham 67 and Parsons 70.

Chapman, Rookie, Fails to Impress in Debut in Majors.

Nats Lose in Late Rounds After Overcoming 7-Run Alien Lead.

By Shirley L. Povich (Sports Editor of The Post).

BIG ED ("BUTCH") CHAPMAN was introduced to big league hitting yesterday and learned right off the bat, as it were, that this guy Jimmy Foxx is no myth. In the second inning Chapman stuck his second pitch to Foxx down the middle and fast, and Foxx stuck it high up in the left-field bleachers for his thirty-first home run of the season.

That was the opening shot fired by the Athletics. They butchered Chapman in that second inning for four runs, and Cramer's triple to start the third blasted him off the hill. Manager Joe Cronin's pitching experiment was not highly successful and the A's eventually won the ball game, 12 to 8.

Yanks Advance Game.

The news from up in the Bronx, where the Yankees were battling the Red Sox yesterday also was distressing, for the old men of Manhattan socked the Sox with a 5-4 defeat and lopped a full game off what had been a flourishing four-game lead of the Nats in the pennant race.

The 12,000 Sabbath customers at Griffith Stadium, however, did not hold Chapman to account as the chief culprit, for his successors in the box, Tommy Thomas and Jack Russell, were hardly more effective and therein lies the tale of the Nats' defeat.

Score Tied by Nats.

Two and a half innings after the ball game started it appeared to be over, what with the A's holding an 8-1 lead, but then the A's, themselves, started to overcome their own advantage with some weird pitching by Sugar Cain, some weird throwing by Dib Williams and some more weird pitching by Rube Walberg. The up-shot of all these goings-on was that the Nats tied the score.

This tying of the score at 8-8 came in the sixth inning when a triple off the right-field fence by Heinie Manush, with the bases full, put the Nats back in the ball game.

Now the true hero of the piece enters. Rookie Third Basemar Frank Higgins, who had tripled in the second inning to drive in two and doubled in the third inning to drive in two more, met up with the third Washington pitcher, Jack Russell, in the seventh.

Knocks Home Run.

Two A's were out and the danger appeared to be over for the time being, but the slugging Higgins interrupted one of Russell's pitches and sent it in full flight high over Manush's head into the left-field stands for a legitimate home run in this vale or on Mars.

The Nats never got that run back against Rube Walberg, and just to make their task a bit more difficult, the A's scored again in the eighth and tacked on two more in the ninth to boost their margin to four runs.

It was a balmy ball game, with the Nats scoring all afternoon with no more signs of hitting power than Caspar Milquetoast. Cain and Walberg were wilder than Hottentots, issuing 11 bases on balls, 8 of which were charged to Cain in 5 2-3 innings.

Many Runs, Few Hits.

At one point in the proceedings when the Nats were boasting an 8-8 tie, the A's had made nine hits, and the Nats had gotten their runs with the aid of only four safeties. They scored once on one hit in the second, three times on one hit in Indians Drop to 5th Place; Gehringer Hits Homer in Each Game.

DETROIT, Aug. 6 (AP).—Detroit won a double-header from Cleveland today, 7 to 3 and 2 to 1, thereby climbing into the first division and shoving the Indians back into fifth place in the American League standings.

Charlie Gehringer got a home run in each game, his circuit clout in the sixth inning of the nightcap breaking a deadlock and representing Detroit's winning margin.

Oral Hildebrand, just back in the fold after a brief suspension, started on the mound for Cleveland in the opener, but had given up 5 runs and 11 hits when he yielded to a pinch batter in the seventh.

Nats to Open Yankee Series With Double-Header Today

Stewart and Crowder to Hurl; Washington Hopeful of Winning Three Out of Four; Has Taken All Games in New York This Year.

By Frank H. Young.

IF Manager Joe Cronin does not change his mind—and he has been exercising what heretofore has been held as a woman's prerogative a great deal of late—Walter Stewart and "General" Al Crowder will do the flinging for the Nationals in New York today in the double-header which opens a series against the runner-up Yankees. Incidentally, it will be up to this pair to extend the Nats' streak of unbeaten ball in the Big Town, for they have yet to drop a 1933 decision there.

The Washington Club enters the series three games ahead of last year's champions, which means that the only way in which they can lose their lead is by bowing in all four games listed. And, in view of the big edge they hold over the New Yorkers in face-to-face meetings to date, it is hardly likely that such a thing will occur. As a matter of fact, the Nats will not be satisfied with less than three victories in the four games and, judging from reports of the Philadelphia scribes here yesterday, they should fare even better and sweep the series.

Skipper Cronin did some more mind-changing with respect to his mound starter yesterday. Following a Friday night of thought, he decided to use Monte Weaver against the Red Sox Saturday rather than Ed (Butch) Chapman. This worked out nicely, but another dream caused him to use Chapman as a starter yesterday, instead of Bob Burke, and that was bad.

Cronin's explanation yesterday was that the home fans "ride" Burke too hard and he did not want to ask him to face any added handicap other than the Athletics. "I'd of stuck to Burke if we'd been on the road," said Joe.

Fans who went to the park to see Burke perform were not disappointed, though, for he started the ninth. Two runs were gleaned from his slants, but a walk, scratch hit and an error charged to the pitcher because Cronin and Myer got their signals crossed with respect to covering second were responsible for these.

Williams made a nice stop of Chapman's bad bounder ending the second, grabbing the ball just as it appeared to be skidding over his head.

Foxx made a great, but unconscious stop of Kuhel's burner to end the Nats' third with a double play. Williams did his part, making the catch of the first-sacker's peg after he had touched first, and diving to touch out Schulte going into second. With the out having been made at first, the runner was not forced at the middle sack.

Five of the Athletics' first seven hits were extra basers. They included a homer, two triples and two doubles, and all were packed in the second and third rounds.

The fourth was the first inning in which the Nats' first man up did not see base-life.

ST. JOSEPH'S assumed the lead in the second-half pennant race of the Capital City League yesterday, nosing out the Federals, 5-3, in a well played game. Stantons tied for second place with the Griffiths by swamping Miller Furniture Co. 14-3, while the Griffs idled.

In other games played Congress Heights triumphed over the Woodley A. C., 4-2, and Certified Barbers handed Dor-A its second consecutive defeat, 8-2.

Several thousand fans saw the Stantons avenge a 1-0 defeat suffered at the hands of the Millers in the deciding game of the first-half race. Willis Fisher, Freddy Nau and Ray Davidson starred for the winners.

Home Run for Fisher.

Fisher knocked a home run in the seventh inning with one man on base, while Nau collected two hits in three trips to the plate. Davidson triumphed over his old rival, Harry Milburn, in ringing up the triumph.

Bernie Cornell's circuit blow with a mate on base gave St. Joseph's its margin of victory over the Federals. Sherman and Gilbert led Congress Heights' attack against the Woodley tossers, while George Mosedale's slugging featured the Barbers' victory over Dor-A.

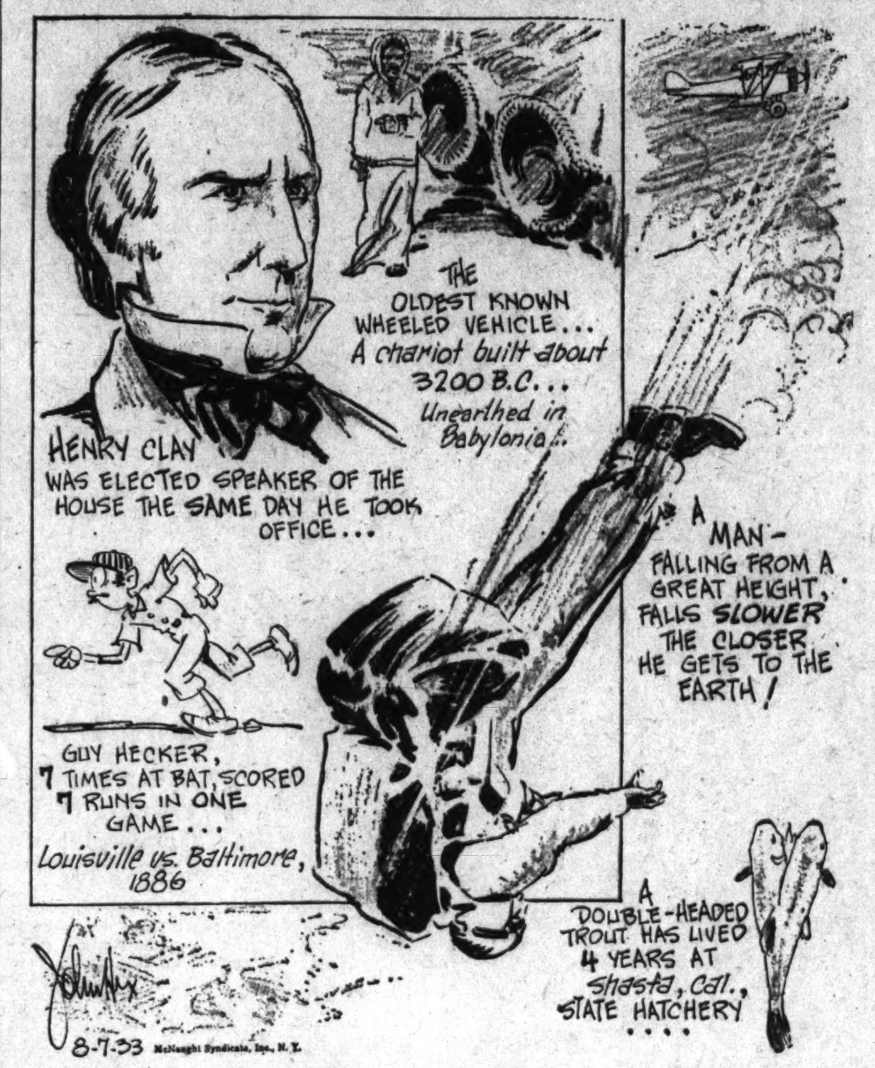
Strange as It Seems —By John Hix

For further proof address the author, inclosing a stamped envelope for reply. Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.



FALLING bodies behave as they should (i. e., as the laws of physics say they should) only when they fall through a vacuum. In theory, any body, regardless of shape or size, should fall with an even acceleration of about 32 feet per second—at the end of the first second it should be falling 32 feet per second, at the end of the second second at the rate of 64 feet, and so on.

However, when a body falls through air it reaches a maximum speed which remains constant for air at a given density—as the air becomes denser the body falls at a slower rate; in rarified air it falls faster.

A man falling through the air travels about 120 miles an hour as a maximum speed when he is near the earth, but at higher levels where the air is rarer he falls at a greater speed. Strange as it seems, then, a man falling from a great height actually falls slower when he nears the earth than he did at a greater altitude. And, strange as it seems, the pull of gravity is less at a high altitude than it is near the earth.

The relative speeds at which a man may fall was shown recently by John Tranum, of England, in a delayed jump from four miles in the air. A few seconds after he left the plane he was falling 144 miles an hour, but on nearing the earth this dropped to 120 miles.

The oldest known vehicle, the ruins of which are shown above, was unearthed at Kish, a Sumerian city of Babylonia. It was built about 3200 B. C.

Colors give added realism to strange things and happenings illustrated by John Hix on a full page in The Sunday Post.

DEAR AL: Hawthorne Race Track, Aug. 6.

Not much to be said about yesterday's racing. I gave you two winners and three other selections given you were leading in the stretch when they ran out of gas. Darn those Government agents.

Had a card from Bill today. Said that he had been snake bitten. Hope it is not serious, still he is one up on me. Only earthly way, years ago, that you could get a drink in Alabama was for snake bite and then on a doctor's prescription. Fellow got a big black snake, made a pet of him and charged 50 cents a bite. The line formed on the right, and when I got to Mr. Snake, he curled up and went to sleep. Was too tired to bite.

Lots of these horses have that tired feeling now that Uncle Sam has stopped their tonic. Yours,

MIKE.

First race—The usual washday event for maiden 2-year-olds. Signal Man may finish in front. Has never been to the post, but has worked fast. Dogmator and Scotch Pepper as good as any.

Second race—Doris Jean is very inconsistent and does not care for more than six furlongs, still at weights may lead Black Strap and Fiddler.

Third race—No class to this bunch. Wind Song, Yfin and Kissie are likely candidates.

Fourth race—Sun Teatime may last the route. Reverberate and Sister Zoe are money chances.

Fifth race—Miss Tulsa will be odds-on and should never be headed. Miss Melody and Mountain Elk figure close together.

Sixth race—Hernando does not care for over a mile but may grab this heat. Humphries rides Edith A. and Dusky Devil will be running at the finish.

Seventh race—If track remains fast I am playing George Maypole. Will be a fair price. Beaver and Scandal Sheet are the contenders.

Eighth race—Am going right back to Chokoloskee with Westrope up. Gaillardia and Adsum figure very close up. Watch your step. Blue Mondays come pretty regularly, you know.

Maid, Potomac And Corbett Nines Win

Eastern, Montrose and Versis Defeated as 2d Half Begins.

WASHINGTON MAID, Potomac Fish Co. and Corbett A. C. teams were returned the victors in their Capital City League games yesterday as the second half pennant chase got underway.

A four-run rally in the second inning enabled the Maids, first half champion, to nose out their old rivals, the Eastern A. C., 6-4. Corbett drubbed the Versis A. C., one of the teams figuring in a triple-tie for the first half laurels, by a 6-2 score. The fish dealers swamped the Montrose A. C., 12-0.

Three Out of Four.

Merchant's hitting featured Washington Maid's win. He collected three safeties in four trips to the plate. Kober and Taylor were the big guns in the Corbett line-up. Hahn's slugging was the feature of Potomac's triumph. He drove out a hit on each of his five appearances at the rubber.

Ernie Boggs Wins District A. A. U. Half-Mile Swim by Two Yards; Burns Is Second

Augusterfer Girl Adds Crown

First Lap of Men's Race Is Finished by Trio in Dead Heat.

Caroline Cox Is Second, Lagging Behind as Event Nears End.

FLASHING over the finish line a scant 2 yards ahead of his nearest rival, Ernie Boggs, of the Y. M. C. A., yesterday won the District A. A. U. half mile swimming championship in a race staged off the Washington Canoe Club float. Thornton Burns was second in the field of eight.

Rita Augusterfer added the half-mile crown for girls to her long list of laurels, leading home a trio of teammates from the Ambassador Club. Only last week Miss Augusterfer set a new South Atlantic record for the quarter-mile in the Meadowbrook meet at Baltimore.

Boggs, Burns and Stephenson, the latter third, finished the first lap of the men's race, a distance of 440 yards, in a dead heat. But as the trio splashed through the second lap the superiority of Boggs and Burns over their rival gradually became apparent.

The two fought a stirring duel down the stretch, Boggs winning by virtue of a sprint in the last 50 yards.

Caroline Cox, who was second in the girls' race, held the winner on even terms throughout the first lap, but lagged behind in the second.

Men.

Won by Boggs, Y. M. C. A.; second, Burns, Shoreham; third, Stephenson, Washington Canoe Club. Time, 15 minutes 41 seconds.

Women.

Won by Rita Augusterfer, Shoreham; second, Caroline Cox, Shoreham; third, Annabelle Whaler, Shoreham. Time, 16 minutes 18 seconds.

D. C. Casting Club Wins From Baltimoreans

The Capitol Casting Club of Washington defeated the Baltimore Casting Club yesterday in an angling tournament at Lincoln Memorrial reflecting pool, 22 points to 14.

The District club won the high average for the first three places in total events. Both clubs will compete in the national casting tournament at Chicago this fall.

Nats Meet Yanks In Twin Bill Today

Thomas had two strikes and no balls on Cochrane in the sixth and then walked him, filling the bases and bringing Foxx to the tee. He pulled out of the hole, though, by making a nice play on Foxx's roller for the third out at first.

Schulte walked for the third time in succession, opening the home sixth. It was one of four passes issued by the generous Mack pitchers, who forced in one run and set the stage for Manush's triple, the only hit of the round, to drive home three more and knot the string.

The Nats claimed that Walberg committed a balk in the seventh, with Bluege up and Kuhel on first, but Umpire McGowan did not see things this way. This evidently peeved Kuhel, for he immediately proceeded to pilfer second.

Williams cut over and made a one-handed stop of Cronin's roller, which was a beauty, and which ended the home eighth. Had the ball gotten past him, Boken, who had doubled, would have scored.

Cramer ended the game with a fancy catch, hustling over to right-center to rob Bluege of what appeared to be an extra-baser.

Fort Will Offer 5-Bout Card Tonight

Boxing Back After Year; Strickler - Overlin in Feature.

BOXING returns to Fort Washington tonight, after a year's absence, with a show that brings Billy Strickler up against Ken Overlin in the feature eight-rounder of a five-card bout. Preparations have been made to accommodate 2,000 spectators, and if half that number turn out the officials will be pleasantly surprised.

Middleweight champion of the Navy Overlin, nevertheless, is none too enthusiastic over the fight, simply because Strickler hits from the left side. Overlin has met up with only two southpaws, and both trimmed him.

Inactive Several Months.

Strickler has been inactive for several months because of an unwillingness of prospective opponents to meet him. A hard puncher, and capable of absorbing much punishment, the Terminal engineer will be a troublesome opponent for the sailor.

It will be a lively argument if Overlin comes out of his shell and fights, but if he elects to be cautious and box, it may be a long-drawn-out affair.

Furr to Meet Mays.

The preliminary card finds Phil Furr pitted against Johnny Mays in the six-round semiwindup, and Sammy Romano and Doug Swetnam in another six. Three fours are listed, Soldier Clark vs. Bill Bullock; Billy Howell vs. Sailor Red Bailey, and Frankie Mayhew vs. Sailor Sarge.

Joe Knight polished off his training for tomorrow night's scrap with Joe Banovic at Twin City, Laurel, with a light workout at Chesapeake Beach. Banovic will arrive in the city today from New York.

7 Gun Club Members Will Go to Tourney

Seven members of the Washington Gun Club will compete in the Grand American handicap tournament, the world series of trapshooting, during the week of August 21, at Vandalia Field, Dayton, Ohio, it was announced yesterday.

The District trapshooters who have decided to enter are R. D. Morgan, secretary of the club; Dr. E. C. Breeding, Dr. J. C. Wynkoff, Julius Marcey, W. E. Saxton, J. M. Pearce and Frank Huseman, professional.

Morgan, an expert shooter, tied for the North American championship in 1912 with A. A. Akand, of New Jersey, and Frank Wright, of New York.

Huseman is the lone pro of the group.

Red Sox Beaten.

Annapolis, Md., Aug. 6 (Spl.).—The Annapolis Athletic Club baseball team avenged a defeat suffered at the hands of the Washington Red Sox earlier in the season, by trouncing the invaders today to the tune of 11 to 6.

Victories at Rye To Mangin And Lott

First Round Matches Are Completed; Suter Draws a Bye.

RYE, N. Y., Aug. 6 (AP).—Cliff Sutter, of New Orleans, defending title holder, moved into the second round of the Eastern grass courts tennis championship without lifting a racquet today, but three other seeded stars had to overcome stiffer resistance than they had expected. Of these only Keith Gledhill, of Santa Barbara, Calif., seeded fifth, dropped a set, but both Gregory Mangin, of Newark, seeded No. 4, and George M. Lott, of Chicago, No. 7, were pressed to the extent of one deuced set apiece.

While Sutter was advancing through the default of Samuel P. Gilpin, of Merion, Pa., Gledhill found himself in a tough battle with Ernest Kuhn, of New York, but the Californian pulled away to win at 7—5, 2—6, 6—3. Lott had to call upon most of his shots to down the aggressive Philadelphian, Harold MacGuffin, 6—3, 8—6, and Thomas Flynn, of Albany, gave Mangin a struggle before surrendering, 11—9, 6—4.

Three Seeded Stars Play Today.

Of the other seeded players, Lester Stoefen, giant Californian, who is ranked third, had earned his second-round bracket yesterday, and Sidney B. Wood, of New York, No. 2; John Van Ryn, Orange, N. J., No. 6, and Frankie Parker, national clay courts champion, No. 8, will swing into action tomorrow.

Buxby downed Wilmer Hines, of Columbia, S. C., 6—3, 6—3, Grant easily eliminated Edward W. Burns, of New York, 6—1, 6—3, and Bell put out the Harvard player, John F. Ray, 6—3, 6—4.

Karl Kamrath and John McDiarmid, the Texans; Dr. Eugene McCauliff, of Yonkers, N. Y., and Robert Bryan, of Chattanooga, also won their first round matches.

Miss Deike Advances.

Play in the women's division saw the advance of Elizabeth Deike, of Los Angeles into the third round, where she joined Norma Taubele, of New York. Miss Deike won two matches today, defeating Sally Coburn, Greenwich, Conn., 6—2, 6—0, and Millicent Hirsch, New York, 7—5, 6—1. Miss Taubele gained her third round bracket yesterday. Joan Ridley, English star, won her first round match with Dorrance Hase, of Dorchester, Mass., 6—1, retired.

Colored Nines Play.

"Fats" Jenkins, captain of the New York Black Yankees, and reputed to be the fastest human between home plate and first base, will lead his aggregation in a clash with Ed Bolden's Philadelphia Stars in a double bill Saturday, August 19, at Griffith Stadium, the first game being called at 2 o'clock.

Harper Has 72; Tops Golfers In Practice

Ends Round With Eagle Deuce in Warm-up for Sectional Trials.

By Dave Herman.

A SENSATIONAL eagle-deuce on the 420-yard eighteenth hole, his third deuce of the round, was a potent factor in enabling Chandler Harper, the slim Virginia amateur golf champion, to blast out a 71 yesterday at Columbia Country Club in a practice tour in preparation for the National Amateur sectional qualifying trials scheduled over the course tomorrow.

The Princess Anne Country Club entry, medalist in the 1932 divisional test at Chevy Chase, split the fairway with his drive from the eighteenth tee—a 250-yard screamer it was. Reaching into his bag, for his second shot, Harper drew forth a No. 4 iron.

Second Eagle on Hole.

He banged into the ball. It sailed as straight as a bullet, dropped two feet from the pin, and trickled into the cup for what was reported as the second eagle ever made on the hole.

Harper's eagle, witnessed by a handful of interested spectators assembled near the green, came as a life-saver as far as his score was concerned, and provided the big talk yesterday as the visiting big guns limbered up for the 36-hole sectional grind. Incidentally, his 36—35 was the lowest of the practice scores reported. Earlier in the morning the Virginian shot a 73.

Playing with Harper were Miller B. Stevinson, who clouted out a 73; Morton McCarthy, of Harper's home club at Virginia Beach, who had a 74, and Nelson Macrae, of Wilmington, N. C., who shot a 76.

Harper's card:

Par—Out.....	4	4	4	3	5	4	4	3	4	—35
Harper—Out..	5	4	4	2	5	4	4	2	5	—35
Par—In.....	4	4	4	3	4	4	4	3	5	—35—70
Harper—In...	4	4	5	3	5	5	3	4	2	—35—71

Scorning play from the women's tees, Mrs. David H. Clark, former Virginia women's golf champion, shot from the back tees at Army and Navy Country Club yesterday and pounded out a nifty card of 80.

Mrs. J. Marvin Haynes, of Columbia, holds the feminine course record with her 78, but Mrs. Clark's score would have been reasonably lower had she played from the front tees.

Playing with Mrs. Clark were her husband, Lieut. Clark, who was transferred from Norfolk last spring, with Lieut. Rawlins.

Playing with a sprained thumb on his left hand, Nick Altrock, famous baseball comedian and coach, turned in a 76 yesterday morning at Army and Navy Country Club. He toured the course with Dr. William Ogus.

C. S. Buchanan, with 93—19—74, won first prize in the blind bogey tournament at Manor. A. L. Alderman, with 87—10—77, emerged second, while Karl Goodman, with 91—13—78 and M. R. Erwin, with 90—12—78, tied for third prize.

O. H. Doing, president of the Washington Golf and Country Club, clicked off a brace of 38's to win low gross prize in the sweepstakes over the week-end.

Second low gross honors went to Eddie Rice, who shot a 79. A. W. Howard, with 86-20—66, captured first low net, and Ward B. McCarthy, with 80-13—67, won second.

Reese Hair, elongated Washington Golf and Country golfer, "aced" the 189-yard ninth hole at his home course Saturday while playing with Ralph S. Fowler, Ward McCarthy and R. T. Harrell.

Hair used a No. 2 iron. His ball dropped about 2 feet from the pin and rolled in.

An informal sweepstakes will be held this afternoon at 1:30 o'clock at Congressional Country Club. A number of Baltimore pros and practically all of the local mentors are expected to compete.

Argyle Country Club turned back the Clifton Park golfers of Baltimore yesterday at the former's course, 11½ to 9½.

Cliff Spencer and Bill Dietz (Argyle), 3 points, and Bill Schrieber and Ed Brown (C. P.), 0; J. B. Harmon and Don Dudley (Argyle), 3, and Dick Arthur and Chick Barton (C. P.), 0; Jack Dudley and Ray Swearingen (Argyle), 2, and Bill Carbis and Lee Tuney (C. P.), 1; Bill Watson and Danny Will (C. P.), 2, and Ray Burgerf and Merle Copoer (Argyle), 1.

This Morning

Combs are surprising to Washington fans who saw Combs romp all over Griffith Stadium after fly balls and cover Ruth's territory, too, as if Babe were on the bench. But it seems that Combs had been the beneficiary of a 20-day rest before the Washington series, and now has slowed down again to the proverbial walk under the stress of daily play and the hot weather. A ball hit between Ruth and Combs these days is good for nothing less than three bases.

But maybe this is all a huge mistake. Maybe I should have waited for the result of today's double-header. Those Yanks have been decently interred a half dozen times this season, only to roll over in their mausoleums and show new vigor, and make monkeys out of guys like me.

Runs, Hits and Errors.

Dave Harris goes hitles for the first time in four games, and the Nats lose for the first time in four games. . . . Dave has coined a new phrase, "As Harris goes, so go the Nats. . . . Al Schacht came into the locker room with a book under his arm yesterday and was accused of putting on the ritz. . . . Put that trash away, Dave Harris told him. . . . You should never read nothing but polysyllabic words. . . . This Higgins had a grand slam off the Washington pitching. . . . He had a triple, double and home run to his credit when he came to bat in the ninth, needing a single to fill out the string. . . . He got it with a hot shot off Burke's glove. . . . He's just about the hardest hitting little guy in the league . . . and is one of the few right-handed hitters to knock a ball over the right-field fence at Griffith Stadium . . . he did that on opening day . . . and got a big hand from F. D. Roosevelt . . . he's the only one of Mack's three prize rookies of 1933 to make good . . . Outfielder Lou Finney has long since gone back to the minors and Outfielder Bob Johnson isn't hitting the ball often enough to suit Mack.

Mackmen Outslug Nats to Score, 12-8

the third, and four times on one in the third and four times on one hit in the sixth. It was that kind of a ball game.

Foxx's homer started the A's off to a four-run uprising in the second inning. Coleman singled, Johnson walked, Higgins tripled, Williams flied to Manush and it was 4-0 in favor of the Athletics.

Washington got a run back in the second by an act of Providence when Johnson lost Sewell's double in the sun and Schulte scored, but Roger Cramer banged a triple off Chapman to start the third and the Rochester rookie was sent to the showers to ponder the difference between the minors and the majors.

Thomas Goes to Slab.

Cronin called Thomas in. Cochran singled, Coleman walked, Higgins doubled and Williams doubled, and it was now 8 to 1 in favor of the A's.

The Nats came up with three runs in their third, thanks to Dib Williams, Myer walked and Manush singled past Higgins when Cronin sent a roller to Williams. His throw to Bishop for a force play skidded into right field, two scored and Cronin reached third, whench he scored, later on Harris' fly.

The game became a contest in the sixth. Cain filled the bases with three walks, meanwhile getting two out, and Connie Mack got Cain out of there. Walberg arrived and proceeded to walk Myer to force a run home. Manush then smacked his three bagger to the top of the right field fence, three more runs scampered home, and it was 8 to 8.

Another Run in Eighth.

In the next inning, Higgins came along with his homer, and it was all over. Walberg's double was turned into another run in the eighth when Jimmy Foxx got a fluke hit to Bluege, and in the ninth, Bobby Burle's perfect throw to second for a force play was ignored by both Cronin and Myer and the A's boosted the score to 12 to 8.

A double in the eighth by pinch hitter Bob Boken, who never advanced beyond second, was the only noteworthy Washington occurrence in these sad closing innings.

Chicubs Shut Out Pirates by 6 to 0

Swetonic Is Pounded Out; Malone Gives 6 Hits; 15,000 Look On.

Chicago, Aug. 6 (AP).—The Chicago Cubs combined a six-hit pitching job by Pat Malone with a big uprising against Steve Swetonic in the fifth inning today to shut out Pittsburgh, 6 to 0, and even up the series.

Swetonic held the Cubs to two singles in the first four innings, but they got the range in the fifth and shelled him out of action, scoring five runs. The other score was accomplished on three hits off his successor, Bill Harris, in the seventh.

Dodgers, Giants Divide Twin Bill

Brooklyn Rallies to Take First, 6-3, But Drops Second by 3-2.

Brooklyn, Aug. 6 (AP).—The Dodgers came from behind to defeat the New York Giants, 6 to 3, in the first game of a double-header today. They threatened to do the same thing in the second, but at a critical moment in the sixth inning, Adolfo Luque, veteran relief pitcher, turned back the assault, then held them for the rest of the contest while the league-leaders won, 3 to 2.

An eighth inning attack ruined Carl Hubbell in the first game. Tony Cuccinello's double with the bases full drove in three runs and lifted the Dodgers from the ruck into the lead. Van Mungo twirled steady ball for Brooklyn.

Night Club Man Slain in Denver; Four Arrested

Two Held Declare Slayer Robbed Them and Dead Man.

Denver, Aug. 6 (A.P.).—Ralph Dunkin, night club manager, was shot to death mysteriously in a North Denver residence today.

Officers said James Hanson and Kenneth Chin, of Kansas City, visitors, informed them Dunkin was killed in a quarrel with an unidentified gunman who later robbed the witnesses, looted Dunkin's pockets and fled by motor car.

Five bullets struck Dunkin, whose body was found by police at the bottom of basement stairs. He came to this city 15 years ago from Atchison, Kans.

Hanson, Chin, Mrs. Nellie Taylor, a resident of the house, and T. S. Riplett, of Kansas City, were taken in custody for questioning and James Reeves, Kansas ex-convict, was sought.

Police said Mrs. Taylor is the wife of Arthur M. Taylor, who is serving a seven-year term in the State penitentiary for the kidnaping of Benjamin P. Bower, Denver bakery official. Bower was held captive several days this spring, but was released without payment of ransom.

Two Are Dead, Pair Dying, 12 Hurt in Crashes

Capital Man Dies in Triple Smashup; Quantico Marine Killed.

Two persons were killed, two men were dying and 12 injured as a result of two automobile accidents yesterday on Virginia roads near Washington.

The dead are:

William Bassett, 43, 1553 Olive street northeast, who died yesterday at Georgetown University Hospital from injuries received in a triple crash on the Lee highway, near Centerville, Va., and R. J. McGonigle, 32, a United States Marine, stationed at Quantico, instantly killed when a car overturned near Colonial Beach.

McGonigle's companion, Byron K. Miller, 21, a Marine, was in a critical condition at Fredericksburg Hospital with internal injuries.

Their car overturned when they attempted to pass a truck to avoid a car parked at the side of the road.

Twelve persons were injured, two seriously, in the crash on the Lee highway in which Bassett was killed.

Two of the cars were driven by Charles Duvall, 704 F street southwest, and C. W. Foote, of Alexandria. Bassett was the driver of the third car.

Police said Duvall's car crashed into the rear of Bassett's, throwing it into a bank and then sideswiped the car driven by Foote.

Bassett's car was destroyed by fire when Mrs. Catherine Sullivan, 1552 Olive street northeast, lighted a match to look for her purse following the accident, igniting gasoline soaked cushions.

Glenn Melvin, 32, of Falls Church, Va., was in Georgetown University Hospital with a fractured skull. He was not expected to live.

The others injured in the crash are:

Mrs. Sullivan, Helen Shirley, 14, of Centerville; Mr. and Mrs. Roy McGee, 641 Maryland avenue northeast; Louise Harding, of Washington; Melvin Nash, 22, 907 Sixth street southwest; Jerry Ruderford, 23, 727 Eighth street southwest, and Charles Phillips, 19, 1000 Seventh street southwest.

Mrs. Sullivan and Miss Shirley remained at Georgetown Hospital. The rest went to their homes after treatment.

Medals Are Cast For Forest Corps

Merit Awards to Civilian Army Members Is Authorized.

Members of the Civilian Conservation Corps, like soldiers of the Regular Army, are to receive decorations for outstanding merit.

Camp commanders, subordinate officers and members of the corps are eligible for the awards, which are being given by the Army and Navy Journal, a service newspaper, if is announced through the War Department.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur, chief of staff, has approved the plan, which carries the indorsement of Robert D. Fechner, head of the Emergency Conservation Corps. Officials are drafting regulations to govern the awards.

The face of the medals will show an oak tree with stars above and leaves beneath. The ribbon of the medal will be green and brown, the forest colors, while the gold clasp will be a replica of the American eagle.

Jameson Resumes His Law Practice

Former Court of Claims Commissioner Joins Kremer Office.

Gullford S. Jameson, who resigned recently as Commissioner of the United States Court of Claims, yesterday announced he has resumed the practice of law. He is associated with the office of J. Bruce Kremer in the Tower Building.

As Commissioner of the Court of Claims, Mr. Jameson heard cases involving approximately $7,000,000 He formerly was associated with the law office of Edward A. Harriman, and for nine years was clerk of the House Judiciary Committee.

Maryland Barn Blaze Damage Put at $3,000

Fire early yesterday destroyed the barn of Mrs. L. E. Poole, at Martinsburg, near Poolesville, Md. The damage was $3,000. Volunteer firemen of the Rockville and Gaithersburg-Washington-Grove departments were unable to cope with the blaze because of water shortage.

The barn, a cow, several pigs and three small outbuildings were destroyed. Mrs. Poole had renewed insurance just three days ago.

Man and Wife Hurt in Crash.

Orrin C. Raider, of 3020 Dent place northwest, received slight injuries to the left leg, and Mrs. Raider was cut on the face in an accident yesterday, near Milestone, Md. The Raider automobile was in collision with a car operated by Peter J. Ellis, of 3409 M street northwest.

Ideal Weather Lures Scores to Fun on Potomac

With ideal weather, canoeists, scores of them, answered the call of the Potomac yesterday. A few of them are pictured above. Below, a man and two maids sail into focus with a cheery "Are-you-going-to-take-our-picture?" for the cameraman.

River Splashed With Color on Cool Sabbath

Boatmen, Fishermen and Swimmers Have a Big Day on Potomac.

All was quiet along the Potomac yesterday. But "dat ole man ribber" was busy just the same.

Watermelon boats briskly pulling into the wharves. Sassy outboards streaking around Hains Point. Fishermen coaxing "cats" and carp from Georgetown channel, Washington channel and Eastern Branch. Swimmers and canoeists everywhere.

It was the first Sunday since the big heat and they converged upon the river from near and far. Weather was ideal. High yesterday was 86, and it seemed 10 degrees cooler, breezes being what they were.

Above Key Bridge, the amphibious motif predominated. The boathouses were a riot of color in the form of gay bathing suits. Some were reported heard on the Virginia side.

During most of the day it was practically impossible to find parking space near Hains Point on either side of the speedway. Motorboats did a pre-1929 business. Fish were plentiful.

Nearly everyone in this section of East Potomac Park had their eyes fixed on the water and its scenery. All save the golfers nearby.

Tumble From Truck Injures Capital Man

Losing his balance and falling to the pavement as he leaned out of a disabled truck being towed last night, Humphrey O'Leary, 26, 1007 East Capitol street, sustained head lacerations and other possible injuries. The accident occurred at Fifth and D streets northwest.

At Emergency Hospital O'Leary's condition was not considered serious, but he was admitted for observation.

Quarrels With Mate, Wife Swallows Poison

Mrs. Evalyn Smith, 19, 1318 Massachusetts avenue northwest, swallowed a small quantity of poison yesterday at her home, police said.

She was taken to Emergency Hospital, where her condition was undetermined. The attempted suicide followed an argument between the woman and her husband, according to police.

Naval Workers Take Pay Fight To White House

Adopt Resolution Against Proposed Wage Slash in Gun Factory.

Machinists and skilled laborers at the Washington Navy Yard are carrying their fight against proposed salary cuts to the President.

About 500 navy yard employes yesterday adopted a resolution protesting the Navy Department's proposal to reduce by 16 2-3 per cent wages in the gun factory, already cut 15 per cent under the economy act. The resolution requests that employes be put on a 30-hour week with pay at the 40-hour week rate.

Walter L. Disbrow and Walter V. Hurley, president and secretary, respectively, of the Columbia Lodge, No. 174, of the International Association of Machinists, and Neil F. Graham and R. B. Kelso, president and secretary of the Metal Trades Association, Washington Navy Yard, signed the resolution, which will be sent to the President.

Four speakers introduced the resolution declaring wage reductions are not consistent with the higher cost of living anticipated under the recovery program.

They were N. P. Alifas, president of District 44 of the National Machinists Association; S. P. Kelvin, vice president of the International Boilermakers Association; E. C. Davison, general secretary-treasurer of the International Association of Machinists, and A. O. Wharton, president of the same organization.

To Stop or Not

Fined $7 for Passing Sign, Motorist Gets Smashed at Next Halt.

Failure to stop at a street intersection yesterday cost Ernest L. Branham, 3145 Sixteenth street northwest, $7. Stopping a few blocks down the street may cost him $25.

Failing to see the stop sign at Rhode Island avenue and Thirty-fourth street northeast, he drove past. Policeman Gene Plummer sped after him and brought him back to the Mount Rainier substation, where he was fined.

Undaunted, Branham resumed his drive. Just as he reached the crossing at Hyatt street and the Baltimore pike the lights changed. He slammed on his brakes and came to a sudden stop. So did James Shorter, of Philadelphia, with his bumper well into the rear of Branham's new coupe.

Branham viewed the damage, estimated to reach $25, philosophically. "To stop, or not to stop—what's a fellow to do?" he wants to know.

Purse-Snatcher Shoots When Victim Fights

Bullet Narrowly Misses Woman Who Strikes Man's Gun Hand.

Police are scouring the city for a nimble-fingered man believed responsible for a wave of purse snatching. He escaped yesterday during a tussle at nineteenth street and Columbia road after he shot at and narrowly missed his intended victim, Miss Elizabeth Burgess, of 3300 Newark street northwest.

Miss Burgess told police a man was walking behind her and she felt her pocketbook being jerked from her hand. She turned and gave battle. Cornered, the man whipped out a revolver, but she knocked his hand upward as it was discharged.

Miss Burgess, who had been struck in the face twice, turned and fled to a nearby apartment building. Her assailent escaped through an alley.

According to Miss Burgess' description of the man, it tallies with a purse snatcher who has been robbing shoppers on fashionable Connecticut avenue. Police say he has a bag strapped on his shoulders to carry his loot.

Woman, Ill, Kills Herself With Gas

Husband Finds Body of Mrs. Martha Early in Kitchen of Home.

Despondent because of ill health, Mrs. Martha Early, 54, of 200 Webster street northwest, committed suicide with illuminating gas yesterday.

Her body was found lying on the kitchen floor of her home by her husband, Bynum Early, who broke through a locked door. He found all of the gas jets of the stove open.

Mrs. Early was pronounced dead by the Fire Rescue Squad. A certificate of suicide was issued by Acting Coroner A. Magruder MacDonald.

Safest "Safe" for Jewels Is Found at Busiest Corner

Traffic Sentry Box Hides Many Valuables; But Baby Is Barred.

By John J. Daly.

Imagine parking a diamond necklace at Fourteenth and F streets, the busiest corner in Washington, and finding it untouched.

Strange as it seems, this corner is the safest place to leave valuables. Safe as a deposit vault in a bank.

The discovery was made by an out-of-town guest at a hotel. One night, fearful her valuables would be stolen, and unable to arouse the clerk, this woman parked her jewel case in the deserted sentry box of the traffic officer. Next morning H. H. Hartman, jovial dean of Washington traffic men, was amazed by a woman asking:

"Are my jewels safe?"

Was the woman crazy?

"There they are," she gasped, reaching near Hartman's feet for a package he had not even seen.

Policeman Hartman told this story to several persons. Of late the great round box in which he stands has been made custodian of many personal parcels.

For instance, some beautiful chorines, rehearsing in a near-by ballroom, stop and leave articles with Hartman.

A fisherman stopped in recently to leave his tackle in care of Hartman.

"I'm sure it'll be here when I get back," the fisherman said. The safest corner in Washington.

Of late, because of the publicity he is receiving, Hartman has been caretaker of many strange bundles.

The only time he ever balked was Saturday afternoon when a lady wanted to leave a baby with him.

"She wanted to go shopping," Hartman said, "and thought it a good idea if I kept the baby amused, watching traffic. It just couldn't be done."

Another thing Hartman doesn't like is people leaving messages for other people.

"They are riding a good thing to death," he said, after a man tried to leave a package for his mother-in-law.

"It might have been a bomb."

Man, 65, Injured By Hit-Run Driver

Maryland Victim Is Believed to Have Broken Skull; Arrest Made.

B. W. Nicholson, 65, of near Colesville, Md., is in a critical condition at Montgomery County General Hospital.

He was struck last night by a hit-and-run driver near his home.

George W. Bellous, colored, of Good Hope, Colesville, Md., was arrested by Montgomery County Policemen Charles Barnes and Jerry Hobbs and taken to the Silver Spring substation where charges of leaving the scene of an accident were preferred against him. Bond was fixed at $500 by Justice of the Peace David Mears.

A relative of Nicholson took the license number of the car and called police. The elderly man was taken to the hospital in a passing automobile. He is believed to have a fractured skull.

Porches Knocked Off In Auto's Wild Dash

A wild ride, during which his car struck a parked auto, careened down the sidewalk for half a block on First street between R and S streets northwest, knocked down two front porches and ended up against a tree, resulted in minor injuries yesterday for Philip C. Geraci, 4613 Ninth street northwest.

Girl Held as Slayer In Killing at Home

Ida Halley, 23, colored, of 631 W street northwest, was charged with murder yesterday following the fatal shooting of Robert E. Jones, 24, colored, of 1231 S street northwest. Jones was shot through the heart in a quarrel at the girl's home.

Girl Diver Hurt Badly in Fall From Horse

Mary K. Maurine's Spine Is Injured in Accident at Resort.

Forsaking the springboard for the saddle yesterday proved a painful venture for Miss Mary K. Maurine, nationally known diver of this city.

Miss Maurine was thrown heavily by a spirited horse, Skirmisher, as she cantered near the beach, at Herald Harbor, Md. The mount shied at a passing automobile.

An Annapolis physician, said Miss Maurine sustained painful, serious spinal injuries. She was removed to the cottage of her host, Detective Sergt. Henry M. Jett.

Miss Maurine is a close friend of Miss Gladys Jett, daughter of Sergt. Jett. The diver, a good horsewoman, was expected to ride in the American Legion Parade Wednesday dressed as a Cossack girl. She lives at 1425 Rhode Island avenue northwest and is a member of the Shoreham Hotel crack swimming team.

Tickets to V. F. W. Fair Being Sold in Hotels

Tickets to the National City Fair now may be obtained from volunteer workers.

Mrs. Ada Minnix, chairman of the police charity organization which is sharing in the proceeds from the sale of tickets, said a crew of volunteer salesgirls will be stationed in the Mayflower, the Willard, the Raleigh and in the Ambassador hotels. The fair will be given during the week of September 3 at Benning under auspices of the Police and Fire Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars. More than 300 attractions are on the program.

Plane Bringing Man to Testify In Theft Case

Illinois Convict Being Sent to Capital to Identify Zimmerman.

A plane roared out of Chicago for Washington last night bearing a convict from Illinois State Penitentiary at Joliet, Illinois authorities informed The Post. He will appear today as a surprise witness against Frank Zimmerman, Illinois bank robbery suspect, who is fighting extradition to the Middle West State.

Sheriff E. J. Welter, of Ottawa, Ill., who came to the Capital in an armored car Friday, to take Zimmerman into custody, indicated last night that the convict was a member of the gang which held up the Union National Bank of Streator, Ill., May 15, 1932.

Identification Held Likely.

The convict will identify Zimmerman as a member of the gang, Welter said. The man's name is being withheld by authorities.

Photos of Zimmerman and another suspect, who has been arrested, also will be presented at the extradition hearing today before Chief Justice Alfred Wheat. When questioned at the District Jail yesterday by the Illinois officers, Zimmerman denied ever knowing the man whom he is shown with in the photo.

In Police Line-Up.

The picture shows Zimmerman and Jacob Pearson in a police line-up in Chicago, where they were being questioned in connection with a holdup.

Pearson, now in Joliet Penitentiary, was apprehended by Sheriff Welter in Boston July 11, 1932. Four days later, while being held in the jail in Ottawa with seven other suspects in the Streator bank robbery, he was released by Zimmerman and a band of gangster friends from Chicago, who are alleged to have descended on the jail with machine guns.

With the apprehension of Zimmerman here last Wednesday, only one of the ten suspects in the robbery remains at large.

Home Loan Bank Post Resigned by Steinhardt

Joseph H. Steinhardt, general solicitor of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, announced last night that he had resigned, effective September 1.

Mr. Steinhardt, of South Orange, N. J., is to resume the practice of law in his State, but will also establish an office in Washington. He has been connected with the Federal Home Loan Bank Board since its creation a year ago.

Autoist Robbed of $150 As He Parks His Car

Alfred M. Ciffreda, of 213 Eleventh street northeast, was robbed of $180 at the point of a revolver early yesterday by two young men who wore handkerchiefs over their faces. He was parking his car in an alley between East Capitol and A streets southeast.

Spurned by Mate, Wife Takes Poison

Condition Serious Following Quarrel While on Auto Ride.

In the presence of her estranged husband, Mrs. Virginia Morris, 20, swallowed two poison tablets last night when her efforts toward reconciliation failed, according to police.

Mrs. Morris, who lives at 3556 Eleventh street northwest, is in a serious condition at Emergency Hospital. She and her husband went riding last night in Rock Creek Park for the purpose of mending their domestic difficulties, according to police.

They stopped to talk. An argument ensued and she walked a few paces from him and swallowed the poison, police said. Her husband, Frank Morris, 26, lives at 4522 Illinois avenue northwest.

Purse and Gems Stolen.

A pocketbook containing jewelry valued at $50 was stolen yesterday from the home of Mrs. Eleanor Stebbins, 1660 Avon place northwest.

Survives Injuries

MRS. MARY GASKINS, 909 Crittenden street northwest, who, despite her 78 years, is recovering from serious injuries received Saturday when she was struck by an automobile.

Woman, Badly Injured, Has Chance to Live

Given Up to Die, Mrs. Gaskins, 78, May Recover From Broken Bones.

A triple fracture of the right leg, a fractured arm and wrist and a badly lacerated scalp are being defeated in a battle for life by Mrs. Mary Gaskins, 909 Crittenden street northwest, despite her 78 years.

Mrs. Gaskins received these injuries Saturday when struck by an automobile at Georgia avenue and Quackenbos street northwest.

Her condition was so critical when she arrived at Garfield Hospital physicians held no hope for her recovery, considering her extreme age.

Hospital officials yesterday reported Mrs. Gaskins had shown "remarkable improvement" and would recover. Her unusually fine health aided her to survive the severe shock of the accident, they said.

John Kennedy, 61, 1341 L street northwest, section manager of a downtown department store, driver of the car, was charged by police with reckless driving and released on $1,000 bond.

Witnesses said Mrs. Gaskins was struck when she stepped from the sidewalk to board a street car.

Parade to Open Church Carnival

St. Anthony's Festival Will Run for Twelve Days, Starting Aug. 12.

A colorful parade through the Brookland and Michigan Park sections will open the annual carnival of St. Anthony's Parish Saturday evening. The carnival, to be held at Twelfth and Monroe streets northeast, will run from August 12 to 23, inclusive.

Residents of the locality have been invited to enter automobiles in the parade and the decoration of the cars has been left to the imagination of the individual owners. However, it is expected that all decorations will develop the "New Deal" theme. St. Anthony's Parish Boys Band will lead the parade.

The conclusion of the parade at Twelfth and Monroe streets will signal the opening of the carnival. Special lighting effects have been worked out to set off the 20 or more features, which include diversified entertainment for adults and children. Dancing will be an innovation at this year's carnival.

Washington Police Get Phone Calls for Moley

Now that Prof. Raymond Moley has taken charge of the Nation-wide battle against kidnaping and racketeering, the operator at police headquarters is beginning to receive long-distance calls for him from persons laboring under the delusion that he will maintain his office there.

Arthur Mullen, assistant to Moley, explained yesterday that Prof. Moley's office will be in the Department of Justice Building. He will also keep his old office at the State Department.

Policeman Jails Trio for Threats

Poolroom Vendetta Is Believed Ended by Arrests Here.

Three Ninth street habitues were arrested for questioning yesterday by headquarters detectives after threats are alleged to have been made against Policeman Uhle Gaile, of the First Precinct.

Gaile, using his service revolver, ended a Ninth street poolroom vendetta several weeks ago, when he shot Charles McAvoy in the hand, after the latter is alleged to have fatally wounded Frank Snow and shot a bystander. McAvoy, still under guard in Gallinger Hospital, was indicted by the District grand jury on the charge of first-degree murder.

The arrests were made by Detective Sergts. J. K. Baker and Larry O'Dea. They were still being questioned late last night. Those held are Norman J. Pryor, 43, 740 Ninth street northwest; Spencer Jones, 24, 813 Massachusetts avenue northeast, and William F. Smith, 30, 2105 L street northwest.

Police Believe Jett Was Killed By Street Car

Foul Play Theory Dropped by Police of Montgomery County.

Wilmer Lee Jett, 23-year-old grocery clerk, met his death last Monday night on the Glen Echo trolley tracks when he stumbled and plunged dazedly into the path of a swiftly moving street car, Montgomery County police were convinced lats night.

At first it was thought Jett had been the victim of foul play.

Both the motorman and conductor of the street car that struck Jett will be summoned before State's Attorney Stedman Prescott this morning. Raymond Lange, host at the party which Jett attended before his death, was kept in custody to be present at the hearing.

Others to be present are three women, a 14-year-old girl and two men who also attended the party. Neighbors of Lange, who steadfastly maintained their faith in him, also will testify.

Detective Theodore Volten, of Montgomery County, said Lange had told the following story:

Jett became intoxicated at the party and was ordered out. Two of the women and Lange walked out with him. On the way to the street car tracks, 100 yards away, Jett slumped. Lange caught him, but was met in a moment with blows to the eye and jaw.

The men fell, Lange retaliating with a blow. Then Lange arose and with the two women started back to the cottage. They turned around after walking a short distance and saw Jett scrambling up an incline to Stop 27.

Detective Volten said he believes that Jett heard the car coming, but in his upset condition stumbled as he neared the tracks and plunged to his death. Whether the investigation is ended is up to State's Attorney Prescott, Volten said.

Knights to Tilt At Marshall Hall

Scores of riding knights from all over Maryland and Virginia are expected to participate Wednesday, August 16, in the forty-ninth annual tournament at Marshall Hall, Md.

The annual tourney, which draws professional and amateur horsemen and their trained charges from various classes of society, will offer many prizes and a large crowd from over the two States is assured.

The tilting starts at 1 o'clock. The speaker will be Hon. J. Frank Parran, and A. D. Langley, veteran manager of the tilting events, is receiving entries of the knights.

The committee on arrangements includes Sheriff Cooksey, E. W. Hungerford and L. C. Addison. The judges will be Benjamin Edelen, John Mathews, Dr. T. J. Higdon, Frank Barnes, George Ferguson, Dr. George Monroe, John Gering, P. P. Williams, Robert Cooksey, Brooke Matthews, Gus Smith.

Hernandez to Lead Army Band's Fete

Guest Conductor Will Play New March for First Time in Public.

A diversified program of instrumental and choral music, interspersed with music visualizations in dance form, will make up the ninth summer festival program, to be given Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock under joint direction of the Community Center Department and the Office of Public Buildings and Public Parks of the National Capital.

The United States Army Band will present the program, assisted by the C. & P. Glee Club of Washington, and by Marian Chace and Lester Shafer, Washington dancers. Capt. William J. Stannard, Army Band leader, who has arranged the program for this open-air event in the Sylvan Theater at the Washington Monument, will present Maj. R. J. Hernandez, U. S. A., retired, as guest conductor when the latter's new march, "The Pride of the Capital," is played for the first time in public by the Army Band.

Robert H. Davidson, conductor of the C. & P. Glee Club, will offer four numbers in this program, with M. B. Reynolds as accompanist. The glee club is composed of 25 men, the club having achieved an outstanding reputation in the four or five years of its existence, and has been heard in many indoor concerts. The club sang last summer in one of the summer festival programs, but this will be its first appearance with the Army Band.
